TERROR GRIPS SHANGHAI; HURL BOMBS AT JAPS

Assassins Roam City on War Anniversary.

SHANGHAI, July 7 [Thursday].—(AP)—Exploding bombs and assassins' bullets today ushered in the first anniversary of China's armed resistance to Japanese invaders and threw the international settlement into turmoil. Two Japanese and two Chinese were killed. A British colonial soldier and four Chinese were wounded.

Three bombs were thrown simultaneously at a Japanese sentry post on Garden bridge, at a floating restaurant off the bund which is used as Japanese gendarme headquarters, and at the Yokohama Specie bank branch, also on the bund.

Police reserves and foreign defense units immediately were called out to guard against more serious outbreaks of terrorism in China's commercial capital.

A cordon quickly was thrown around the foreign area, blocking all trafic between the international settlement and Japanese occupied territory.

Japanese Assassinated.

An unidentified Japanese riding a bicycle in the international sector guarded by United States marines was shot and killed. His assassin escaped.

In Japanese occupied West Hongkew, a part of Shanghai, a Japanese sentry was shot and killed by three Chinese who threw a hand grenade at a Japanese sentry post.

Three bombs were tossed against a Japanese cotton mill on the settlement outskirts and a few moments later three more bombs exploded in the mill's living quarters. One British Sikh colonial soldier was wounded.

Meanwhile, Japanese reported new gains over Chinese armies defending the Yangtze river approach to Hankow, China's provisional capital. Bombers ranging ahead of ground forces were said to have sunk twelve Chinese troop-laden junks near Kiukiang, 135 miles downstream from Hankow. Kiukiang is the immediate objective of the invaders.

WAR STARTS SECOND YEAR

BY GILBERT TWISS.

A year ago today [July 7, 1937] a clash between Chinese and Japanese troops near the Marco Polo bridge ten miles west of Peking [then Peiping] brought on what is known in Japan as the "China Incident."

Leaders of the two nations today each charged that the other side was responsible for the conflict.

In Tokio Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe declared:

"Japan was forced against her will into the conflict. The fundamental causes for the hostilities lie in China's sytematically organized education in anti-Japanism under the leadership of Chiang Kai-shek. Japan's objectives are to remove obstacles blocking everlasting peace in this hemisphere and free China from the menace of communism."

"Will Not Be Conquered."

In Hankow Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said:

"China will not be conquered. A year ago the cruel greed of our neighbor forced our government beyond the limit of endurance and plunged our unprepared and peace loving people into war. We are fighting for our existence. It is to survive as a nation and guarantee peace for our people that we are struggling and will continue to struggle."

After a year of war Japan exerts nominal control over all of North China, much of Inner Mongolia, much of Central China, and all major seaports except Canton, Swatow, and Foochow.

Control Most of Railroads.

The Japanese have extended a Yangtze river drive to Hukow, within 160 miles of Hankow, the Chinese provisional capital. They control navigation on the Yangtze for 450 miles from the sea. They control 4,000 of the 6,000 miles of Chinese railroads—all important lines except one from Canton to Hankow and one from Yunnan province to French Indo-China. They control the main highway systems within occupied territory.

But, Japan had expected the war to last only six months. In contrast with the cheap, short campaigns which won Manchuria [now Manchukuo] in 1931-'32 and Jehol province in 1933, Japan has found it necessary to

HOLDS REMOVAL BY ROOSEVELT IS ILLEGAL ACT

Demands Return to Job, Back Pay.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 6.—[Special.]—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan filed suit here late today challenging the right of President Roosevelt to remove him from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley authority.

The suit, filed in the Knox county court, asked that Dr. Morgan be recognized as a member and chairman of the board of directors of the federal agency.

En route from his home in Yellow Springs, O., to Philadelphia tonight, Dr. Morgan said he would carry his fight for reinstatement to the Supreme court. He declared the TVA act was not intended to give any President power to remove board members.

Ousted Last March.

Dr. Morgan, a nationally prominent engineer and former college president, was ousted by the President last March 22. His removal was based on the grounds that he had unjustifiably charged his two fellow directors with dishonesty, that he had obstructed the work of the authority, and that he had refused to submit to the President the basis for his accusations.

Dr. Morgan never has recognized the President's right to remove him and numerous persons questioned Mr. Roosevelt's authority for the ouster on the grounds as stated. At the time the action was taken it was predicted the question would be carried to the Supreme court for final determination.

Asks for Back Salary.

In the bill, which named the TVA and Directors H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal as defendants, the former chairman asked for payment of back salary since his dismissal. He also seeks a declaratory judgment voiding the President's removal order and forcing the other two directors to recognize him as their chairman.

The suit came on the eve of a congressional investigation of the TVA resulting from Dr. Morgan's charges of dishonest management against his former associates.

The former chairman insisted from the outset of the controversy that a congressional inquiry of the agency should be made. He refused to support his accusations with testimony at a hearing called by the President prior to his dismissal.

Charged with Contumacy.

In ousting Dr. Morgan President Roosevelt flung at him the unusual charge of contumacy. The word is defined by the dictionary as pertinacious resistance to authority, or being willfully disobedient to the order of summons of a court, or committing willful contempt of court.

Legal authorities said the term cannot properly be applied in the case of a person conducting an investigation—such as the unprecedented personal inquiry into the affairs of the TVA that Mr. Roosevelt was making at the time. These authorities said the term pertains solely to contempt of court.

At a preliminary inquiry into Dr. Morgan's dismissal conducted by a congressional committee a few days after it took place, the former chairman told the story he refused to tell to the President.

LADY GODIVA TRIUMPHS ANEW; CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR IN HOSPITAL

TEDDINGTON, England, July 6.—(AP)—A bystander who attempted to pull a modern Lady Godiva from her white horse in a charity fête here today was knocked down and beaten by an angry crowd.

Mirabelle Muller, attired in flesh colored tights and a long flaxen wig, was grabbed about the waist by an unidentified man who shouted, "This is supposed to be a God fearing country!"

He almost tore her from the stirrups before the crowd pinned him to the ground. He was taken to a hospital. The girl, somewhat shaken, continued to ride serenely.

ASKS MIDNIGHT CURFEW IN CITY; 18 YEARS LIMIT

A resolution calling for the drafting of a curfew ordinance to apply to persons less than 18 years of age was introduced in the city council yesterday by Ald. Edwin F. Meyer [45th]. The ordinance would require boys and girls to be in their homes by midnight every night except Saturday, when they might remain out until 1 a. m.

The resolution suggested that a fine be the penalty for violation of the proposed ordinance. Children accompanied by their parents or guardians would not be subject to the curfew regulation.

Meyer's proposal was greeted with snickers from other aldermen. He then stated it was no laughing matter and said such an ordinance would reduce juvenile delinquency by keeping young boys and girls off the streets in the late hours. The proposal was referred to the council judiciary committee.

Holt Charges Political Use of WPA Funds

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—Senator Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.] today made public 16 charges that the Works Progress administration was being used for political purposes in West Virginia.

The allegations were published in the Congressional Record and Senator Holt said they were substantiated by records in his possession.

"I have tried to have officials of the Works Progress administration clean up relief in West Virginia," Holt said. "Instead of cleaning up relief, the officials have coöperated with those who are misusing the federal funds."

The West Virginian said when he first demanded in the senate that the situation be investigated "smear artists, paid out of the treasury of the federal government, circulated stories that I was not sincere in the expose of the WPA."

Lists 16 Charges.

"1. The needy have been deprived of relief because the money is being spent to pay the high salaries and expenses of political employés.

"2. Wealthy men are drawing WPA funds because of their political influence.

"3. Those employed on relief have been discharged for political reasons.

"4. Individuals have been deprived of relief jobs until they could get the proper political indorsements.

Participate in Political Meetings.

"5. Relief workers have been taken from their work to participate in political conventions and meetings.

"6. Communities have been punished by being deprived of projects because of politics.

"7. Nonresidents of West Virginia have been given high salaries on the WPA staf because of their connections with those who would aid politically.

"8. Individuals have been added to the WPA rolls before the elections and discharged immediately after election.

"9. WPA employés who refused to donate money for campaign purposes have been dismissed.

U. S. Pays Political Expenses.

"11. Traveling expenses of WPA officials who were on political missions have been paid by the federal government.

"12. Marked ballots were given WPA workers.

"13. Relief clients were told that a certain public official had given them jobs and that, if it had not been for the named individual, they would not get WPA checks.

"14. Contracts for equipment have been awarded the politically influential.

"15. Individuals drawing WPA checks have had their salaries increased after they had taken an active part in political campaigns.

BRIDE FOUND AMONG STRAWBERRIES GIVES ALEX THE RASPBERRY

St. Louis, Mo., July 6.—(AP)—It was the romance—not the berries—that jelled for Alex Schwartz, who found a bride in a box of strawberries.

Back in April, the huckster related, he discovered a note in a box of fruit telling of the loneliness of Loree Shaw, 18 years old.

He wrote, enclosing his picture. She did likewise. Last Saturday Schwartz, who is 33 years old, and Loree were married at Searcy, Ark., near her home. But after the ceremony the bride and her parents had a talk. She left with them and did not return.

POPPS GUN FOR KIDNAPERS; AIM, LUCKILY, IS BAD

The Popps—George, 77 years old; his daughter, Laura, and two sons, Frank and Andrew—live a secluded life on their 350 acre farm on Long Grove-Arlington Heights road, three miles west of Wheeling in Lake county. Their home is scantily furnished, but they are reputed to be wealthy.

A year ago three men robbed the elder Popp and his daughter of $5,000. Last Nov. 6 Popp and his two sons battled three kidnapers and finally routed them with a shotgun blast.

So when an automobile containing several men drove into their farm yard early yesterday the Popps grabbed their guns and fired three shots. But, as the elder Popp told police later, the men weren't robbers or kidnapers but friends from Evanston who were bringing them a watchdog. None of Andrew's shots hit the car.

Heat Equals City's Record for Year; Mercury at 88

Chicago's heat record for 1938 was equaled yesterday when the mercury climbed to 88 at 3 p. m. The same mark was touched on June 23 and May 3. At Chicago airport, away from the cooling influence of the lake, 94 was registered yesterday. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted thundershowers for today.

U. S. Heiress to Horlick Riches Dies in Canada

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, heiress to many millions from the estate of her father, founder of the Horlick Malted Milk company, died here today. Her death occurred in the big brick mansion of W. Perkins Bull, a Toronto attorney and financier. She had been residing in the Bull home, known as Lorne hall, for more than a year. Mrs. Sidley's former husband died in 1936. Mr. Bull is a widower.

Bartle Bull, the eldest of Mr. Bull's sons, married Miss Rosemary Baur, daughter of Mrs. Jacob Baur of Chicago. His brother, Michael, is the husband of Noreen Hennessy, daughter of Baron Windlesham [Sir George Hennessy], a wealthy Englishman.

Mrs. Sidley, who was born and reared in Racine, Wis., was 61 years old. At the request of her son, William Sidley, who was with her when she died, a post-mortem examination was made.

Spinal Lesion Results in Death.

Three of Toronto's foremost pathologists, Dr. W. L. Robinson, Dr. G. W. Lougheed, and Dr. Eric Linell, agreed that death was due to natural causes. Mrs. Sidley had suffered from a form of paralysis which attacks the respiratory organs, but the physicians said death was due directly to a lesion of the spinal cord that brought on œdema of the brain.

Relatives of Mrs. Sidley explained that the autopsy was performed because the ailment with which she was afflicted was comparatively rare and had been puzzling to doctors who attended her. Her acquaintances here said she had lived almost a life of retirement in Lorne hall, where Bull is engaged in writing a history of the Church of England in New Brunswick.

Shared Father's Millions.

The amount of Mrs. Sidley's fortune is not definitly known. Her father, William Horlick of Racine, died two years ago. He was 90 years old. His will specified that, after certain minor bequests, the remainder of his estate should be placed in trust for Mrs. Sidley and her two brothers, A. J. Horlick and William Horlick Jr. Each was to share alike.

At the time of the elder Horlick's death his friends estimated his wealth at between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000. The inventory for tax purposes showed more than $16,000,000. Mrs. Sidley's share of the estate, however, did not fully represent her wealth, as she was considered wealthy without the inheritance.

There was much speculation about her will and her beneficiaries. Her son, who declined to make a statement, left for Racine tonight. It is expected that Mrs. Sidley will be buried in Racine. Her will probably will be probated there, as Racine still was her legal residence.

Educated in Private Schools.

Mrs. Sidley was educated in private schools in Racine and Kenosha, Wis., and later in France. As a young woman she traveled extensively. She was an enthusiastic supporter of explora-

LANDON BLAMES ROOSEVELT RULE FOR DEPRESSION

Demands Change in Present Methods.

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 6.—[Special.]—The present depression is purely political and was brought on by methods and policies of the Roosevelt administration, Alf M. Landon charged in an address here this evening.

His speech was a reply to President Roosevelt's recent fireside address which the 1936 Republican presidential nominee characterized as "the New Deal version of why we have 12 million people unemployed."

Landon spoke over a nation-wide radio broadcast in making the first of a series of speeches he plans to give during the coming congressional campaign.

Rips Fiscal Recklessness.

He admonished Mr. Roosevelt to practice what he preaches and struck particularly at what he called financial recklessness and the use of WPA money to buy votes. He declared the President is adept at using beautiful words that have an emotional appeal "for the purpose of creating a smoke screen to hide his administration blunders."

"All Americans worthy of the name, regardless of political party," Landon said, "have one thing uppermost in their minds today. They want to see recovery. They want to see a return of prosperity. They want to see happy men back on their jobs. And, frankly, I don't believe they care which party does it—if they will just do it!"

Unless the President's methods and policies are changed the country will be right back in another depression as soon as the government spending splurge is over, the Republican leader said.

Charges Beclouding of Issue.

He charged that Mr. Roosevelt had attempted to divert the issue of social progress and is attempting to show that all who oppose him are definitly aligned against social reforms.

"All who do not believe in putting political bosses in charge of WPA are dubbed reactionaries," Landon said. "All those who believe financial unsoundness and instability threaten freedom and civil liberties are just hard boiled conservatives to him."

He declared that because the President has not been successful in restoring employment he adopts the strategy of nagging business. He said: "We do not want this government to be constantly edging toward a governmental absolutism, which is the case under Mr. Roosevelt."

Points Way to Coöperation.

"I think that Mr. Roosevelt can count on the active coöperation and support of virtually all Republican citizens in this country in all the humanitarian things he is trying to do," Landon declared, "but we will not condone corruption and trickery on the part of his advisers and assistants merely because the ultimate aim is good.

"Let Mr. Roosevelt only practice what he preaches and we will not only coöperate with him—we will fight shoulder to shoulder to achieve the social progress and the economic recovery which we all desire and need."

Praises Roosevelt Courage.

At the outset of his speech former Gov. Landon praised President Roosevelt for his "courage and coolness" in the early days of his administration. He also explained that his address was in reply to the President's recent fireside chat.

"In that speech Mr. Roosevelt gave you his side," Mr. Landon said. "Now I wish to review the other side. In all fairness I think we all agree there is usually more than one side to every question.

"Perhaps the best help we can give the President the help he asks—and I hope he means help for our country, and not merely for his own party faction—is to present the viewpoint of those who have predicted all along the present business depression—the viewpoint of those who have tried to tell Mr. Roosevelt for the last four years where he was headed."

Mr. Landon argued that the present depression is the result of Roosevelt policies. "During the last election there were 17 million people who voted against the present administration. I think if you take a poll of these 17 million people you will find that an overwhelming majority of them believe in collective bargaining, but they believe in making it work. They believe in social security, but they believe in making it work. They believe in unemployment insurance. They believe in relief—relief to the needy and unemployed, but not the financing of a vast political machine under the false label of relief. They believe in a better distribution of wealth created, in raising the standard of living, and a great many other social reforms.

Charges Diversion of Issue.

"If you don't believe this, just ask any of your friends who are rank and file Republicans. The point I want to emphasize is, that regardless of what is said, you know and I know that America had decided these issues. Regardless of what party comes into power, they will have to be carried forward, because the majority of all our people want them. But they want them to work.

"Mr. Roosevelt attempts to divert the issue. He attempts to show that all who oppose him are just as definitly aligned against these social reforms. All who do not believe in putting political bosses in charge of WPA are dubbed reactionaries. All those who believe financial unsoundness and instability threaten freedom and civil liberties are just hard-boiled conservatives to him.

"The President seems to feel that all he has to do is wave the flag and shout: 'All liberals on this side.' It is not quite as simple as that.

Defines "Real Liberal."

"There are some very fundamental differences between practical progressive thought and the liberalism the President practices.

"Every liberal recognizes that new conditions throughout the world call for new practical remedies. Every liberal wants a sound, strong government, capable of meeting these new conditions. But we do not want this government to be constantly edging toward a governmental absolutism, which is the case under Mr. Roosevelt.

"The real liberal doesn't believe that the whole solution lies in taking economic power away from the individual and giving it to the government. Of course, if the people must decide between the concentration of economic power in the hands of a few individuals, or its concentration in the government, they will take the government.

"But thousands upon thousands of liberals do not agree that the only choice is between these two roads.

Points to Third Road.

"There is a third road. It is the truly liberal road. These thousands of liberals believe social control is necessary. But they believe it must be control by law, under definite principles within the framework of the American constitutional system.

"They do not believe this control can be exercised with social justice and fairness by powerful boards and commissions given the right to rule by arbitrary decree. Control by arbitrary boards not only threatens individual rights, but it permits favoritism which always is the foundation of a political machine.

"True liberals would scatter economic power. They would not centralize it in one man's hands, whether he be President of the United States or president of some mighty corporation. They see before their own eyes what is going on in Germany, Italy, and Russia, where the state is master, not only of the business man, but of the farmer, the laboring man, the housewife, and the church.

Cites Loss of Freedom.

"In the last five years we have lost much economic freedom in this country. For example, in order to get federal crop insurance farmers have got to comply with allotment provisions of the new agricultural act after the first year. Certainly that is using pressure; certainly that is regimentation. Every one recognizes control of the ballot through WPA, and no longer do citizens of all sections of the nation enjoy freedom of speech.

"True liberals do not wish to see the Supreme court undermined by irregular short cuts. If the President was sound in his conception of liberalizing the constitution, instead of belittling the justices of the Supreme court, he should have used his great prestige to amend the constitution to facilitate the adoption of new amendments to meet new conditions.

"Neither does any true liberal want to see a loose fiscal policy blast away the gains we have made toward needed social and economic reforms. They know that Mr. Roosevelt spoke the truth a number of years ago in his oft-quoted: 'Liberal governments are too often wrecked on the rocks of a loose fiscal policy.'

Raps Relief Administration.

"It seems to me that the American people have the right to demand something more than they're getting. They've got the right to expect common sense intelligence and the application of honesty in the running of our government.

"Every one knows that the administration of national relief in this country has been a disgrace, and the 17 million people who voted against the present administration predicted that it would be—not because the Democratic party was handling it, but because of the methods and policies by which it was handled, regardless of what party was in power.

"Any one who has read the facts in regard to social security knows that the working people in this country who have been taxed to establish it will have to be taxed all over again when the time comes to pay it, because the government is spending our social security taxes as fast as they are received, chiefly to meet current expenses.

Assails Business Nagging.

"The wage and hour bill was so drafted that whatever party is in power can play politics with it.

"Because Mr. Roosevelt has not been successful in restoring employment, he adopts the strategy of nagging at business. He is adept at using beautiful words which appeal to the emotions, for the purpose of creating a smoke screen to hide his administration blunders.

"He speaks of balancing the financial budget by talking about the natural and human resources of the nation. He speaks of a 'long range sheet which shows survival values for our population and for our democratic way of living, balanced against what we have paid for them.'

"For six years the chief executive has repeatedly emphasized the necessity of balancing the nation's financial outgo and income. Now are we to assume from his recent New York speech that he has given up the attempt?

Uses President's Own Test.

"However, I am more than willing to make the test the President suggested—the test in human values. Has he raised the standards of living for all our people, with millions on relief still without decent jobs? Has he made the future more secure for those now living and for future generations? Has he restored the nation to a lasting prosperity? If he has, it would be worth the price, high though it is.

"But he has done none of these things. Can we say the human budget is balanced when there are as many unemployed as there were when he came into office? Isn't there just as much suffering, and unhappiness, and misery as when he was elected? He has spent our money, and what do we have to show for it?

"Will he be able to grin when the day of reckoning comes; when the inevitable readjustment of financial income and outgo takes place? What's more important, will the American people, present and future, be able to grin and bear it?

Sees Evidence of Failure.

"Evidence of the failure of the New Deal is all about us today. Security and farm prices have experienced, during the last five years, the sharpest fluctuations in history. Never before have prices and industrial production fallen so sharply in so short a time as between last fall and this spring.

"Much has been said by the President about the dark days of 1932. Yet in the first 24 weeks of 1932—as bad as conditions were then—railroad car loadings were greater than in the same period of this year. Railroad car loadings in the first 24 weeks of this year were 25 per cent less than in the same period last year.

"Today industrial production has fallen to approximately 75 per cent of the 1923-'25 average. In other words, despite the growth of population, our industrial output, as measured by the federal reserve authorities, is only three-fourths of what it was 13 to 15 years ago.

"Even in terms of national income the picture is anything but a bright one. Mr. Roosevelt, in his recent fireside chat, seemed to derive some satisfaction, in face of the present depression, out of a report he had received that the national income of all our people this year would total 60 billion dollars. He compared that figure with a fictitious figure of 38 billion dollars in 1932. In the 1936 campaign Mr. Roosevelt used this same fictitious figure for the national income of 1932.

"It is today just as much a distortion as it was two years ago. The commerce department reports that in 1932 the national income paid out totaled 48 billion dollars. Consequently, the national income estimated by the President for this year is only 12 billion dollars in excess of that at the end of the world-wide depression of 1929 to 1932. Mr. Roosevelt does not boast that the income estimated for this year is almost 20 billion dollars less than that of 1929.

Stresses Need for Change.

"What should disturb all of us is the fact that this year, for the first time since such figures have been recorded, the national income is receding again before having reached a new high point. In other words, forward progress has ceased for the first time without having set a new high mark.

"Certainly, things are wrong in this country today, just as they were in the 1920s. It is obvious to all that we need a change, and we need a change in something far more fundamental than mere changing of political parties. We need a fundamental change in our attitude toward life and government. We need above all else a rebirth of public morality—'a new national avowal that public office is a public trust.'

"As long as we are resigned to crookedness and waste in government we will continue to have wasteful government.

Demands End of Abuses.

"We will never have fundamental economic recovery unless spiritual recovery goes with it. We will never eliminate abuses of government until we arouse moral indignation and fight for what's right because it's right.

"At the moment we are in the midst of a business depression. Our most important immediate job is to get out of this business depression.

"It is the responsibility of the President to inspire confidence, not only in one class, but in all classes; and when you find the small business men, the working people, and the farmers in this country fearful of conditions, there must be something wrong.

"We are, of course, willing to do anything we can to help our country out of this depression; but we predict that unless there is a change in the President's methods and policies, we will be right back in another depression as soon as the government spending splurge is over. This has already happened once and it must be obvious that it will happen again unless confidence is restored and political abuses corrected.

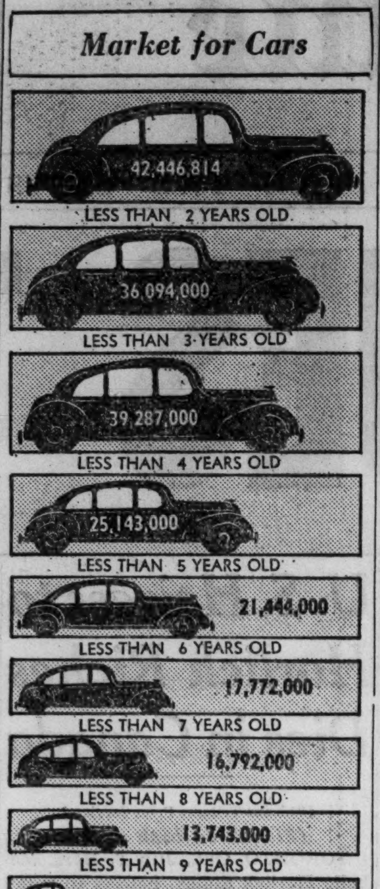
Gives Basis for Coöperation.

"I think Mr. Roosevelt can count on the active coöperation and support of practically all Republican citizens in this country in all the humanitarian things he is trying to do. But we will not condone corruption and trickery on the part of his advisers and assistants, merely because the ultimate aim is good.

"But, first, let Mr. Roosevelt abandon the confusion and contradiction that has marked so much of his administration. Let him realize again that the greatest peril to social reform is financial recklessness. Let him make another determined effort to eliminate waste and extravagance, as he did in 1933.

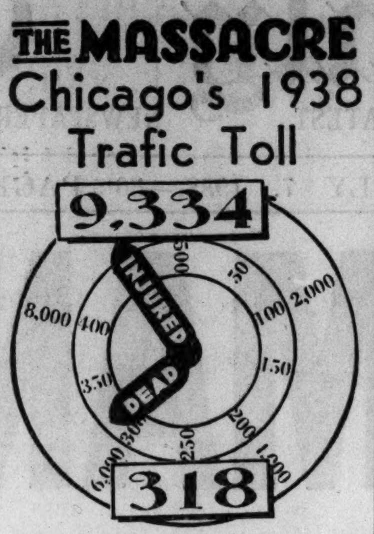
"Let him cease his nagging attacks on business. Let him, instead, undertake to bring about an harmonious working relationship between industry and labor and between them and the public. Let him make a real effort to dissolve monopoly instead of fostering it. Let Mr. Roosevelt foreswear all further attempts to tamper with the Supreme court and to get power into his own hands. Let him put a stop to the use of WPA money to buy votes.

"In short, let Mr. Roosevelt only practice what he preaches, and we will not only coöperate with him—we will fight shoulder to shoulder with him to achieve the social progress and the economic recovery which we all desire and need."



Census by age of the world's motor vehicles based on annual sales, production, and operations.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Nearly one-third of the world's total of 42,446,814 cars, trucks and buses are eight years old or older, a census published in the current overseas edition of the American Automobile shows. The magazine concluded that this one-third is a potential replacement market awaiting American manufacturers with an upturn in world economics.



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

KIN OF SWEITZER IS STRUCK AND INJURED BY AUTO

Mrs. William Sweitzer, a sister-in-law of the late Robert M. Sweitzer, political leader, suffered a broken shoulder yesterday when struck by an automobile near her home at 3336 Washington boulevard. The car was driven by Peter Berg of 3325 Warren avenue.

Several passengers on a West Town street car were shaken when an automobile careened into the car after colliding with another machine at Oak Park avenue and Roosevelt road in Berwyn. The drivers of the automobiles were uninjured.

Werner Conners, 25, 6219 South Menard avenue, was seriously injured last night and six other persons received minor injuries in a collision among three automobiles during a trafic light change at 59th street and Ashland avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 412 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 318 were killed in Chicago, where 9,334 were injured in the same period.

INVITE VAN NUYS TO HELP WRITE STATE PLATFORM

Indiana Senator to Attend Caucus.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys was invited today to meet with the committee drafting the platform to be presented to next Tuesday's Democratic state convention. This move was interpreted as additional evidence of the new fealty Gov. M. Clifford Townsend's statehouse machine is exhibiting toward the senator, after opposing him for almost a year.

Although the governor has not amplified the statement he made Monday, when he sent a telegram to Senator Van Nuys inviting him to become a candidate for renomination at the convention, the Democratic politicians here are coming around to the point of view that Townsend's act was a complete backdown.

Decides to Attend Convention.

The senator was on his way here from Walloon Lakes, Mich., where he was resting when he received the governor's invitation. He had intended to ignore the convention, because the governor will control 85 per cent of the delegates, but when the bid came, Van Nuys immediately changed his plans.

Senator Van Nuys is expected to confer here tomorrow with the governor, Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman, and his colleague, Senator Sherman Minton. His invitation to confer with the platform committee is for Friday.

Opposes Two Bills.

Since he was dumped originally by the statehouse machine because of his opposition to President Roosevelt's Supreme court packing plan, and later also opposed the reorganization bill, the request for Senator Van Nuys' advice on the drafting of the platform is considered significant.

His friends believe the senator would not subscribe to any draft of the convention's beliefs which included praise of the President because of his stand on questions.

TAMMANY DEFIES WHITE HOUSE ON PURGE PROGRAM

Will Help Roosevelt Foes in Race for Congress.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—The Ancient Society of Tammany, which plumped for Roosevelt in the 1932 and 1936 presidential contests, has decided to ignore the White House purge of nonconformist Democrats and support congressmen who opposed cherished schemes of the administration.

Meeting in Tammany hall, the colonial brick structure fronting on Union square which serves as the wigwam for Tammany braves, slatemakers today turned a deaf ear to demands that they read out representatives who voted against the government reorganization measure or publicly assailed the Supreme court packing bill.

The demands came from the Washington elimination committee headed by Thomas [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran, speech writer and trusted White House adviser.

Will Support O'Connor.

Tammany leaders agreed to support Congressman John J. O'Connor, fiery red-headed chairman of the powerful house rules committee, who led the fight against the reorganization bill, clothing the executive branch of the government with dictatorial powers.

The other Manhattan congressmen who declared themselves against the bill also were indorsed in the conferences and their nomination, with the weight of the organization behind them, is expected in the September primary.

Another development growing out of the Tammany hall conferences was the decision to attempt to overthrow James J. Hines, upper Manhattan district leader and chief federal patronage dispenser here.

Hines' Defeat Forecast.

Hines, who is under indictment on graft charges obtained by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, has capitalized on the periodical spats between Tammany and Washington to add to his pay roll army. Many observers say Hines will be dethroned as political czar of the Harlem and Columbia university district as a result of the fall elections.

The Corcoran elimination committee at first decided to pit Elinore M. Herrick, regional director of the National Labor Relations board, against Congressman O'Connor in the primary, according to dispatches from Washington.

But an informal poll of O'Connor's district, which lies in the middle east side of Manhattan, where Tammany Hall is located, changed the minds of the elimination committee. Congressman O'Connor's district has a large Irish population and his fight against the dictatorial reorganization bill added to his strength, this survey showed.

Nominated on C. I. O. Ticket.

So last week Mrs. Herrick, whose decisions on behalf of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization have been attacked by the American Federation of Labor as unfair, was named as the candidate for lieutenant governor on the American Labor party ticket. The American Labor party is accepted generally as an adjunct of the C. I. O.

Another congressman who has been outspoken against the trend in Washington is Martin J. Kennedy. He will be renominated, probably without opposition, by the Tammany organization.

One of the changes in the Tammany front is the retirement of Congressman John J. Boylan, veteran of eight congressional sessions. Tammany will put up as his successor Michael J. Kennedy, youthful district leader, who was the closest associate of the late John J. Dooling, head of Tammany Hall.

Leads Fight Against Farley.

Kennedy fought the battle for the ailing Dooling two years ago when National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley attempted to capture the city's party machine.

The split between Tammany and the federal administration was the second important development within the week, the Labor party action being the first.

On the same slate adorned by Mrs. Herrick's name, the Labor party selected Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and vice chairman of the C. I. O., as the candidate to fill the short term vacancy resulting from the death of United States Senator Royal S. Copeland. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, previously supported by the American Labor party, had declared himself a candidate for the post several weeks ago.

The Labor party action cracked for the first time in six years the united front which has backed Roosevelt and aided in sweeping his candidates for New York state offices to victory.

FLYING TACKLE THROWS ROBBER FOR $1,000 LOSS

Seizes Pay Roll from Girl in Street.

A flying tackle by a parking lot attendant brought down a young robber yesterday afternoon as he fled west of the loop after seizing a $1,000 pay roll. The tackle was so well executed that the robber was still rolling in the street when his victim, a young woman, ran up and pounced on him.

Melvin Walker, who got his man.

The bandit, David Ogul, 19 years old, told police he had no address. He was watching the doors of the American National Bank and Trust company, 33 North La Salle street, when he saw Miss Marion Altshul, 25 years old, 4459 North Kedzie avenue, come out. She had just withdrawn $1,000 for her employers, the Debutante Frocks of Chicago, 225 South Market street, and was carrying the money in a paper package.

Pretends to Have Pistol.

Ogul came up to her at Franklin and Quincy streets, a block away from her office. With one hand in his pocket, as if he held a pistol, Ogul ordered:

"Let go of that package or I'll shoot."

Miss Altshul clutched the package tighter and screamed. Ogul slapped her face. He seized the package and ran north. Miss Altshul ran after him, shouting "Robber!"

Faints After Catching Up.

Ogul ran to a parking lot at Franklin and Monroe streets and cut through. As he reached Wells street, near Adams street, he was brought down with a crash by a football-minded attendant, Melvin Walker, 29, of 752 North Long avenue. Miss Altshul ran up, jumped on Ogul, snatched the package, and then fainted.

Detectives Arthur Essert and Edward Spiegel arrived a few minutes later and took Ogul to the Central station.

ARREST REGIONAL CHIEF OF C.I.O. IN MAYTAG STRIKE

4 Indictments Returned; Renew Plea for Troops.

Newton, Ia., July 6.—[Special.]—William Sentner of St. Louis, regional director of the Committee for Industrial Organization, was arrested here tonight on indictments returned late today by the Jasper county grand jury in connection with the strike at the Maytag Washing Machine company plant.

The jury was reported to have returned four indictments, each naming more than one defendant, in the strike trouble that has kept this city in a state of tension since May 9.

Charges and the names of defendants were not divulged pending arrests. Warants were issued immediately and Sentner was the first of the defendants taken into custody. He was charged on two counts with criminal syndicalism and held in jail when friends were unable to locate the court clerk to post $6,000 bail.

Block Jail Delivery.

John Carey of New York, national president of the United Radio, Electrical, and Machine Workers' union, addressing a massmeeting of Maytag workers tonight, dissuaded some of the hotter headed members from an attempt to liberate Sentner from jail by force.

Earlier today efforts were made to have Gov. Nels G. Kraschel act on a request for National Guard troops, following the first violence in the labor trouble and the strikers' defiance of the governor's recommendations.

It appeared for a time that 400 men would clash in a free for all fight. One was knocked unconscious and another was pushed about and his clothes torn.

About 200 workers who want to end the strike and return to their jobs assembled this morning two blocks from the factory. C. I. O. pickets numbering 600 or 700 milled about the plant, guarding all entrances.

Two Roughly Handled.

As the back to work group started marching toward the factory, an equal number of strikers moved out to meet them. It appeared they would clash but just before they met policemen induced the workers to give up their attempt to enter the plant today.

About the time the battle was averted, two workmen tried to pass through the picket line at an entrance some distance away. They were set upon by pickets who knocked one unconscious and roughly handled the other. Office workers who have been permitted to enter the plant daily were stopped today.

After the disorder, Attorney A. M. Miller, counsel for the back to work group, numbering in all about 600 men, telephoned details of the incident to Gov. Kraschel, who had requested that the C. I. O. permit the plant to resume operations today.

Late tonight the union rejected Gov. Kraschel's recommendation that the men accept the 10 per cent wage cut and return to their jobs pending arbitration of other differences.

The union meeting adopted a resolution asking the chief justice of the Iowa Supreme court to appoint a fact finding commission to review the case.

Robbed of Jewels

[Acme Photo.]

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD III.

Lloyd Harbor, N. Y., July 6.—[Special.]—State police today were investigating a $15,000 jewel robbery in the Long Island home of Mrs. Marshall Field III. The jewelry, a necklace, ring, and bracelet, were taken early Sunday from a dressing table where Mrs. Field, wife of the Chicago mercantile heir, had placed them before retiring. The intruders, it was reported, also took $500 from Field's wallet and $150 from the pocket of a sleeping guest.

DEALERS WARNED OF GASOLINE WAR FOR SIX MONTHS

Price Legislation Urged as Remedy.

Motorists will continue to reap the benefits of the gasoline price cutting war for at least six months, 150 service station owners were told yesterday at a meeting in the Lawson Y. M. C. A. by C. E. Ragen, president of the Gasoline Retailers' Association of Metropolitan Chicago.

Since the price war became general three weeks ago, motorists have been buying fuel at from 2 to 6 cents under the regular retail price of 19½ cents a gallon. Because the difference between wholesale and retail prices is 5 cents a gallon, many dealers are now operating without either the 2 cents needed for overhead or the 3 cents normal profit, they said yesterday. Jobbers have an additional margin of 2 cents a gallon and consequently are in a better position to cut prices, dealers said.

Demands Legislation.

"This will go on for a year or more unless we get some legislation,' Ragen said to the dealers. "Running around in circles and tearing down price signs won't stop it."

He urged them to support a program, which, however, cannot be acted upon until the general assembly convenes again next January. An amendment to the fair trade practice act to make it possible for the oil companies to prohibit price cutting in Illinois is one goal. Another is a law similar to one enacted in Massachusetts a few weeks ago, prohibiting price signs larger than 8 by 10 inches.

Ragen said there would be little purpose in obtaining a city ordinance controling the size of signs because the suburbs would not be affected.

Signs Blamed for Ills.

"Isolated price cutting doesn't do much damage unless signs are put up to advertise it," he said. "The gasoline truck drivers' union was instrumental in keeping the signs down until about three weeks ago, when it was learned they had no legal right to take this action. Then the situation got out of control."

Ragen had no hope of halting the price war by agreement among the 5,000 filling station owners in the metropolitan district, which takes in Cook, Lake, Du Page, and part of Will counties. One per cent can keep the war going, he said. A similar situation in New Jersey was ended only by legislation, he pointed out, after 40 per cent of the filling stations had been forced out of business.

RETAIL DEALERS CUT MILK PRICE TO 10c A QUART

No Change Made in Home Delivery Cost.

The price of milk in Chicago and suburbs was reduced 1 cent a quart in all retail stores yesterday from 11 to 10 cents with 1 cent deposit on each bottle. The cut was general among most of the 91 members of the Associated Milk Dealers who dominate the Chicago market.

The home delivery price of 12 cents a quart remains unchanged. The reduction at the stores, however, represents the second broad cut given consumers since the beginning of the general milk war seven months ago.

Several Price Cuts.

At that time milk was selling for 13 cents a quart delivered to homes and 12 cents at stores. In May, the large dealers, to meet competition from the smaller independent milk products distributors, cut the home delivery price from 13 to 12 cents and the store cost from 12 to 11 cents. The independents countered with a further reduction. In some stores the price for several weeks has been 10 cents a quart and a few milk stations within the city are now selling at 9 cents.

Officials of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union led by Robert G. Fritchie, president and Steve Sumner, secretary, opposed the new reduction. The union last December, by threatening to strike, blocked an attempt by the larger dealers to establish a 2 cent price differential between milk sold in stores and that delivered at homes.

Store Profit 1½ Cents.

Retail stores will still make 1½ cents profit on each quart. Larger dealers are now selling it at 8½ cents a quart. Their price in January was 10 cents.

The May slash in cost was split between the farmer, who absorbed a 2-3 cent per quart reduction, and the large dealers, who accepted a 1-3 cent cut. One week after these new prices became effective the milk wagon drivers held the dealers to a contract whereby their minimum wage was raised from $45 to $48 a week.

Announcement of the price reduction yesterday was considered particularly timely since it is said the union is not in a position now to enforce strike threats. An investigation of the entire milk industry, in progress here for more than a year, is now in the hands of a federal grand jury.

BORDEN COMPANY SEEKS INJUNCTION TO PREVENT STRIKE

The Borden company filed suit in Circuit court yesterday asking an injunction to prevent the Milk Wagon Drivers' union from calling a strike of its drivers. According to the petition, James Kennedy, vice president of the union, stopped drivers from their work for two hours yesterday morning at the branch office at 4812 South St. Louis avenue after demanding the discharge of a driver whom he said was not in good standing in the union.

BOMBS, BULLETS OF TERRORISTS ROCK SHANGHAI

land from 900,000 to one million fighting men in China and shoulder a war cost that is estimated at $2,000,000,000 a year.

Japan has gone on a wartime footing, restricting the use of raw materials which are needed for munitions, extending a virtual dictatorship over manpower and commerce, and preparing for what the highest officials admit is likely to be a "long war."

The year has witnessed many Chinese defeats, but also has seen the spectacle of a united China, still resisting and with millions more of manpower to call to battle.

The year saw the first defeat of a modern Japanese army—on April 6 at Taierchwang—and the repetition of a page of history, a Yellow river flood halting the advance of an invader.

War Brought to Modern City.

The world saw in the three months' Japanese battle for Shanghai the immensity of modern warfare and the sufferings of a modern city of 3,500,000 population under attack.

The fall of Nanking—China's former capital, a city of 1,000,000 population—wrote an epic of destruction by bombardment and fire and afterward an occupation marked by massacre, looting, and rape.

Even more than in Spain, the Chinese conflict has brought widespread criticism by neutrals of air bombings of large cities. There were the bombs which wrecked the Palace and Cathay hotels in Shanghai; the bombs which spread death in the packed shopping district near the Wing On and Sincere department stores, and the bombs which reduced to ruins the newly built $7,500,000 Kiangwan civic center.

Japanese Soil Bombed Once.

Canton, the metropolis of South China with 1,400,000 population, suffered three weeks of daily bombings with 4,595 persons killed and other thousands wounded. Hankow, the capital, and Nanchang, the chief air base, and other cities suffered repeated air raids. Japanese planes flew inland to bomb Chinese railroads and supply centers.

The Chinese made one destructive raid on Japanese territory. Twelve planes flew from Hankow to the Island of Formosa and bombed the capital, Taihoku, and other towns, killing eight persons. A Chinese squadron made a "bloodless raid" over western cities of Japan proper, dropping only propaganda leaflets.

Bombings created international incidents. There was the sinking of the United States gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil company vessels on the Yangtze, killing four foreigners, including two Americans. A sailor was killed on the British gunboat Ladybird.

Three Americans were killed in the Shanghai hotel bombings. Bomb fragments killed a sailor on the deck of the United States cruiser Augusta. The American liner President Hoover was mistakenly bombed by Chinese. A British motor convoy was machine gunned by Japanese planes and the British ambassador, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, wounded.

Use Strike and Run Tactics.

The war has exhibited unusual tactics. Japanese made quick advances along railroads and highways, garrisoning control points as they went along. The Chinese in retreat at times appeared to melt away, then re-form behind the Japanese lines, attack garrisons, and interrupt supply routes.

Guerrilla warfare has continued within Japanese occupied territory—within Shanghai, near Hangchow, near Tsingtao, near Peking, and all through Shansi province. The Chinese "scorched earth" policy resulted in the destruction of 100 million dollars' worth of Japanese owned cotton mills and other properties in Tsingtao before Japanese occupied the Shantung seaport on Jan. 10. Japanese in reprisal for guerrilla attacks have burned towns and villages.

Both sides have conducted the war on a "no prisoners taken" basis.

Still Able to Get Supplies.

China has suffered at least 1 billion dollars of property damage in addition to her war expenditures, and large sections of the population have been driven to flight. Her exports have been cut in half. Foreigners are believed to have lost 750 million dollars, a fourth of their total investment, in China. Of this figure Britain's losses are estimated at 300 million dollars and America's 150 million.

The agricultural character of China's national economy has sustained the nation in the war and Hankow has been able to bring in war supplies through Canton and French Indo China and overland from soviet Russia. Japan's individual military successes have not offset the failure to obtain a dictated peace after the fall of Shanghai and Nanking and the failure to break the Chinese united front, which now includes the communists, whom Chiang Kai-shek fought for years.

The united front may be traced to the "Sian incident" of December, 1936. Soldiers of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, who had lost his Manchurian provinces, kidnaped Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Marshal Chang demanded that the generalissimo cease his long campaign against Chinese communists and enlist them with the Kuomintang [National People's party] in a united front against Japan. The promise was given, Chiang was released, and a decade of internal bickering and jealousies was ended.

Japan then joined the alliance of Italy and Germany against communism. This has resulted in the withdrawal of Italian aviation experts and German military experts advising China. On the other hand, with soviet Russia actively supporting Hankow, Japan had to withhold many thousands of her troops from the central China campaign and keep a watch on Russia across the Manchukuan-Siberian and Mongolian-Siberian frontiers.

Failure to obtain a local settlement after the Marco Polo bridge clash launched Japan into the long war. Peking and Tientsin were occupied. From North China the Japanese pushed across the great wall to capture Kalgan and move on through Chahar province. Another force pushed far westward to Paotow in Suiyuan province and a third captured Taiyuan and spread out through Shansi province. In December a puppet North China régime was set up in Peking.

The Shanghai campaign was brought on by an incident on Aug. 9. Two Japanese seamen were killed in a clash with Chinese gendarmes when they drove along a road leading to the Chinese military airport at Hungjao, west of Shanghai. Heavy fighting in Shanghai began on Aug. 14 and for weeks raged in the Chinese quarters—Pootung, Nantao, and Chapei—and the Japanese sections, Hongkew and Yangtzepoo. The international settlement and the French concession were guarded by international defense forces.

Move Capital from Nanking.

By Nov. 9 the Chinese had lost Shanghai and began their westward retreat. The Chinese government began moving from Nanking to Hankow and Chungking, far up the Yangtze river. Soochow fell on Nov. 20 and Nanking was occupied on Dec. 13. The Japanese extended their drive southwest of Shanghai into Chekiang province and captured Hangchow on Christmas eve. Early in 1938 a Japanese puppet régime was set up in Nanking.

The next phase of the Japanese campaign was to link North China with the Shanghai-Nanking zone. Armies drove southward from Tientsin and northward from Nanking. Tsinan, the capital of rich Shantung province was captured on Dec. 26. For five months the Japanese fought a huge Chinese army stubbornly resisting north and south of the Lunghai railroad. On May 20 the Japanese occupied Suchow, gaining full control of the Tientsin-Pukow [Nanking] railroad and the Lunghai railroad eastward to the sea.

Flood Saves Chengchow.

The Chinese retreated to the west and the Japanese pursued them. The Japanese captured Kaifeng in northern Honan province and were pushing steadily toward Chengchow, the junction point of the Lunghai with the north-south Peking-Hankow railroad, when dike breaks loosed a Yellow river flood between Chengchow and Kaifeng. The Japanese lost vast quantities of mechanized equipment and supplies, but rescued most of their troops and sent them south to strengthen the Yangtze river drive toward Hankow.

The first big step in the Yangtze drive was the capture on June 13 of Anking, the capital of Anhwei province. In three weeks the Japanese destroyed the Chinese barrier in the river at Matowchen and forged onward to Hukow.

Naval operations independent of the land drives included the capture of the rich South China seaport of Amoy on May 12, and the seizure on June 22 of the island of Namoa, 20 miles east of the port of Swatow.

JAPAN'S GAINS IN YEAR OF WAR

Black area of map indicates the extent of Japanese gains in a year of fighting in China. However, many Chinese guerrilla forces are operating within territory nominally occupied by the Japanese. On the South China coast the Japanese have occupied the port of Amoy and the Island of Namoa off Swatow. Japan seized Manchuria (now Manchukuo) in 1932.

CHINA'S CASUALTIES 1,300,000 IN YEAR OF WAR, TOKIO SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 7 [Thursday].—Japan's war casualties were announced today to be 37,729 dead and China's were estimated at 1,300,000 dead and wounded, of whom 510,000 were claimed to have been counted on the battlefields. [Foreign observers have estimated Japan's casualties in figures ranging from 75,000 to 200,000.]

Japan in the first year of the war occupied 482,000 square miles, nearly twice the area of Japan proper, and the population of the occupied area is 130,000,000, it was asserted. The line of military operations is 1,400 miles long. A nation-wide observance of the war anniversary started at 9 o'clock this morning, when prayers for the war dead were offered at the Yasukuni shrine in Tokio.

To exalt the people's determination to live thriftily and simply the nation was encouraged to eat one dish meals throughout the day. Each family was expected to donate one piece of metal or scrap metal today to defense resources.

CHINA PROTESTS FRENCH SEIZURE OF ISLAND GROUP

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—France today ran into complications over her occupation of the Paracel Islands in the South China sea when the Chinese ambassador, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, called at the foreign office announcing his government considers the islands Chinese possessions.

Koo asked Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet to explain the significance of France's action on July 4 in landing Annamite gendarmes on the tiny islands 250 miles off the coast of French Indo-China.

Bonnet told Koo that gendarmes were sent to the Paracels for protection of marine establishments used by ships of all countries in "a particularly dangerous region." This was taken as reference to a reported Japanese threat to occupy Hainan Island, 125 miles northwest of the Paracels.

Japan Will Protest, Too.

TOKIO, July 7 [Thursday].—(AP)—The foreign office today announced Japan would make representations to France against occupation of the tiny Paracel Islands.

POLAND EYES U.S. AS A HAVEN FOR JEWISH REFUGEES

Hopes Immigration Bar Will Be Lowered.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 6.—The United States holds the key to the solution of the Jewish problem which is vexing many European countries, the Polish and Jewish press of Warsaw today insisted. Newspapers welcomed the presence of an American delegation in the conference at Evian-les-Bains, France, where delegates of thirty-two nations opened discussions on the fate of Jews of greater Germany.

The Polish press viewed the Evian conference as a possible solution of Poland's problem to find homes for 3,000,000 Jews and expressed the hope that the meeting will result in the removal of immigration restrictions in the United States. The Jewish press reported that President Roosevelt's initiative in calling the conference may end the American policy of isolation from European affairs and eventually bring about her entrance into the league of nations.

Vision Migration to U. S.

The American delegates were quoted by the Nasz Przeglad, Poland's largest Jewish newspaper, as saying they had a proposal ready to submit to the conference immediately to find homes for 50,000 Jewish refugees, and that the United States was willing to soften the immigration law to accept 28,000 Jews. South American countries were expected to accept the balance, since inquiries by Jewish investigators disclosed that European countries are unwilling to accept even a small quota of Jewish refugees.

Scandinavian countries, whose proportion of Jews is the smallest in Europe, are opposed to the admission of Jews, while the Baltic states also are unwilling to welcome them.

"Our country has taken extraordinary measures to suppress anti-Semitic propaganda which was being spread by German agencies, but the fact that the countries of northern Europe do not wish Jewish immigrants reveals that they are considered undesirable citizens," said a minister of one of the Baltic nations.

Urge Ban on Jews.

"There are reasons for anti-Semitism spreading in Europe, and the Evian conference should study them if they wish to solve the problem of Jewish refugees. Our local Jews are opposed to this country admitting German and Austrian Jews, and delegations have visited me requesting that we should not accept these refugees."

If the Evian conference is successful in finding new homes for German and Austrian Jews, Poland again intends to demand world consideration of her Jewish problem, a Polish official said.

He said Rumania has decided to act jointly with Poland, pressing a demand frequently voiced before the league that other nations must remove their immigration restrictions permitting Jews from both countries to choose new homes abroad.

Study Alimony Plea

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. R. V. Rasmussen in court yesterday as she asked $1,000 a month support money.

How much temporary alimony Robert V. Rasmussen, vice president of the National Tea company and son of its founder, will pay his estranged wife, the former Miss Richey Farrell of Nashville, Tenn., will be determined by a master in chancery, Judge John J. Lupe ruled yesterday.

Mrs. Rasmussen has a suit for divorce pending in which she charges her husband with misconduct last April 8 in Duluth, Minn., with a Jane Roe. The couple were married May 12, 1937, in Nashville, and separated last April 20.

In court yesterday Mrs. Rasmussen, through her attorney, Harold A. Smith, asserted her husband's income was $2,500 a month and asked for temporary support of $1,000 a month for herself and their daughter, Richey. Rasmussen's attorney, Thomas Hart Fisher, said his client's earnings were only $500 a month. Judge Lupe ordered him to pay $500 in two payments within the next week. Judge Lupe also issued an order restraining Rasmussen from disposing of any of his assets while the matter is pending.

Toronto Prevents Attack on Fascist Rally by Foes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., July 6.—Police today were kept busy preventing clashes between anti-Fascists and the Canadian Fascists who have been meeting here. On Monday police broke up the gathering of 300 anti-Fascists just as they had been stirred by speeches to the point of moving to an assault on Massey hall, where 2,500 Fascists attended a meeting.

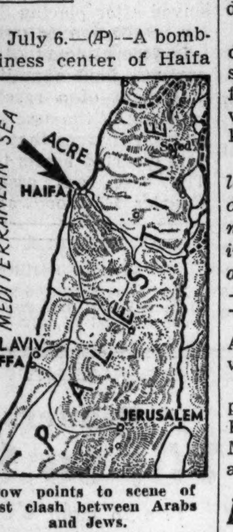
23 DIE, 79 HURT IN RIOT BETWEEN JEWS AND ARABS

Running Gun Fight Follows Haifa Bombing.

JERUSALEM, July 6.—(AP)—A bombing in the business center of Haifa and a running gun battle between Jews and Arabs today killed at least 23 persons and wounded 79 others.



Arrow points to scene of latest clash between Arabs and Jews.

The battle followed a race riot which started during the evening rush hour, when crowds were hurrying home. Witnesses said that after the bomb exploded police constables opened fire on the crowds, causing a majority of the casualties. The origin of the bomb was not determined immediately.

18 Arabs Reported Slain.

Official reports said that 18 Arabs and 5 Jews were killed and that of those wounded 38 suffered serious injuries. One of those killed was Tivia Dounie, 55 years old, a well known contractor and brother-in-law of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist federation.

The outbreak was one of the bloodiest in the long history of Arab-Jewish clashes in the Holy Land, which each group considers its national and spiritual homeland.

Police and troops instituted a stringent patrol, clamping down curfew regulations.

Martial Law Considered.

British authorities of the troubled Palestine mandate considered a new imposition of martial law as the violence, which started a week ago with the execution of the first Jew to be hanged in Jerusalem since 1916, began to spread into other major cities and rural areas.

In addition to Haifa, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv already are under strict curfew regulations to keep residents off streets at night.

Another bomb tossed from a moving train into a Jewish crowd at Tel Aviv today killed a woman and wounded two men.

In a gun battle last night on the plains of Esdraelon, scene of the Biblical victory of Gideon over the Midianites, eight Arabs were killed and a British soldier was wounded.

DEATH TOLL OF 1,000 FEARED IN KOBE FLOOD; LANDSLIDES CONTINUE

TOKIO, July 7 [Thursday].—(AP)—A flood which swept down from the hills cut a path through the heart of Kobe today, leaving more than 400 persons dead.

A cloudburst yesterday swelled the tons of water which, previously dammed by landslides in the hills, suddenly surged into the city, the principal port of western Japan. The slides continued and frightened residents sought safety on higher ground.

Fears were expressed that the final death toll in this newest of Japan's serious floods might reach 1,000. It followed inundations last week in which more than 861 persons were killed, injured, or reported missing.

[The Dollar liner President Cleveland in a radio message to San Francisco reported that at least 600 Japanese school children had been killed in Kobe when a wall of water crushed a schoolhouse.]

HITLER'S OUSTING OF JEWS CALLED WORLD DISASTER

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France, July 6.—(AP)—The world's three greatest democracies—the United States, Great Briain, and France—took the lead today in seeking havens for unwanted Jews and other political refugees from greater Germany.

The three nations combined their efforts at the opening of a 32 nation conference on refugees, called as a result of President Roosevelt's invitation for intergovernmental discussion of the problem.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States delegation, in a strongly worded speech said the plight of thousands of persons deprived of their nationality by Adolf Hitler's absorption of Austria was "no longer of purely private concern; it is one for intergovernmental action."

Although Taylor referred only to one country—Germany—he outlined the scope of the conference as taking in problems of "reluctant migrants" from that as well as any other nation.

Forced migration of political and racial groups can bring "catastrophic suffering upon the world," the former head of the United States Steel corporation declared.

DIES AT COUNTRY CLUB.

La Salle, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Thomas E. Odiorne, 54 years old, a retired druggist from Austin, Tex., died of heart disease last night at the South Bluff Country club near Peru, where he was a guest.

5 AND 10 HEIRESS BELIEVED TO FACE A COSTLY DIVORCE

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—The astronomical demands credited to Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow promised today to make the former Barbara Hutton's turbulent parting with the Danish nobleman far costlier than her "amicable" farewell to the Georgian prince, Alexis Mdivani.

The Woolworth five and ten cent store heiress called the prince "very sweet, very wonderful" and said he was not getting a single nickel from her as she set out in 1935 for her Reno divorce and her remarriage to the count on the day after she was granted a decree. Later she revealed that she had settled an annuity of $350,000 on Prince Alexis. The prince was killed in an automobile accident in Spain after the divorce.

Countess Barbara now has Count Haugwitz-Reventlow under bail in Bow street police court, where one of her solicitors pictured him as demanding $5,000,000 and their son, Lance, as the price of a divorce or separation. Describing his conversation with the count, the solicitor, William M. Mitchell, said the count was "insulted" by a proposed settlement of $500,000.

The count waited in a west end hotel for his day in court next Wednesday. It was uncertain whether he would name the "London society gentleman" who, it was hinted, is the countess' new admirer whom Count Court threatened to "shoot like a dog." The case concerns whether he threatened his wife.

EVANSTON HALTS SIGN PAINTING OF JOBLESS YOUTHS

Ralph Baker's idea for beating the depression by painting illuminated street numbers on the curb in front of homes received a setback last night in Evanston, where he began operations June 28 with a crew of nine unemployed young men.

At the suggestion of Ald. Robert J. James the city council unanimously voted to withdraw approval of the enterprise. Ald. James said that some housewives had complained Bakers' crew were a little too high pressure.

After painting the numbers, with the permission of Mayor Henry Penfield, the painters were authorized to ask for donations up to a quarter. This netted each man an average of $5 a day. Baker, who lives at 4449 Malden avenue, said he would probably shift operations to Rogers Park.

AIDS EXECUTED FOR HELPING GPU CHIEF IN FLIGHT

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, July 6.—The newspaper Miyako Shimbun today reported that more than ten leaders of the Russian far eastern GPU [secret police] have been executed in connection with the flight last week of Gen. Lucikov Samoirovich to Japan. The diary of Samoirovich, published recently in Tokio newspapers, revealed that the general, who was GPU commander in the far east, fled Russia because he feared execution. In his diary he charged that alleged plots against Josef Stalin were fabricated to permit the Russian dictator to get rid of his enemies.

45,000 Ton Warship Limit Fixed by Britain and Russia

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—Great Britain and soviet Russia today signed a protocol bringing their naval agreement of July 30, 1936, into line with the new limit of 45,000 tons for battleships adopted by Britain, the United States and France. Britain announced the signature of a similar protocol with Germany on June 30.

U. S. HEIRESS TO HORLICK WEALTH DIES IN CANADA

Mrs. Mabelle Sidley Succumbs at 61.

tion, following the lead of her father, and contributed to Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expeditions to the antarctic. The admiral named one of the newly discovered far southern peaks for her.

Regarded as an able business woman, she was designated, with her brothers as associates, an executor of the estate of her father and as one of the trustees of the trust fund set up by his will. She was a vice president of the Horlick Malted Milk company and had been secretary of the board. Since coming to Canada, however, she had not been active in the management.

She was married in 1909 to Dr. John Streeter Sidley, who became an executive of the Horlick interests. Sometime before 1931, when she obtained a divorce from Dr. Sidley, she had become acquainted with Bull.

Bull Figure of Mystery.

He was her legal adviser in the divorce proceedings, and became a figure of international mystery when Dr. Sidley sued him in Chicago for $250,000 damages, alleging that Bull had set detectives to watch him and had made his life miserable for two years.

Both the divorce and the damage suits were settled about the same time. The decree ending the marriage was issued by Judge E. B. Belden in Kenosha. A few days later it became known that Mrs. Sidley, in consideration of the withdrawal of the suit against Bull, had established a "comfortable annuity" for her former husband. Unofficially it was reported that Dr. Sidley received $375,000 and a $20,000 annual income.

Less than a week before the settlement was reached Bull left Chicago in an automobile for Toronto. He was injured and his car wrecked in an accident near Coldwater, Mich.

Code Causes Difficulties.

Bull and Mrs. Sidley were put to much inconvenience in Chicago in February, 1936, when agents of the federal narcotics bureau took them from the Drake hotel to the bureau headquarters in the Transportation building and questioned them. They were released with apologies, and it was explained that enthusiastic investigators had suspected them because they communicated in code. Bull said that the code was used to confuse investigators working for Dr. Sidley.

Bull was said some years ago to own extensive sugar lands in Cuba as well as certain properties in China.

He also has had an extensive acquaintance in England and it was seven years ago that he was on friendly terms with the king, George V., and the then prince of Wales, now the duke of Windsor.

Court Orders Tax Refund on Gas Used in 3.2 Beer

The brew with 3.2 per cent alcohol legalized in 1933 was strong enough to be called beer, Judge Philip L. Sullivan ruled in federal District court yesterday. He ordered refunded to the Liquid Carbonic company $102,923 in excise tax paid the government on carbonic gas sold for the manufacture of the beer. The tax had been levied on the theory that the beer was a so-called soft drink. Carbonic gas for soft drinks was at that time subject to excise tax but is not now.

BROTHERS, EACH RENAMED, MEET AFTER 40 YEARS

For the first time since they separated forty years ago in Manchester, England, to seek their fortune, the two Rivkin brothers met last night. But since that time each had changed his name from the spelling used in their native Lithuania.

The reunion took place in the home of Max Ripkin, 52 years old, at 631 South Kenneth avenue. After reaching this country in 1911 Max married, became a carpenter contractor, and raised four children.

The other brother is Herman Ripling, 54, a storekeeper of Reading, Pa. He came to America in 1908, married, and also raised a family of four. One of his sons, Walter, discovered his uncle's address on a trip to Chicago.

Forbid Sale of Miniature Liquor Bottles After Sept. 1

The state liquor control commission at Springfield yesterday forbade the sale of liquor in miniature bottles after Sept. 1. Eight ounces is the smallest amount that may be vended. The rule was adopted as a measure to discourage drinking by minors and motorists. In another ruling the commission prohibited the charging of nominal prices for merchandise offered as premiums with liquor. The giving away of such merchandise already is forbidden.

Baby Falls from 2d Floor; Apparently Escapes Injury

Francis Illarde, 2½ years old, fell out of the second story window of his home at 1339 Wellington street onto a grass plot. Although the child appeared not to be hurt, he was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital for examination for possible internal injuries.

STRIKERS' WIVES ASK A PARLEY IN FOUNDRY TIEUP

Forty wives of strikers at the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago called last night on Mayor John P. Dromey in the suburb and asked him to arrange a conference to end the strike. Mayor Dromey telephoned Edward Sherwin, president of the company, who agreed to meet tomorrow with a committee of the strikers.

No attorneys or organizers for the Committee for Industrial Organization, which called the strike June 6, will be present, nor will other employés, members of an independent union, who are anxious to return to work.

More than 225 C. I. O. pickets, about a hundred of whom were women, surrounded the plant yesterday and forty of the loyal workers again postponed their effort to enter. They will try to go into the foundry today, protected by an injunction issued Saturday in the Lake county Circuit court restraining the C. I. O. pickets from interfering with those desiring to resume work. On Tuesday the pickets jeered at the injunction order and tore up their individual copies.

FINES BROKERAGE PARTNER $500 ON BLUE SKY CHARGE

Mark Weil of Lake Forest, a partner in the investment concern of Marks, Laser & Co., was fined $500 yesterday by Judge Albert E. Isley on his plea of guilty to violation of blue sky laws. Charges against seventeen other officials and employés of the firm were dismissed after Weil had accepted part responsibility for selling stock not registered with the state securities commission. Assistant State's Attorney John Phillips explained the company had been dissolved after placing $40,000 in escrow for restitution to customers.

In federal court Al Sider, a former partner, filed a petition seeking appointment of a receiver and an accounting of the assets of the firm. His petition charges that nine of the partners diverted assets to their own use. The case was assigned to Judge Charles E. Woodward.

FATALLY INJURED IN FALL.

Mrs. Anna Spain, 66 years old, 7819 South Morgan street, died yesterday in the Englewood hospital of injuries suffered in a fall June 30.

Three Chicago Runaways Seized in Burlington, Ia.

Three Chicago boys who ran away from home Tuesday were taken into custody yesterday in Burlington, Ia., as they jumped from a westbound freight train. They are William McKenzie, 15 years old, of 3545 Lowe avenue, and Robert and Ralph Kruger, 15 and 16, brothers, of 3817 Parnell avenue. They said they were going to the home of the Kruger brothers' grandmother at Brock, Neb. Their parents were arranging last night for their return.

PARK POLICEMEN TO PUT ON A BIG THRILL FEATURE

Highly Trained in Many Protective Sciences.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

One of the nation's most highly trained and specialized police departments, about which its own city knows surprisingly little, will be seen in a featured spectacle of the Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field on July 17.

These men are the Chicago park police. They are the men who protect the people in the city's 5,437 acres of recreation grounds. It is their job to patrol and keep safe 110 miles of busy streets and boulevards and 52 miles of drives.

They must be highly trained in many things—and they are.

Good Men with a Gun.

They are deadly shots with pistols and can fire from a lurching car in heavy trafic without endangering innocent persons. Their cars are especially equipped for chases and gun battles. In the bullet proof glass of the windshields are set steel ringed port holes through which pistols or machine guns can be thrust.

Though the park police coöperate with the city force, and the work of the two departments interlocks, the park police have their own headquarters and chief and their own powerful short wave radio station.

It is this station, which operates with the new two way radio cars, that will play a great part in the spectacular bandit chase and sham gun fight that will climax the thrill show in Soldiers' field.

The demonstration will be just the sort of work the police are prepared to do every day. The voices of the police operator and of the men in the squad cars will be carried to the crowd in the field by amplifiers. The technique of blockading avenues of escape, of hemming in the fugitives, will be unfolded just as it would be in any real chase.

Rehersals Start Tomorrow.

Rehersals of the bandit chase have been ordered for tomorrow morning by Chief Michael C. Hayes. Chief Hayes, who is 78 years old and has been with the park district 56 years, has long been an advocate of radio in police work.

Nine of the department's 56 squad cars are equipped with two way radios and funds have been voted for so equipping nine more. The other cars have one way sets and some still receive their orders through the city police radio.

The equipment installed in each car at a cost of approximately $800 is simply operated. When a one piece phone set is lifted from its cradle on the dash, a generator starts and the car becomes a sending station. When the phone is returned, the generator stops.

While the police were studying their parts for the bandit chase yesterday other preparations went forward swiftly for the thrill show. In Soldiers' field the steel skeleton of the fire tower began rising.

It is upon this tower that the firemen will perform the daring feats that show the public what they do year in and year out to save lives and property. There will be leaps for life into nets from the five story structure and slides down life lines.

Public Gets a Closeup.

At real fires the public is kept at a distance for its own protection. Fire spectators see imperfectly, if at all, the heroic work that is going on at the scene or within the burning building.

At Soldiers' field a week from next Sunday afternoon the public will see first hand what goes on at real fires.

Clouds of smoke will make their work difficult, just as it is when they are fighting the real thing. Scaling the face of a five story structure with short polelike ladders is dangerous, no matter the type of the structure. Elimination tests will be completed tomorrow and the teams to take part in these maneuvers will be selected.

Tickets for the show are being printed and will go on sale in a few days under the sponsorship of the police and fire departments, the park district, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Prices to be charged are 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children—the lowest ever to be asked here for a show of such magnitude. And the proceeds will be set aside for the promotion next year of a free show.

Arouses Guests

(Story in adjoining column.)

Miss Dorothy Barker, telephone operator at Deerpath inn, north shore hostelry, being congratulated by Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest. Miss Barker called the guests to warn them of fire which caused damage of $250,000

Try to Rescue Nursemaid Trapped on Mountain Cliff

Keene Valley, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—Adirondack mountain woodsmen tonight worked to rescue an 18 year old German nursemaid trapped on a ledge halfway up an 800 foot cliff. The girl, known locally as Maria, is an employé of Dr. Paul Wolfe, Congregational minister, formerly of Evanston, Ill., and a summer visitor here. She was trapped late today while mountain climbing.

PLAN TO REBUILD DEERPATH INN, SWEPT BY FIRE

Guests Are Routed from Beds; Loss $250,000.

Reconstruction of the Deerpath Inn in Lake Forest, part of which was swept by fire yesterday morning, will be started at once, Buckingham Chandler, president of the hotel company, announced last night. Damage of more than $250,000 was done, Chandler said, most of which he thought was covered by insurance. The walls of the building remained standing, but the top floor was destroyed and other floors were damaged by fire and water.

Guests, who just had time to snatch their jewelry and clothes before the fire swept their rooms, were quartered last night in the homes of north shore folk. The dormitories of Ferry Hall, Lake Forest girls' school, which is closed for vacation, were thrown open to those who had no place to go.

Phone Operator Heroine.

A number of the 97 guests were still asleep when they were awakened by a call from the telephone operator, Miss Dorothy Barker, when the fire was discovered about 10 a. m. She warned them that the building was burning.

News of the fire spread quickly and a large crowd gathered. Many guests invited to luncheons in the hotel arrived to find the building smoldering.

Fire Chief George Bauman of Lake Forest summoned the fire departments of North Chicago, Fort Sheridan, and Great Lakes Naval Training station to aid his men.

Others Flee Building.

Others to flee the flames included Mrs. Keene Addington, Mr. and Mrs. John Hamline Jr., Mrs. William H. Hubbard, Mrs. Granger Farwell, and Mrs. L. M. Glore.

There were few residents of Lake Forest who had not lived at some time in the Deerpath inn, when their homes were closed or were being decorated.

The three-story, 102-room hotel was built in the boom days of 1928, near the site of the original Deerpath Inn, which for years had been a Lake Forest landmark. The new hotel was modeled after earliest English inns.

Chandler said he believed the fire resulted from burning grease drawn to the roof by the ventilating system.

TWO NO. SHORE COUPLES SAVED AS BOAT UPSETS

Two young couples were saved last night when their eighteen foot sailboat capsized in Lake Michigan a quarter of a mile off the Wilmette harbor. I. H. Witt, 821 Dobson street, Evanston, and his son, Richard, who were swimming near by from their motor boat, pulled them into the boat as coast guardsmen from the harbor arrived.

Those in the sailboat were Richard Lippincott Jr., 17, 1132 Ashland avenue, Wilmette, owner of the boat; Arthur Brereton, 18, 241 Essex road, Winnetka; Doris Jean Hargis, 17, 1420 Washington avenue, Wilmette, and Janice Van Inwagen, 17, 308 17th street, Wilmette.

BODY TAKEN FROM LAKE.

Swimming Lesson Ends in Tragedy in Park Pool

Two friends took Frank Settipane, 19 years old, to the Portage park swimming pool yesterday afternoon to teach him to swim. He practiced. As his companions swam about, they suddenly missed Settipane. Attendants drained the pool and Settipane was found drowned. He lived at 4206 North Kilpatrick avenue.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

HARD SELLING

By CALEB

THIS IS the house that sales built—this economic house in which we in the United States live. In this nation selling is so near the heart of our economic setup that the vacuum cleaner salesman's success is reflected in the farmer's purse—as well as that of the butcher, baker and candlestick maker.

Once this country worried about producing enough to live on. Production is no longer a problem, and consumption takes its place as the bottle neck in our scheme of existence. An overwhelming majority of our citizens gain their living as the direct result of selling—by themselves or someone else.

As sales increase, incomes increase for salesmen. Under the pressure of increased demand, production facilities begin to function—and pay rolls increase. Pay rolls in one productive industry beget pay rolls in others; buying power increases, selling increases—and the circle is completed. For better or for worse, that is our system.

In a realistic approach to this far-reaching problem of increasing consumption a progressive group of business men recently launched a well organized sales crusade. It promises to contribute considerable weight to the lever that is to set our economic wheel in motion.

Their approach is sound, for it advances no special magic—no shortcut. Their recipe is hard work—in large doses. They reason that the systematically increased efforts of thousands in the selling field can break a psychological log jam as dynamite starts timber down a river. That reasoning is sound.

This sales crusade is sound on a second count; it is based on the old-fashioned fact that individuals have an important part to play in the solution of our problem. These leaders believe that individual responsibility is still the essence of progress—that initiative and hard work are essential.

If this crusade increases business activity, it will have accomplished a good deal. But more importantly, if it drives home the vital double-barrelled idea that hard work and individual responsibility are still behind every worthwhile achievement—then it will justly claim a major triumph.

DR. A. E. MORGAN SUES TO REGAIN PLACE WITH TVA

Charges His Removal by Roosevelt Illegal.

said, he did not mean that they took bribes, stole money, or profited financially through any transaction. He accused them of deceiving the President, the congress, and the public; of hiding important facts tending to throw doubt on the advisability of the government's huge social experiment; of reporting a false electric power yardstick, and of subservience to political and other special interests.

Such conduct, Dr. Morgan told the committee simply, was not an honest administration of a great public trust. He said that, in his opinion, it was even more menacing to good government than an actual theft of public money.

He made it clear that he believed in the TVA as an instrumentality potentially of great value to the nation.

Sues in County Court.

Dr. Morgan's suit was filed in the County court instead of the federal court because the amount of money involved was less than $3,000, his attorneys explained. The former chairman asked back salary of $2,916.66.

The declaratory judgment he seeks would decree:

1. That the attempted removal by the President of the United States is invalid, void and of no effect.

2. That the attempted designation by the president of Harcourt A. Morgan as chairman of the board of directors of the TVA was and is invalid, void and without authority in law.

3. That the complainant is and since his appointment on May 30, 1933, has been and still is a member and chairman of the board of directors and entitled to the emoluments [$10,000 a year] of a member.

4. That the defendants, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, as directors of the TVA, be ordered to recognize the complainant as a member and chairman of the board.

Letters Are Appended.

Attached to the bill were copies of letters Dr. Morgan received from and sent to Roosevelt, H. A. Morgan, and Lilienthal.

In one he charged Morgan had occupied his office and had ordered his staf to vacate in 30 minutes.

President Roosevelt notified Dr. Morgan in a letter dated last March 22 that he was removing him for:

"Openly making grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity against your fellow directors without reasonable excuse or justification.

"Obstructing the work of the Tennessee Valley authority.

"Refusing to submit to the demand of the Chief Executive for the facts upon which you relied in openly making grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity against your fellow directors and refusing to respond to questions of the Chief Executive relating to charges of obstruction made against you by your fellow directors."

U. S. Will Contest Suit.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—The justice department withheld comment tonight on Dr. Arthur E. Morgan's suit challenging the right of President Roosevelt to remove him from the chairmanship of TVA. It was a foregone conclusion that the government would contest the suit.

Before the President removed Dr. Morgan he asked the justice department whether this was within his power. Robert H. Jackson, now solicitor general, but then acting attorney general, advised "there would appear to be no question that the power of removal is in fact vested in the President."

FIRST MONOPOLY PROBE MAY TAKE IN FILM INDUSTRY

Joint Committee Will Map Program Today.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—An investigation of the motion picture industry was urged today upon members of the joint congressional and executive committee created to probe monopolies and the concentration of economic power.

The twelve members of the committee will meet tomorrow to complete plans for the investigation for which $500,000 was voted at the recent session of congress. They are expected to decide upon a program of action, appointing sub-committees to inquire into phases of the alleged monopolies which have been brought to their attention.

From two sources today came the insistence that the movie industry, in which two billion dollars is invested in the United States, according to United States department of commerce survey, be made one of the first subjects for investigation.

Pleas from Two Groups.

Abram F. Myers, chairman of the board of the Allied States Motion Picture Exhibitors, an independent group, charged that a movie trust exists. Ray Lyman Wilbur, former secretary of the interior, also wired Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the committee, asking the group to investigate the motion picture business.

"Board of directors of National Motion Picture Research council earnestly petitions that motion picture industry be included in investigation of monopoly to be undertaken by your committee," Wilbur telegraphed from San Francisco.

Myers asked that the committee inquire into "the organization, financing, policies and practices of the moving picture industry."

Myers charged that practices followed by the heads of the industry tended to drive independent theater owners out of business and also to regulate those who remained in business.

"Challenge to Government."

"Certainly," he wrote to Representative Edward C. Eicher [D., Ia.], member of the committee, "the degree of regimentation imposed by the motion picture trust on the theaters and the effects, both actual and potential, on the theatergoing public are a challenge to government itself."

Eicher said he also had received a request that the committee investigate the farm implement business. The federal trade commission, in the first part of a report sent to congress, accused machinery manufacturers of practices detrimental to purchasers and stated that eight companies dominate the industry.

Some committee members indicated that the rubber, steel, cement, and milk industries would be the first to come under the gaze of the investigators.

Council Warns It's Time to Trim Hayfever Weeds

The city council passed a resolution yesterday directing the board of health to enforce rigidly the ordinance which provides a fine of $5 to $100 for persons who allow weeds to grow beyond 30 inches on their property. The ordinance was enacted to benefit hay fever sufferers, who are affected by weed pollen.

Frederick B. Snite Jr., went for an auto ride last night, his first pleasure journey since he was stricken with infantile paralysis two years ago. Encased in the artificial respirator that keeps him alive, he rode in his new $15,000 trailer with a glass enclosed rear end. Through mirrors he was able to see again the countryside near his home at 909 Ashland avenue, River Forest. A special generator supplies power for the respirator.

Snite's father said the young man wished to go to the Arlington park races in the trailer and that he might do so today or tomorrow. Mr. Snite said his son would use a chest model respirator at the track, enabling him to sit up and see the races.

FALL FROM BED FATAL.

Injuries suffered last Monday when he fell out of bed caused the death yesterday in the Oak Park hospital of Henry Freie, 82 years old, of 3204 Mannheim road, Franklin Park.

8 BOYS DIE IN BLAZE SET TO DEMONSTRATE FIREMEN'S EFFICIENCY

LISBON, Portugal, July 7 [Thursday].—(AP)—Eight boys were killed early today when a firemen's brigade, during an exhibition fire drill, failed to rescue them from a blazing gasoline soaked four story wooden building.

Two died in the flames and six made fatal leaps from windows. Ten were injured seriously and taken to hospitals.

Attempting to demonstrate efficiency, firemen had planted the boys, aged 12 to 20, in various rooms of the building and then set it afire. The brigade awaited a prearranged alarm signal at headquarters. Flames roared through the flimsy structure and trapped the panic stricken boys as the fire spread more quickly than intended.

Many were injured also when the crowd of spectators stampeded, hindering the frenzied firemen striving to reach the victims, some of whom were their sons.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion

Mr. D. F. McMahon
Manager, Retail advertising
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. McMahon:

Our recent Tribune advertising on Po-Do Golf Balls produced such tremendous sales volume on this item that we thought you would be interested to hear about it.

The May 27th advertisement which ran exclusively in the Tribune sold more than 1,200 dozen Po-Do Golf Balls in three days.

The June 18th ad which also ran exclusively in the Tribune produced over twice the sales of the corresponding period last year.

For the 26 days May 27th to June 21st, sales of Po-Do Balls were 61.3% ahead of the similar period last year.

This showing, despite a very late and rainy spring, provides another demonstration of Chicago Tribune pulling power.

It proves to us again that a good value, brought to the attention of the Tribune audience, can be relied on to produce the sales volume which our large-scale operations require.

Very truly yours,
Stathany Williams
S. L. Williams,
Advertising Manager

Results, such as those reported in the letter above, are typical of the selling achievements regularly recorded by advertisers who use the Tribune to place their sales messages before Chicago's largest constant audience.
Every day of the week the Tribune reaches more than 690,000 families in Chicago and suburbs. This is a majority of all the families in metropolitan Chicago—and from 242,000 to 477,000 more city and suburban families than can be reached through other Chicago newspapers.
Solely because the results warant it, Chicago retailers place in the Tribune more advertising than they place in any other medium. Their advertising in the Tribune builds the store trafic and the sales volume they need because in the Tribune their offers get the interested attention of an audience which is accustomed to buy.
Day after day this audience gives its attention in a voluntary daily session, attracted by the vital quality of Tribune news reporting, its celebrated comics, and helpful feature and service departments.
Tribune rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

CZECHS GO WILD WITH PATRIOTISM AT SOKOL PARADE

60,000 Marchers Cheered by 500,000 in Prague.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 6.—This capital today exhibited a patriotic fever seldom attained in hatred ridden Europe as the tenth great feast of the Sokols—the Slavic physical and moral training organization of nearly 800,000 members—came to an end.

A huge parade closed the main streets of Prague to trafic for more than four hours. It was followed by a military exhibition at the Masaryk stadium, on the hills outside Prague, where Sokol exercises have been held for the last three weeks.

In the morning 500,000 persons jammed the center of Prague to watch and cheer a parade of 60,000 Sokol men and women. Sokol training is meant not only to prepare youths for military service, but also to keep men in physical condition in case they are mobilized for military service. Women also are trained to participate in national defense.

Allies Get Biggest Cheers.

The wildest enthusiasm of the crowd was for the demonstration of solidarity by Czechoslovakia's allies in the little entente—Jugo-Slavia and Rumania—as well as for the demonstration of sympathy from all countries in which people of Slavic blood live.

Jugo-Slavia especially was conspicuous, with thousands of her Sokols marching in the parade. In the afternoon members of the Jugo-Slav navy performed gymnastics in front of President Eduard Benes and the diplomatic corps.

Bulgaria, which was on Germany's side in the world war, also sent hundreds of Sokols to join the parade.

Guard Hitler Flag.

The Nazi swastika flag appeared at the head of a delegation of Czech Sokols from Germany, most of whom came from Vienna. The presence of Adolf Hitler's emblem was required by the German legation which acted on orders from Berlin. The legation maintained that the German flag had to be treated on an equal basis with the others, and that discrimination would be considered unfair by Germany.

When the swastika flag passed the population did not cease its cheers. The banner was guarded by six Prague policemen and eight detectives.

Cheer American Flag.

The American flag appeared eight times—once upside down. The crowd gave roars of cheers every time it passed by. About 1,000 Sokols from the United States marched in the procession.

The parade was an impressive exhibition. No secret was made by visiting delegations that they were making an unusual display of their sympathies because of fear that the position of their Slavic brothers in Czechoslovakia is endangered. They admitted they intended the parade to be a symbol whose meaning would be understood in Germany.

FRANCE TIES UP $40,000,000 WORTH OF SPANISH GOLD

Barcelona and Rebels Both Claim Hoard.

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—The first chamber of the court of Paris today denied both the Spanish government and the Spanish rebels immediate possession of $40,000,000 in Spanish gold deposited with the Bank of France in 1931.

The chamber held the question was too delicate to be decided except by the full court. Legal authorities said this would mean it would be at least a year before judgment could be rendered.

The question has been in litigation for months, with both the Barcelona government and the rebels making every effort to get the money for use in the civil war.

Pledged for French Francs.

Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo had come personally from Barcelona to be in Paris when judgment was rendered. Nicolau D'Olver, governor of the Bank of Spain, also was here.

Pedro Pan y Gomez, then assistant governor of the Bank of Spain, deposited the gold in 1931 to cover an advance of French francs. Pan y Gomez went over to the rebels after the civil war broke out.

Counsel for the rebels argued that the Bank of Burgos, of which Pan y Gomez now is assistant governor, should be considered the successor to the Bank of Spain, declaring that part of the bank's board and a majority of its branches and shareholders now are in rebel territory.

Rebels Report Advances.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], July 6.—(AP)—Spanish rebels drove against both ends of the fifty mile Teruel-to-sea front today, reporting gains which were disputed by the government defenders.

Gen. José Varela's rebel forces, fighting south from Teruel, were reported to have advanced within two miles of the village of Ademuz and to have entered Valencia province for the first time.

On the eastern flank of the front Gen. Garcia Valino's army attempted to cut through mountain passes of the Sierra Espadan to attack Segorbe on the Teruel road 15 miles northwest of Sagunto, and Gen. Miguel Aranda's troops hammered at Nules, on the coastal road 15 miles north of Sagunto. Sagunto is the junction point of the two highways, which run southward to Valencia as one road.

Reëstablish Death Penalty.

BURGOS, Spain, July 6.—(AP)—The rebel cabinet approved a bill today reëstablishing the death penalty in those parts of Spain which Gen. Franco dominates.

'Chief Bread Giver' Hoover Taken Into Canadian Tribe

FORT ST. JAMES, B. C., July 6.—(AP)—Stuart Lake Indians today welcomed Herbert Hoover into their tribe as "Chief Bread Giver." The ceremonies, conducted at the site where in 1805 the first white trading post was established in New Caledonia, honored Hoover for his humanitarian work in the world war. Chief Louis Billy then wished "The Big Chief of Another Country" would "catch lots of fish" in Trout creek.

HUNGARY RAISES NAZI LEADER'S SENTENCE TO THREE YEARS IN PRISON

Francis Szalazy.

BUDAPEST, July 6.—(AP)—Francis Szalazy, world war major who aspired to be "Hungary's Hitler," today was sent to prison for a three-year term for "incitement," the Hungarian term for illegal attempts to overthrow the government.

Three judges of the court of appeal hearing the Nazi leader's appeal from a lower court's sentence of ten months affirmed his conviction and meted out the heavier punishment.

A little band of Szalazy's green-shirted followers, professing determination to keep the Hungarian Nazi movement alive, cheered as their leader was led from the court. He has been leader of the strongest branch of the confused Nazi movement in Hungary and for more than a year has been in trouble with the authorities.

AWARD TO RADIUM PAINT WORKER IS UPHELD BY BOARD

The Illinois industrial commission yesterday affirmed an award made to Mrs. Catherine Wolf Donohue of Ottawa, for permanent disability she claimed resulted from painting luminous dials in the Radium Dial company plant, formerly at Ottawa.

The order was signed by the five members of the commission after the testimony was reviewed by Commissioner Anton Johannsen. It approves compensation amounting to $2,398, a life pension and medical and hospital fees of $2,500, as awarded previously by Arbitrator George B. Marvel. The order adds $730 for medical expenses, bills for which were introduced as new evidence by Leonard Grossman, attorney for Mrs. Donohue. The life pension of $277.60 a year would begin June 1, 1940.

The commission order fixed bond for an appeal at $10,000. Attorneys Walter Bachrach and Arthur Magid, counsel for the company, now located in New York, said they expected to appeal to the Circuit court, probably in La Salle county.

Ask Delay in Changes at County Hospital

The city council yesterday referred to the committee on health a resolution requesting the county board to delay action on improvements at the County hospital until city officials have made an inquiry. A citizens' advisory committee had suggested the changes.

39 ARE NAMED IN 3 MILLION YEARLY FRAUD

Insurance Companies Are the Victims.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—The Federal grand jury today returned indictments against thirty-nine persons accused of having defrauded American life insurance companies out of 3 million dollars yearly in fraudulent disability claims. Twenty have confessed and will become government witnesses, John F. Dailey, acting United States attorney, said this afternoon.

The indictments contain one count of conspiracy and 62 separate counts of using the mails to defraud.

Maximum Sentences 312 Years.

Conviction and maximum sentences would mean 312 years in prison and $72,000 in fines for each of the defendants, a number of whom already are at liberty on bail pending appeal for conviction in a previous case.

Ten of those indicted are physicians, three are lawyers, three are named as claim chasers, and twenty-six as claimants.

Insurance companies defrauded since June, 1931, included the Equitable Life Assurance society, the Metropolitan Life Assurance society, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, the Mutual Life Insurance company, the New York Life Insurance company, the Maccabees, the Travellers Insurance company, the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Insurance association, the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company, and the Guardian Life Insurance company.

Attorneys Called Leaders.

Dailey, charged that the ring's leaders were the brothers, Elias and Joseph Garrow, attorneys.

The Garrows were among four convicted last March in connection with the operations of the so-called Weiss ring headed by Joseph Weiss. Weiss and the others are now at liberty under bail, pending a decision on their appeal.

For a time, Dailey said, the ring functioned in competition with the Weiss operation, and its methods were similar.

Claim chasers, according to Dailey's aids, were sent out to find financially embarrassed business men who carried that type of insurance policy providing for payment of 1 per cent of the face value a month in the event of total disability.

As soon as the claimant had filed his claim he was urged to become a chaser himself, and all split the payments, it is charged.

Most of the claims were based upon cardiac illness and each claimant received a thorough schooling in the methods of simulating heart weaknesses, the officials charge.

HOLDS EX-CONVICT FOR ROBBERY.

Forrest Martin, an ex-convict, captured by Policeman Henry Stoll during a holdup at 4003 Broadway last Saturday night, was held to the grand jury on a robbery charge by Judge John J. Rooney yesterday. Martin gave the address of 3008 South Canal street.

ASKS IF TAX CASH WILL BE USED FOR ROOSEVELT TOUR

Chauncey McCormick, addressing Republican county candidates at their weekly luncheon in the Sherman hotel yesterday, proposed that President Roosevelt be asked whether taxpayers' money is being used to pay the expenses of his forthcoming transcontinental tour, which he said he is taking not as President but as head of the Democratic party.

"Has the President the right to use public moneys for trains and the other expenses incident to his tour, which he admits to be political?" Mr. McCormick asked. "And has he also the right to use it in appealing to those on WPA and others who benefit from his spending program?"

Mr. McCormick was optimistic over the chances of all Republican county candidates in the November elections.

AN ILL WIND BLOWS US A SUBWAY.

The present eagerness in Washington to build Chicago a subway is in striking contrast to the previous behavior of the burocrats. The breathless announcement from Senator Lewis suggests that even his poise has been shaken. He isn't used to that kind of treatment. It's got him so mixed up that he can't tell a caisson from a million.

Until recently Chicago hasn't had much luck in obtaining grants from the federal treasury. Other communities have fared better. Our governor has paid his visits to Washington only to cool his heels in the ante-room of a Hopkins or an Ickes. The name, Horner, was vaguely familiar but the switchboard girl couldn't quite place him. Our mayor has enjoyed the same opportunities for relaxation. Nobody showed much interest in his blueprints or in his statements of the need for relief in Chicago.

But now all is changed. They are beginning to look upon Chicago with something of the tenderness which hitherto has been reserved for New York and other favored spots. The Chicago subway, which had been regarded as something not quite nice, something which should not be mentioned in mixed company, is now respectable. The plans are works of art. The engineering calculations and the specifications are literary masterpieces.

It is all very strange. No doubt Mr. Lewis will offer his authoritative explanation of the change as soon as he catches his breath, but, meanwhile, a guess or two may be volunteered. It is just possible that recent events in Iowa, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New York, and other critical states have had their influence. The Roosevelt candidate in Iowa was licked by Senator Gillette; in Indiana, the Democrats have repudiated the Roosevelt leadership and are going to nominate Van Nuys, a man he plotted to destroy. In Pennsylvania the Democrats rejected the Roosevelt C. I. O. ticket. In New York the Democrats are all set to nominate Gov. Lehman, a prominent occupant of the Roosevelt doghouse, for a seat in the United States senate.

These incidents and many more like them suggest that if anything is to be saved from the wreckage of the Roosevelt machine no time can be lost. The outlook in Illinois is none too favorable at best. The Democratic party is split and its factions are embittered and spiteful. The farmers don't like their corn allotments and unemployment in the cities is about as severe as it was six or seven years ago.

And so the money rolls out. It's the last hope and the only hope of restoring a semblance of order in the ranks. Chicago can congratulate itself that an object as useful as a subway happened to be available. Otherwise we might have been given a pair of leaning towers of Pisa for each park, a bridge to Michigan, a thousand gross of cream separators, two hairpin factories, and the usual postoffices.

CHAMBERLAIN THE MAN OF PEACE.

It will be believed that Mr. Chamberlain has got the foreigners out of the trenches in Spain when he gets them out. Then it will also be believed that he has also performed a miracle. Thus far as a peacemaker he has had a great deal more patience than success. In spite of the gravest provocations he has kept Great Britain out of war, and probably also France, at times when it seemed impossible that a British government could save its dignity and peace at the same time.

Germany and Italy have been dictatorial almost beyond endurance in the Spanish civil war, having staked it out as their own private claim. They have asserted their privilege of sending all the troops and equipment they care to contribute to Franco's cause. They made it a Fascist war against communism at a time when the Barcelona government had the full sympathy of the French Popular Front administration and all its radical and revolutionary elements. The Italians furnished large contingents of men in addition to airplanes. The German aid in technicians and modern material was invaluable. Italy seized bases in the Balearic Islands and every once in a while Great Britain was startled by reports that fortifications across the straits, in Africa, were soon to dominate Gibraltar.

France was compelled to observe the growth of German and Italian influence and power beyond the Pyrenees and to contemplate the possibility of a formidable enemy firmly entrenched on its Spanish frontier. Russia, which had taken up the Barcelona cause in support of the Spanish communists, became unimportant in the struggle because of the demoralization produced by the purges at home and because of the advance of the Japanese armies in China.

Submarines appeared in the Mediterranean and attacked shipping. The act was called piracy and it was no secret that the boats must be Italian. Italian and German airplanes sank ships of British registry in government harbors in Spain, an act which in any other generation of British statesmanship would have meant disavowal, apology, punishment, and indemnity, or war.

But Mr. Chamberlain, although his pacifists were shouting angrily at home, wouldn't fight, and against all probabilities of failure and humiliation he persisted in trying to get the Italian and German troops out of Spain and give the war back to the Spaniards, who then might either bring it to an endurable conclusion or compromise it without any lasting ill consequences to the peace of Europe. About the only leverage Chamberlain has had was the desire of Mussolini to raise some money in London. He wouldn't use the British navy, but he did have the London banker.

The boys aren't out of the trenches yet and few people will believe they're going to get out until they are. But if Mr. Chamberlain gets them out, he'll be the miracle man of this year and Europe ought to have a breathing spell.

THE VANISHING VANDERBILTS.

A brief reference in the press last week told of the death of Frederick William Vanderbilt. Thus the passing of the head of a family, once one of the most renowned and financially powerful in the country, almost escaped notice. Frederick William was the sole surviving grandson of Cornelius, the original Commodore, who was born the son of a poor farmer and accumulated a fortune of 150 million dollars. The Vanderbilts were in the big money when Rockefeller was a bookkeeper and Ford a blacksmith.

The Vanderbilt nest egg came out of ferry boats. Cornelius at 16 carried freight and passengers on a sailboat between Staten Island and Manhattan. In a few years he owned a small fleet in coastwise trade. At 35 he put his savings into a steamboat business which was worth 15 million dollars when he sold out thirty years later. Then he turned to the railroads. In succession he acquired and merged the New York and Harlem, the New York and Hudson River, and the New York Central. He went after the Erie, too, but his ambitions there were frustrated in the famous encounter with Gould, Fisk, and Drew.

The first Vanderbilt made a contribution to transportation, and in that he was distinguished above the men with whom he fought, who were mere stock manipulators. Under his control the New York Central system was built into a splendid transportation system and a successful business enterprise. As a protective step in rate wars he acquired control of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, and the Big Four.

The carrying on of these operations was not without profit and when the Commodore died, at the age of 83, he left a huge fortune, a hundred million alone going to his favorite son, William Henry. The Frederick William who died last week was the sole surviving son of William Henry.

The financial eminence of the Vanderbilts, now of the past, was accompanied by a snooty place in society. In the period when the highest social distinction required that a foreign title be dangling somewhere about the family tree, and 176 million dollars was being sent abroad as dowries for 134 marriages to noblemen, the supreme catch—the duke of Marlborough—went to a Vanderbilt daughter, Consuelo.

The passing of the Vanderbilts from the place which they formerly occupied in business has been partly due to the times and partly to the fact that those of the later generation lacked the aptitude for business of the founders of the family fortune. The financial requirements of the New York Central and the other roads with which the Vanderbilts may be identified resulted in bankers becoming the dominant force in the control of the roads. And as none of the successors seemed to have the genius of the earlier Vanderbilt for railroad management, that, too, passed to other hands. Although the family has a large amount of the stock of the railroads, there have been few or no dividends for a number of years. The Vanderbilts are a vanishing family in the business world. Once the most powerful in the greatest industry, the family is now renowned only for yachting, race horses, and superior card playing. The next generation may be back in shirt sleeves.

CORN FOR EUROPE.

Italy, with a short wheat crop in spite of land reclamation and intensive agriculture, must continue to import breadstuffs, but Mussolini says it will not be from democratic countries. The wheat of democracy shall not be fed to Fascist Italy. Democracy has been warring on the true faith and Italy will not eat its bread. Probably some communistic grain from the Ukraine will do.

Italy has been mixing American corn with wheat for its flour. That demand, along with the war storage requirements of other countries, and their stock feeding needs, gave American corn and grain shipments a tremendous and unexpected boost a few months ago. The corn trade was a bit of a mystery for a while.

During the world war America tried to teach European populations, for the sustenance of which it suddenly became responsible, that corn meal would make up into a number of palatable and nutritious foods. It was a failure. Just as the Englishman knew that oats were for his horse the European knew that corn was for his stock. Americans had to divide their wheat and not their corn with their, as it were, allies. The American housewife then in charge of a home can still remember what happened to her flour bin.

Potatoes had the same experience when they were first introduced in Europe as substitutes in a wheat famine, but then the American housewife was not standing in back to give up half her wheat flour. Came the famine, you liked potatoes

CORN BREAD FOR ITALY.

[Denver Rocky Mountain News.]

Because of a diminishing wheat crop the people of Italy are eating a "new bread" made, by government order, with flour containing 20 per cent of corn or other substitutes. Some Italians have complained.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper has just answered them by asserting that the new bread is more nourishing and produces greater energy for reproductive purposes, therefore being important to the welfare and destiny of the Italian race.

We get it. Since there are so many Italians that they can't have all the wheat they want, they are told to increase their reproductive energy by eating substitutes, so that there will be more Italians to share the wheat, and they can eat more substitutes and produce still more Italians, and so on and on. The simple logic of that proposition surely will convince all of Premier Mussolini's people that it was absurd to kick about not getting enough wheat in their bread.

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

The favorite parlor trick of Dr. Artur Rodzinski, who is conducting at the four concerts at Ravinia this week, and of his young and charming wife, Halina, is that levitation stunt you may have learned in your childhood. The victim sits in a chair. Four persons stand beside him, each clasping his hands together. Then with index fingers only, two persons at the knees and two at the arm pits, they lift him high into the air.

Crowds were so great at Ravinia Sunday, pressing on either side of the Ravinia entrance, that the police refused to allow Conductor Rodzinski's car to enter the grounds.

"But I'm the conductor," he explained. "I don't care who you are; you can't drive into the grounds," said the officer firmly. At that moment the car of Mrs. Louis Eckstein, owner of Ravinia, through the courtesy of whom the concerts are being held there, drove up. She also was stopped. Finally, she prevailed upon the officer to let Mr. Rodzinski's car pass. He had but two minutes to spare before ascending the podium.

The Line has referred several times to Dorothy Baker's Young Man with a Horn, inspiration for which she found in the music of the late Bix Beiderbecke, trumpeter idolized by swing fans. Downbeat, the magazine of swing, finds other disguised characters easily identifiable as Armstrong, Hines, Lang, and Paul Whiteman, although the author has the usual blurb in the front disclaiming that any of the characters referred to were real persons. "The King of Jazz is bull's-eyes for a few pot shots, although the general public won't notice them," says Downbeat. "She even tells how the trombone scoring in a Stravinsky piece sounds like Miff Mole, but she doesn't use his name. . . . Dorothy Baker canonizes him [Beiderbecke] as a saint of the off beat. Let's pray though that this book doesn't inspire a whole school of novelists to write about the boys who play hot."

Mention of Miff Mole (our favorite name in the world of swing) brings to mind that in the famous book, Le Jazz Hot, by the Frenchman Hugues Panassie, leading swing music critic of the world, he says that Miff Mole (white) and Jimmy Harrisson (colored) are the two musicians who first used the trombone for solos in a really interesting hot style.

• • •

Le Jazz Hot is a guide to swing music. The invasion by hot jazz of the consciousness not of America alone, but of the whole world, has been powerful and effective, says the introduction to Le Jazz Hot. It has been fought, viewed with alarm, but it has gone on growing until today . . . it pervades all musical culture. Its inroads on classical music have been so marked that hot jazz has now become in its own right, a classic, exhibiting all the formal rigors and economy associated with classicism.

• • •

There is a chapter, "Chicago Style," which originated in the brilliant period of jazz and swing between 1925 and 1929 when Chicago was several years ahead of New York, "Chicago solos are made up of fewer notes. Great restraint is the rule. Phrases are generally shorter and have a hot structure that is almost always exemplary. The melodic pattern is always careful," Mr. Panassie says. Four artists are outstanding swing virtuosi, he thinks, the late Bix Beiderbecke, Louis Armstrong, Teschmaker, and Bessie Smith.

An extraordinary Englishwoman who is visiting in Chicago for ten days is Mrs. Clara Fyfe, Commander of the British Empire, thirteenth child of a day laborer, and a power in England's Conservative party. She was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the board of the English Speaking union the other day, and held bankers (James B. Forgan and Charles F. Spaulding), lawyers (James F. Oates Jr. and Thomas Underwood), and business men (Durand Smith and Robert H. Cabell) enthralled during 45 minutes of extemporaneous and slightly ungrammatical speaking. A short, stocky woman in her early fifties, wife of a lorry driver, she lives in Newcastle. She told of her entrance into politics, and of the investiture at Buckingham palace last January when the king made her a Commander of the British Empire (Gracie Fields received her order at the same time). Her trip to the United States and Canada is a gift from her friends in Newcastle. When she reluctantly accepted a gift from them she said contributions must not be more than a shilling each, and that the thing she wanted was a trip to America. Her great friend, Lady Falmouth, a friend of the William S. Monroes, arranged for her to stay with them. So during her Chicago stay she is with them at their country place in Wayne.

ENCEPHALITIS: AN UNCONQUERED MALADY.

A CURSORY glance over what has been accomplished in the last three or four decades in the prevention of disease heartens us greatly, for the span of life has been prolonged substantially. Whether the peoples of the world have found or are finding more happiness and satisfaction in their social and economic affairs well may be doubted. It is obvious, however, that the relative total of physical pain is only a fraction of that which was endured a century ago.

But much remains to be done; more victories must be won, as many disorders still exist which are unsolved puzzles. One such is encephalitis—sometimes called sleeping sickness. It made its debut in this country in 1918 in New York City, while scattered outbreaks occurred in Iowa and West Virginia. At first epidemic in character, it has evinced a sufficient fondness for the people of the United States to desire to remain in our midst and isolated cases occur in many communities.

Most of our information as to the nature of the disease has been obtained from the St. Louis epidemic of 1933. Beginning late in July, a few became ill, while others were recognized as late as October of that year. In most instances the fever was high, ranging from 104 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit for several days, dropping gradually to normal within six to ten days. Stupor, when present, varied in depth from drowsiness to complete unconsciousness. Many patients could be roused only with difficulty, whereupon they answered questions dully and slowly, promptly relapsing into a state simulating deep slumber.

The question of treatment is paramount and usually symptoms are managed as they arise, inasmuch as no specific neutralizing agent is known. Blood serum from those who had recovered locally was found to be of value, but not from victims whose ailment differed radically from the St. Louis variety. For example, blood from a person who had survived an attack a year or two earlier in another locality failed to destroy the poison of the St. Louis type.

In 1935 an outbreak in Japan was tested against the blood of St. Louis convalescents. No similarity appeared; in other words, there was little if any remedial power against the Japanese virus. Likewise, the blood of those recuperating in Japan in 1935 failed to neutralize the toxin of the Missouri organism, kept growing in the laboratories.

From this it can be inferred that there are at least two species of the illness—A and B—and it is entirely possible that an Australian epidemic of "a mysterious disease called X" may be another form. In this latter malady the onset was rapid, the sufferers became stuporous quickly with all the usual signs of encephalitis. Convulsions, however, were far more frequent.

One of the strangest phenomena is the occurrence of typical symptoms of the disease under discussion subsequent to measles, whooping cough, mumps, and influenza. Instances have been noted in which individuals convalescing from some one of these infections have exhibited the typical indications of nerve tissue injury, although as yet no known relationship has been established between such incidents and the epidemic manifestation.

Children who spend a portion of the summer at resorts away from home may develop, at periods, a decreased or lowered resistance due to many factors. This means that every infection must be guarded against scrupulously. Colds, headache, or sudden vomiting should be regarded as sufficiently serious to warant expert care and nursing.

Still an enigma, we may hope that this affliction will pass us by, at least for a few years until effective methods for prevention and cure are discovered.

FLOODED BASEMENTS.

After the water has receded, wash the walls and floor with soap and water. As a deodorant and cleanser, one ounce of chlorine to a bucket of water may be employed. This strength will not injure a metal container. Allow the solution to remain on for 24 hours. If the eyes or nasal passages become irritated, this fluid may be diluted. A solution of 15 to 25 per cent chlorinated lime may be used or one-half pound of bleaching powder to a gallon.

BABY'S SUMMER FEEDING.

Mrs. A. B. writes: I have a baby 8 months old. Since she is my first child I am worried about summer feeding. 1. Should I continue warming her milk? 2. She has two upper teeth and two lower. Is she likely to cut any more soon?

REPLY.

1. Yes. 2. The two lower central incisors are cut between six and nine months, as a rule. Between the 8th and 12th months the four upper incisors may appear; and, from the 12th to the 15th months, two lower lateral incisors and four anterior molars. The four canines may be expected between the 18th and the 24th months and the four posterior molars between the 24th and 30th months.

STREPTOCOCCI INJECTION.

Mrs. M. C. writes: About two years ago I had a streptococci sore throat. About six months later I had another attack. Is there any injection I could take against this germ, or will it leave my blood in time?

REPLY.

The drug, para-aminobenzenesulfonamide, or one of its derivatives, is the only known specific against hemolytic streptococcic infections. Sufficient time has not yet elapsed to evaluate properly the therapeutic effect of this substance, but the evidence indicates that it possesses bactericidal properties.

RELIEF FOR NEURALGIA.

Mrs. J. H. writes: I have had trifacial neuralgia for years and have been resorting to alcohol injections every five or six months. I have heard that there is an operation to cure this trouble.

REPLY.

In this form of neuralgia, permanent relief can be obtained by section of the sensory root of the trigeminal nerve within the skull. The results are brilliant. There is but little risk.

NO ALCOHOL IN DIABETES.

E. S. writes: My father has diabetes. He likes his beer and whisky and says they are good for him. He is 60 years old.

REPLY.

Papa may be a good judge of liquor, but the wish is probably father to the thought. Alcohol is not prescribed in diabetes.

DEFEND MODEL YACHT BASIN.

Chicago, July 4.—Officials of the Chicago Model Yacht club and the Ogden Park Model Yacht club, whose members comprise youths as well as adults of both sexes, desire to call your attention to certain facts relating to the sport of sailing model yachts and the purpose of the model yacht basin at the foot of 51st street and Outer drive.

This statement is an answer to a letter by "Fair Play" printed in the Voice of the People June 20 and a feature story printed on page 1 of the same paper June 27 which belittles a fine, organized sport and abuses its followers and sponsors.

Sailing of model yachts is open to any individual on the model basin aforementioned at any time under the same conditions which apply to use of tennis courts and other park recreational facilities. There have been a total of forty-eight days set aside for matched races by model yachts, power boats, and juvenile races sponsored by the park district of the 221 days between April 17 and Nov. 20, which constitutes our sailing season.

The model basin was designed and built in 1931 for the one purpose of providing a place for old and young to sail model boats. It was inspired by a desire to promote the sport in Chicago which had been carried on with a growing interest under the greatly limited facilities offered in the Ogden park lagoon.

The Chicago concrete basin at the Outer drive is 330 by 400 feet and made of heavily reinforced concrete bottom and walls with a 7 foot concrete walk around it. Yachtsmen using the basin provided the steel mast and yard arm for flying club burgees at the north end. Any one who thinks such an expenditure could be justified for creating a wading pool or sailing tin lizzies has grandiose ideas of park improvements.

There are fifty model yacht clubs in the country. They have sectional and a national organization. The Chicago pool is used for sectional and national events and attracts modelmen from all over the country. These events are followed with the keenest of interest by thousands of residents and visitors and they also inspire in the young a desire to have better models than the "toy" variety and become real sailors. As many as 5,000 persons have attended Chicago major week-end yacht races.

Far from being toys, the models used in these races are built from professional architect's plans and the construction of a model may require 1,000 hours or more. The sport has been sponsored in Chicago and other cities by prominent business firms and individuals. Chicago yachtsmen race annually for trophies provided by Commodore Sheldon Clark, John T. Pirie, United States Marshal William H. McDonnell, Popular Mechanics magazine, and others. Two of these races are open to any youth or adult and do not require club affiliation.

Detroit with seven model yacht clubs sets the pace in the midwest in fostering the sport and the Detroit News maintains a shop with expert instruction for boys who wish to build real models, and sponsors races for them in the finest basin in the country built in Belle Isle park. The Detroit Yacht club also sponsors an annual race and the sport in general. Grand Rapids soon will have one of the best basins in the country and plans to be host to the national regatta for A class models in September.

For several years the Chicago park officials have provided shop facilities and competent instructors for boys who wished to build models of approved design and has conducted races for the owners in the Outer drive basin. During the Century of Progress Chicago yachtsmen staged a regatta in the main lagoon with twenty A class yachts sailing as a fleet and also arranged an exhibition by the British champion yachtsman of that year.

UNCLE SAM A STOCK BUYER?

Chicago, July 5.—Yea, verily, many a truth is spoken in jest! Your contributor "G." wisecracks thusly: "Hist! That stock market rise is just another New Deal plot. Beware!"

The most reasonable explanation of this sudden, unwaranted rise in the price of stocks that I have heard is the statement that the two billion dollar fund with which the New Dealers manipulate the price of United States bonds is now being used to give common stocks a semblance of prosperity.

CAP GUNS AND POLICE TICKETS.

Chicago, July 2.—In reference to the sale of cap guns, why should the small store owner be made the goat all the time?

A south side dime store has sold around 50 gross of Gene Autry guns, not to mention countless other kinds of cap guns. Do the police bother the big fellows? Not on your life.

Just let the little guy sell a dozen or so and they make him the worst criminal in Chicago.

And this police ticket racket; they hound store owners to buy these tickets—buy them and you get all the protection you need. Refuse and if you so much as display a toy gun they hound you to death. Can't Chicago give the little fellow a break?

A CALL FOR "SHOOTING STARS."

Ludington, Mich., July 2.—Recently in your paper I ran across the story of the Shooting Star, the wild flower I have loved and longed to see. I lived in Rogers Park many years ago before its sidewalk days. We walked to school on paths and picked these beautiful flowers in the ditches along side of the road. The name Shooting Star alone brings back many beautiful memories of 44 years ago when I was only 10. Michigan's woods and fields are full of wild flowers but there are no shooting stars. I wonder if I could buy, borrow or steal some of these lovely plants for my garden.

FARM RENTAL.

Kewanee, Ill., July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" is the owner of a farm. "B" gets a [1] conditional sale agreement. If kept up he will receive deed at the end of five years.

2. If not, contract may be terminated at any time by "A."

3. "B" represents to "C" that he is the owner and "C" leases farm from him.

4. Since "A" may terminate "B's" contract at any time he may also evict "C" since he did not consent to lease.

5. Two months' rent is due.

6. "C's" money for rent is given to "A."

7. "B" issues a distress warant against "C." "C's" cattle and horses are detained and [8] starved by a custodian for thirty-two days. "C" died and "B" continued for four days after "C's" death. Custodian was not bonded.

9. What is your opinion of this? The justice of the peace and the custodian were fully aware of "A's" ownership of farm. They knew "A" had the rent money.

10. Can this situation be corrected?

11. The rent suit was to oblige "C" to sell the cattle at a sacrifice.

12. "B" sold "C's" cattle as his own immediately after death.

13. The estate had not been probated. What are the steps to take?

14. What crimes were committed and is there a statute of limitations on them? Can anything be recovered by civil suit?

A. S.

1. Such forms are common with reference to personal property. We have not seen them used with reference to real estate.

2. The Illinois forcible detainer act authorizes, on thirty days' notice, a quick and inexpensive suit for possession "when a vendee, having obtained possession under a written or verbal agreement to purchase lands or tenements and having failed to comply with his agreement, withholds possession after demand in writing." While in a mortgage foreclosure the defendant is sometimes permitted to enjoy the use of the premises during the fifteen months allowed for redemption from the foreclosure sale, there is no such delay in these contract cases.

3. B is in the position of any other party who has undertaken to purchase from a person who was not in a position to sell. He will get no greater rights against the true owner.

4. Correct.

5. B could evict C for nonpayment of rent. We assume that you mean that it is C's rent which is unpaid.

6. In general, the subtenant should pay his rent to his owner landlord rather than to the overlandlord.

7. This would seem to be within B's rights.

8. It is not clear why the matter was permitted to continue for thirty-three days.

9. This is a complex situation that should be gone over with a local attorney in a personal interview.

10. See 9.

11. As far as we understand the facts, B was entitled to his rent money, and hence was in a position to bring suit to collect it. The additional motive that we surmise would not affect B's legal rights.

12. We assume that you mean that they were sold under the distress proceedings.

13. See 9.

14. Same.

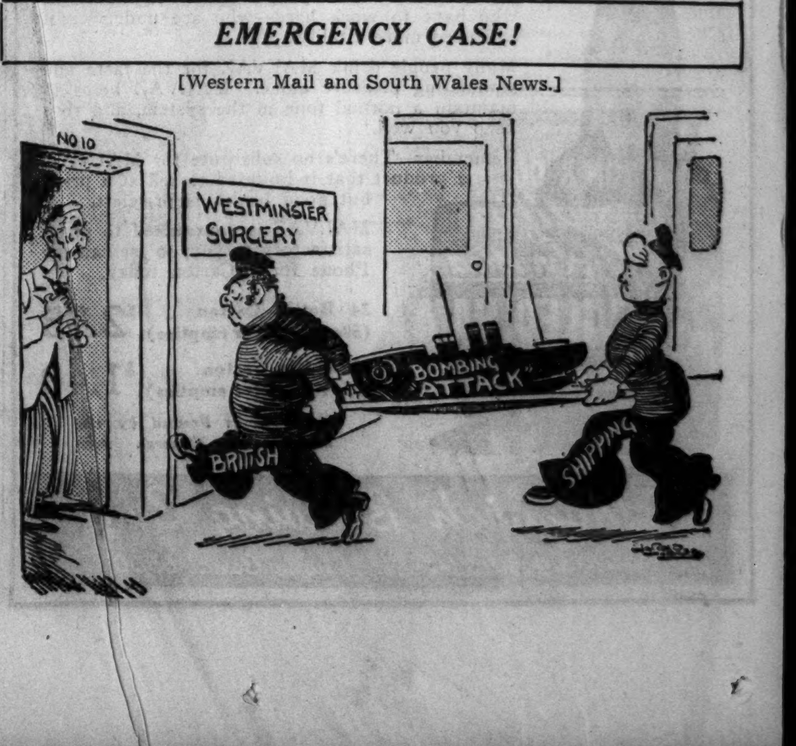
EMERGENCY CASE!

[Western Mail and South Wales News.]



COUNCIL TRANSIT GROUP GETS CAR FRANCHISE TODAY

Long Fight Expected with Surface Lines.

A proposed new street railway ordinance requiring the Chicago Surface Lines to pay compensation to the city will be presented to the city council's local transportation committee today by William H. Sexton, special traction counsel for the city.

The committee meeting is expected to produce important developments which may mean an extended fight between the city and the street car companies. It is the announced intention of city officials to abandon the 1907 street railway ordinances when the latest extension of the old franchises expires July 15. Surface lines attorneys, who have indicated the companies would resist the move, are to attend the meeting.

Council Acts Tomorrow.

The city council is scheduled to meet tomorrow to take action on the ordinance matter and Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson has scheduled a court hearing next Monday to determine what steps he should take after the city council acts. The court has had jurisdiction over the street car companies during eleven years of receivership.

The proposed new ordinance, it is understood, will require the street railways to pay 3 per cent of their fare collections to the city, to continue unified operation of all street railway properties and to preserve their present 31 million dollar cash reserves for improvements and modernization.

The latter provision would prevent distribution of cash to surface lines bondholders as has been threatened. In addition, the ordinance will call for abolition of the 171 million dollar purchase price or book value of the railway properties.

At Odds Over Price.

The purchase price is the figure, computed under provisions of the 1907 ordinances, at which the city can buy the system. The companies claim that this figure represents a fair value of the properties, while city officials assert it is far in excess of the amount at which the properties should be valued for franchise purposes.

Sexton said at a recent court hearing that city officials hope abolition of the old ordinances may be a lever with which the city can force the surface lines to agree to a unification with the elevated railway and thus clear the way for complete modernization of local transportation facilities in Chicago.

STATE BUREAU TO HUNT SALES TAX CHEATERS

Samuel Nudelman, state director of finance, announced yesterday the formation of a special investigation bureau to press the drive on sales tax cheaters. Criminal prosecution, he said, will be brought against all those who are fraudulently evading payment of the tax.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan and Special Investigator Gus Bartels will be in charge of the bureau. Both men, whose services have been loaned to the state department of finance by State's Attorney Courtney, have been working on sales tax investigations for several months.

A few hours after their appointment they raided a south side automobile finance agency, seized its ledger books, took five employés into custody for questioning, and began a search for two officials of the company and an attorney. Mr. Bugan said it was suspected the company had evaded paying a large amount in sales taxes by changing the corporate name.

Nudelman said the drive is first to be intensified in Chicago and suburban towns in Cook county, and eventually throughout the state.

HORNER SIGNS COURTNEY BILL TO CURB MORONS

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.] — Gov. Henry Horner late today signed the bill sponsored by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county to curb sex morons, which was passed in the special legislative session that adjourned last Friday.

The measure provides for jury trials of persons charged with a criminal offense and believed to be criminal sexual psychopaths, upon petition by the attorney general, or the state's attorney of the county in which the arrested person lives.

Should the person be found to be a criminal sexual psychopath he would be confined in the Illinois Security hospital at Chester, or in the Southern Illinois penitentiary at Menard until he recovered, when he would be tried for his original offense.

Another bill signed by the governor enables cities to pledge receipts from revenue producing properties to obtain PWA grants. This will permit Chicago to go ahead with its plans to obtain $3,260,000 for improvements at Navy pier and the Chicago airport.

Diagram of the earth, clay, and rock strata which underly Chicago along the lake and which make special precautions necessary in plans for the projected subway.

Plans for construction of the proposed State street subway provide for every reasonable precaution to prevent settling of streets or buildings, Philip Harrington, traction engineer for the city, said yesterday. Plans are being completed in anticipation of a federal grant of 45 per cent of the 31 million dollar cost of three downtown subways.

Frank R. Randall, consulting structural engineer for the city, explained that unusual earth formation near the lake make special precautions necessary to prevent shifting of the soil and damaging of building foundations.

Before major excavation operations are begun on State street, he said, heavy steel sheet piling will be driven 35 feet into the earth to form solid walls of steel on each side of the street. The piling will form the outer walls of the subway and will prevent interference with abutting building foundations, he said.

GOVERNOR AND COURTNEY PLAN EUROPEAN TOUR

Gov. Horner and State's Attorney Courtney are contemplating a trip to Europe together, it became known last night, and should they go they are likely to leave within a week or ten days. By sailing the middle of July the governor could spend two weeks abroad and return in time for the opening of the state fair on Aug. 13

Neither Mr. Horner nor the state's attorney was available last night. Both were fishing—the governor on Lake Springfield and Mr. Courtney in Wisconsin. The latter will be joined there tomorrow by Bailif A. J. Horan of the Municipal court.

About the only pressing matter before the governor is the pile of bills left from the special legislative session which adjourned early last Friday. He already has signed many of them and is awaiting an opinion on the constitutionality of the others from Attorney General Otto Kerner. Among the latter are the drivers' license and financial responsibility bills.

A NONPAYING RENTER FINDS NEW QUARTERS

Attorney Samuel Bloomberg mounted to the third floor of his apartment building at 646 North Clark street last night with an order from the Renters' court to inform Mrs. Ruth Donham, 43 years old, a divorcee on relief, that she had ten days within which to move for not paying her rent.

Mrs. Donham met him with a pail full of water which sent Mr. Bloomberg flying down the stairs. He called for help, and Policemen Phil Shore and John Baker appeared.

This time Mrs. Donham appeared at her door with a small shotgun. Shore grabbed the gun just as she fired. The charge whistled past Shore's ear, knocked a hole in the wall, and showered plaster on Mr. Bloomberg. Mrs. Donham spent the rest of the night at the Chicago avenue police station.

WPA TO PROVIDE JOBS FOR 10,000 MORE IN CHICAGO

69,000 Others to Be Kept at Work Till Jan. 1.

Mayor Kelly told the city council yesterday that Works Progress administration officials have agreed to keep 69,602 WPA workers on city projects until the end of the year, and in addition have approved approximately 10,000 new jobs. Most of the projects are for street construction work.

Workers for the new jobs, the mayor said, will be taken from the relief rolls wherever possible so as to lighten the city's relief load. At present there are 109,260 WPA workers on city and park projects.

The council authorized Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, to negotiate for a loan of $3,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This amount is needed to provide equipment, materials, and skilled supervision for the workers. It is planned to repay the loan from the city's vehicle tax fund.

Accept Grants from PWA.

The council also took action to receive grants totaling $2,678,587 from the Public Works administration for construction of four city projects. Chief of these is the extension of Wacker drive from Michigan avenue to the Outer drive, for which a grant of $1,252,636 has been approved.

The three other grants accepted by the city are the Western avenue grade separation and bridge at the Drainage canal, $777,272; and subway type grade separations under the Milwaukee railroad tracks at Austin avenue, $544,770, and under tracks of the Grand Trunk railroad on 49th street near Ashland avenue, $103,909.

PWA grants are for 45 per cent of the total construction cost. Ald. Arvey said the city's share for these three projects has been set aside from its share of the motor fuel tax.

$1,7000,000 to City Schools.

Washington WPA officials allocated $1,700,000 to the board of education for the renovation and redecorating of school buildings, John C. Christensen, school board architect, told board members at their meeting yesterday. At his request the board provided $175,000 from the school building fund to finance supplies for the projects. He said the new allocation will continue for two more years the WPA school renovation program now underway.

The board also voted to provide $3,850,000 from the 1938 building fund to match an expected PWA grant of $3,150,000 for a $7,000,000 school building program.

FORMER DEPUTY A DEFENDANT IN COAL TRIAL, SLAIN

London, Ky., July 6.—(AP)—Frank White, 36 years old, former Harlan county sherif's deputy, on trial with other ex-deputies, Harlan coal operators, and mining companies on an anti-union conspiracy indictment, was shot to death tonight near Corbin, Ky., near here.

State highway patrolmen said the shooting occurred in a tourist camp. Turnkey Charley Hurley said a man listed as Chris Patterson, former Harlan county miner, was placed in jail in connection with the shooting.

Since the anti-union conspiracy trial started in Federal court here nearly eight weeks ago, three previous acts of violence have been reported.

A government witness, Lester Smithers, was shot to death in front of a saloon at Gulston, near Harlan; another government witness, John Isom, reported he was kidnaped; and yesterday Lee Fleenor, a former deputy and also a defendant, was arrested on a charge of shooting a man once convicted of killing his father.

BANDITS HOLD OFF CROWD; ESCAPE WITH JEWEL HAUL

Three bandits drove up to a jewelry store at 4048 Milwaukee avenue last night while crowds from the Portage Park theater, a few doors north, were streaming by. One bandit broke the store window with a baseball bat and poured rings and gems into a sack while a companion held off the crowd with a shotgun and the third remained at the wheel of the car. The robbers escaped before police could reach the scene.

BERWYN'S MAYOR TO ASK PROBE OF EXTRA TAX FUND

Claims Some Bonds Redeemed Twice.

Mayor Anton Janura of Berwyn said last night that he would ask an investigation today by State's Attorney Courtney's office of a shortage of $3,726 in the suburb's special assessment funds.

The shortage was disclosed Tuesday night and action by the prosecutor was decided on after a conference between the mayor, William Oplatka, city attorney of Berwyn, and the finance committee of the Berwyn council.

Some Bonds Twice Paid.

Evidence showed, the mayor charged, that some bonds had been paid off twice from the special fund. One lot of securities, for which $3,726 was ostensibly paid early in the year, were redeemed from the real holders later, he said.

Mayor Janura made public a statement from a woman resident of Berwyn to whom the check for $3,726 was drawn in the first instance. This woman asserted she did not own any bonds, and, further, that she had kept the money only a few minutes.

Identified by an Official.

The woman said she cashed the check at the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company after she was accompanied there and identified by two men, one a Berwyn city official and the other a former official.

Both men last night denied any part in the transaction and one of them declared that the Berwyn city books are muddled. The other man asserted politics is involved in the case.

FBI IS REPORTED CLOSE TO LEVINE KIDNAP-KILLERS

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Federal agents were working today on clews that they hope will lead them to the kidnap-killers of Peter Levine, 12 years old, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

This was learned as the FBI men continued for the second day the questioning of Werner Fred Luck, a handyman, 23 years old, who already has been convicted of attempting to extort $30,000 from Murray Levine, the slain boy's father.

Luck was brought down to the federal building here yesterday from the Westchester county penitentiary in White Plains, where he was awaiting sentence on the extortion conviction.

ED AND HIS $27 APPETITE TEST JAIL'S CUISINE

Ed Pepper.

The cook at the Bridewell laid a half dozen extra plates yesterday—for Ed Pepper. Ed's the young fellow from Berkeley, Cal., who ate $27.98 worth of meals the first day he stopped at a loop hotel, the high point being reached with a mid-afternoon snack that came to $5.91. Judge Eugene Holland sent him to the Bridewell because Ed hadn't any money to pay the bill. He'll be there fifteen days if the food holds out. Last night there was some doubt about that, for Ed is 6 feet 4 and weighs 250 pounds, and it is easy for him to get hungry.

COURT UPHOLDS CHICAGO BAN ON PINBALL DEVICES

Upholding the city's right to outlaw petty gambling on pinball machines, the Illinois Appellate court yesterday dissolved a Superior court injunction restraining police from interfering with the operation of two types of the devices. The ruling, which is expected to affect several pending cases, said:

"To promote the general welfare, and under its general police powers, the city council is not impotent to deal with these devices which entice children and weak-minded adults to gaming and squandering of money.

Attorneys representing Samuel Levins, distributor and operator of the machines, denied they were gambling devices. The games are of skill and for amusement of the players, they contended.

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

OLD HEARTS FAIL; 3 VETERANS DIE AT GETTYSBURG

32 Still in Hospitals; One Critically Ill.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—A third veteran of the civil war—one who did not see the "last reunion" of the Blue and the Gray—died tonight as former comrades and foes neared their homes.

John W. Weaver, 95 years old, of Muldrow, Okla., succumbed to heart disease in a Gettysburg hospital. Heart disease also caused the deaths earlier in the day of John W. Cooper, 91, of Largo, Fla., also a former confederate soldier, and Daniel T. Price, 91, of Marion, Ind., a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In Hospital Six Days.

Weaver arrived for the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, June 29, and was taken to the hospital the next day. His son, John Weaver Jr., served as his attendant.

Col. Paul R. Hawley, commandant of the army's medical field service school at nearby Carlisle, who had charge of looking after the health of the 1,980 veterans who came to this battlefield town for the observance, was called to his home in College Corner, O., because of his father's death.

Colonel Takes Over Duties.

Of the many veterans who were treated for illness and exhaustion during the encampment, thirty-two remained in hospitals here and at Carlisle. One, Alfred E. Newlin, 92, of Graham, N. C., was reported in serious condition.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Black Cattle Herd.

July 6, 1938.

ALL of the Tribune farms' black cattle have been brought into one herd at the Fox river farm near Yorkville. As the animals were bought they were assembled on both the Du Page county and the Fox river farms. Now they have been thrown into one herd for convenience in mating and registering the desirable offsprings with the American Aberdeen-Angus association.

The breeding animals have been selected from some of the best herds of Angus cattle in the United States. They have come from herds in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and Washington.

The final shift was made today when thirteen head—twelve females and a bull—were moved from the Du Page county farm to the Fox river farm.

Range in Bluegrass

The manager of the Fox river farm will follow the original plan, made three years ago, of establishing a herd of 100 pure bred Aberdeen-Angus mother cows. There are now forty-three females in the herd. They will be allowed to range in bluegrass up to their knees in the Fox river valley during the summer and fall. All but seven of them are now of breeding age and will be mated this fall. The plan is to have the calves born in May, 1939.

The females in the herd range in age from yearlings to 5 year olds. They include ten mature cows bought as hefers in 1934 from B. E. Seeley, Mount Pleasant, Ia., and used in a successful blue-gray beef cattle test which now has been discontinued. Of the offspring of these ten cows, mated with a purebred Angus bull, eleven females have been saved—four 2 year olds and seven yearlings.

Twenty-two head of Angus hefers have been bought this year. Ten were obtained at two public sales in Lafayette, Ind., in April. These animals came from some of the best Angus cattle in Indiana, including five from a black cattle farm owned by Henry Marshall, president of the International Livestock exposition. Another lot of ten hefers came from the Mercer county Angus sale held early in June. The final purchase of two hefers and a herd bull was made at the Congdon & Battles sale of cattle from their Washington ranch, held near Maquoketa, Ia., the latter part of June.

Beef Cattle Tests.

Along with the plan to consolidate all of the black cattle on the Fox river farm, the decision was made to expand the Tribune farms' beef cattle experiment. The expansion program calls for the establishment of a second foundation herd of purebred cattle of another beef breed. Shorthorns are being considered seriously. The new herd likely will be bought this summer. The problem of housing the animals is now being worked out. Herds of the two breeds, of course, will be kept separate. The present plan is to establish the black herd at the Fox river farm and the Shorthorns, or some other beef breed, at the Du Page county farm.

The beef cattle test is designed to enable the farmers to make some practical studies of the best and most economical plan for obtaining feeder animals. It will be necessary to extend the test over a period of several years. The farm managers will attempt to learn whether it is more profitable for midwest farmers to raise their own feeder animals from pure breds or to buy feeders produced on the western range. They may also have a chance to compare feeder animals produced by the two different beef breeds used in the test.

The managers also are hopeful of raising some good animals to be used in making replacements in the breeding herd and for sale to other breeders. The superior females and males may be fitted for the show ring. The chief objective, however, will be to contribute to the development of better animals to be fattened for beef. The managers not only are eager to increase the income of beef cattle operations on the Tribune farms, but hope their experience may encourage other farmers to look for greater profits through the production of better live stock.

CITY DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN FOR JEWISH MEETING

Chicago's thirty-two representatives at special sessions of the American Jewish congress, which will meet in New York in September, were announced last night. The thirty-two were those who received the highest number of votes in elections held June 25, 26, and 27. Polling places for the 60,000 registered Jewish voters over 18 years of age were distributed throughout the city.

A total of 33,344 votes were cast. A count of the ballots, made at the Chicago congress headquarters, 8 South Dearborn street, showed that Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Temple Anshe Emet, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street, had received 21,571 votes, the highest number cast for any candidate. Rabbi Goldman is the newly elected president of the American Zionist organization.

The special sessions of the congress in New York will meet with representatives of European Jewish organizations to discuss the situation of the Jews throughout the world and to develop plans for safeguarding Jewish interests.

ACTRESS LEAVES CASH FOR DRINKS AFTER LEAP IN SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOREL, Que., July 6.—Two suicide notes—one saying "I've had a lot of fun out of life, but it's all over now"—were produced as evidence today at the inquest into the death of Jean Carfray Low, 22 years old and an English actress. She leaped into the Atlantic ocean from the liner Ascania on a voyage to Montreal last month.

The girl's body, clad in a pink night gown, was recovered off this St. Lawrence river port Monday.

SCHOOLS FOLLOW INDUSTRY'S PACE IN JOB TRAINING

Open Trade Classes in New Fields.

Plans for keeping vocational training courses in Chicago public schools abreast of the changing demands of industry were outlined yesterday by Supt. William H. Johnson. The work of fitting pupils for jobs in the new fields, such as aviation, radio and television, and advanced printing, has begun, he said, and will be developed to a higher plane in the future.

Johnson's statements answered a question from Member Bernard L. Majewski at a meeting of the board of education. Majewski asked if the schools were prepared to teach the groundwork of new industries or if they still are training young people for outmoded jobs.

Industries Guide Courses.

In the public evening schools where apprentice courses are taught, Johnson explained, the instruction is kept up to date by the trade unions and the industries themselves. The curriculum of the new $3,150,000 south side trade school, to be built this year, is being planned by a joint committee of industrial and union leaders.

"If industry is glutted with electrical workers we will reduce the number of pupils who plan to be electrical workers," Johnson said. "There will be other fields for which they can be trained. We are not going to train pupils to do only one specialized job. We will give them a firm foundation in an industrial field, such as radio or aviation engineering."

He added that the school board's bureau of occupational research, organized last year, is also studying industrial developments preparatory to recommending new vocational courses.

Notes Change in Subjects.

Commenting on the record of the schools in keeping pace with industrial demands, Supt. Johnson said: "Twenty years ago Lane Technical High school was teaching steamfitting. Today welding is taught instead, because pipes are welded instead of threaded. We used to stress hand typesetting. Today we must teach more machine composition. The printing departments at both Washburne vocational school and Lane are equipped with the most modern printing machinery."

He said that, while a few years ago thousands of pupils wanted courses in automotive mechanics, the trend today is toward various skills in the aviation industry.

Among the up to date industrial courses offered at the Crane evening school, which stresses apprentice work, are air conditioning, radio service, refrigeration, catering, chemistry for nurses, meat merchandising, and gas welding.

Pastry Cooking Is Next.

A course in pastry cooking is to be added to the evening school curriculum. Harry W. Solomon, board member and hotel manager, said: "We used to obtain our restaurant cooks from abroad. There is no reason why young men trained in our own schools can't meet local needs."

"With the planned curriculum of our new south side trade school and our present vocational schools, we're going to have the best vocational system in the country," James B. McCahey, board president, asserted.

DR. JOHN A. BARTKY NAMED PRESIDENT OF TEACHERS' COLLEGE

Dr. John A. Bartky.

Dr. John A. Bartky was elected president of the Chicago Teachers' college, formerly the Chicago Normal school, by the board of education yesterday. He succeeds Dr. V. O. Graham, who was transferred to the principalship of the Norwood Park elementary school.

Dr. Bartky is 39 years old and lives at 2860 East 76th street. He was educated in the public schools and at the University of Chicago and received a doctor of philosophy degree from Northwestern university. While an undergraduate at the University of Chicago, Dr. Bartky was a track athlete.

He entered the school system in 1925 as an instructor at Harrison High school. Since then he has been principal of the Rogers and the Pasteur elementary schools and the Calumet High school, a teacher at the Normal school, and during the last year district superintendent of elementary schools on the south side.

100 BLOCK ROADS NEAR JOLIET TO RETAKE CONVICT

More than 100 armed guards of the Stateville penitentiary at Joliet and squads of state police early today were stretched around Joliet in a highway blockade to trap Alex Rams, a trusty prisoner, who escaped yesterday afternoon while working on an outside detail.

As soon as the escape became known Assistant Warden T. P. McCue, in the absence of Warden Joseph E. Ragen, set in action the blockade which the warden perfected and demonstrated on April 27.

Guards in automobiles took their stations at 83 key points within 20 miles of Joliet, watching railroad crossings and dirt crossroads. State police cars were placed at paved highway intersections. Every car entering or leaving the blockade was stopped for examination. Assistant Warden McCue said if the convict was within the blockade by the time it was established he will be captured.

COMPROMISE ON 55 BAILIFS FINED AND REINSTATED

A compromise between Bailif Albert J. Horan and the judges of the Municipal court, who want him to restore fifty-five deputy bailifs he removed last February for political reasons, they claim, seemed in prospect last night after Horan had appeared before the judges. The probabilities were that about fifteen or twenty of the discharged men would be rehired for vacation duty in the courts during the summer.

Horan now employs 249 of the 304 deputies he is entitled to hire. He claims the fifty-five discharged, who were reinstated by the judges, were laid off because of a slack in the court's work. The bailif is reported to have told the judges yesterday that he did not need the men and that by not using them the taxpayers can be saved about $12,000 per month.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby said the judges would meet again next Wednesday for a further discussion.

"Knee High" Corn 8 Feet Tall and Still Growing

Des Moines, Ia., July 6.—[Special.]—Iowa farmers have long been accustomed to the rule of "knee high by July 4" for corn. Several stalks were measured on a farm at nearby Bondurant today that surpassed eight feet in height.

IGOE COMMENDS AID FOR HIS WAR RISK VICTORIES

United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe yesterday commended the record of Benjamin F. Schwartz, one of his assistants, in obtaining victories in all of the 41 war risk insurance cases that he has tried for the government during the last court year. Attorney Schwartz is one of the three assistants aiding William M. Lytle, who is in charge of war risk insurance cases. The others are William Hession and J. C. Pappenfort.

Mr. Igoe said that in the last year 150 cases were disposed of under Mr. Lytel's direction. Of these, 6 were lost, 20 were settled without trial, and the rest were won by the government. The average amount involved in each case was about $15,000.

At present there are only 250 cases pending in the Chicago district.

Court Orders Frankie Lake to Pay $10,500 Judgment

A $10,500 judgment against Frankie Lake, Chicago beer baron of prohibition days, was entered in court yesterday in Detroit, Mich., where he now is in the coal and ice business, in favor of Mrs. Daisy Cook of Chicago. Mrs. Cook was the mother of William Cunning, a minor hoodlum said to have been associated with Lake in gambling enterprises, who was shot to death in 1935. Mrs. Cook testified that in 1931 Lake, wishing to make federal revenue agents believe he was in financial difficulties, borrowed $9,900 from her son.

LOANS ON JEWELRY, SILVERWARE, DIAMONDS, WATCHES
AT 1% a month
LOANS from $1 to $5,000 at this single rate of interest. Since 1899 this Society has made 1,950,000 loans amounting to over $80,000,000.
This Society was founded in 1899 for the public good. It is the only institution in Chicago regulated by the special State Pawners Law which limits interest rates to 1% a month on ALL loans from $1.00 to $5,000. NO OTHER CHARGES OF ANY KIND.

Everyone knows that today, for no fault of their own, many people are out of work and without income. We all hope that this state of affairs will soon change. But in the meanwhile the everyday needs for food, shelter, etc. continue. And it takes money to satisfy them.

The First State Pawners Society was organized to make money available for just such emergency needs.

You can borrow from us up to $5,000 at 1% a month on the security of your jewelry, silverware, watches or precious stones. That is as honorable and straight-forward a business proposition as borrowing from any commercial banker on stock or bond collateral.

The interest charge of 1% a month is the same whether you borrow $1 or $5,000. And that is all. There are no fines, fees, extras, commissions or any other charges of any kind whatsoever.

Two-Day Fete to Honor First Swedes in U. S.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Chicago will observe Friday, July 15, and Saturday, July 16, as New Sweden Tercentenary days. Mayor Kelly yesterday issued a proclamation setting aside the two days for the city's celebration of the coming of the first Swedish colonists to America three hundred years ago.

Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden, his son, Prince Bertil, and a party of distinguished Swedes will spend both days in Chicago and will attend a rally of Swedish-Americans from all parts of the central west on Saturday afternoon, July 16, at Soldiers' field.

Wollmar F. Bostrom, Swedish minister to the United States, and Mme. Bostrom, Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of the king of Sweden, and Countess Bernadotte, J. Sigfrid Edstrom, head of the tercentenary committee in Sweden, and Edvard Rodhe, bishop of Lund, will be in the party.

Several hundred soldiers from Fort Sheridan, the Black Horse troop, and other units of the 33d division and American Legion posts and drum and bugle corps of Cook county will take part in the celebration at Soldiers' field, together with Swedish-American organizations.

Nineteen Swedish choruses will unite in a massed chorus of several hundred voices and 1,000 gayly costumed children will dance. A flower garland drill, flag formations, and historical tableaux will be included on the program, and the combined junior choruses of the Independent Order of Vikings, the Vasa Order of America, and the Independent Order of Svithiod also will be presented.

The crown prince, Mr. Bostrom, Gosta Oldenburg, Swedish consul at Chicago, and Dr. Joshua Oden, former president of the Chicago Church federation and chairman of the Soldiers' field celebration, will speak.

Mr. Oldenburg is general chairman of Chicago's tercentenary celebration. Serving with Dr. Oden on the committee for the Soldiers' field celebration are Bernard Johnson, grand master of the Independent Order of Svithiod; Erik Thulin, grand secretary of the Independent Order of Vikings, and Frank Torell, chairman of the ticket committee.

Prince Gustav Adolf Leaves Hospital for Swedish Fete Affair

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, much improved after a week of treatment for a kidney ailment at the medical center, left the hospital today for a round of functions in his honor.

The crown prince and members of the royal party were the guests of Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines corporation, at a luncheon this afternoon. The heir to the throne of Sweden and J. Sigfrid Edstrom, chairman of the New Sweden tercentenary commission, also received honorary degrees from Lafayette college.

The crown prince, Princess Louise, and the crown prince's son, Prince Bertil, were guests of honor tonight at the dinner of the New Sweden tercentenary commission.

It was reported that the crown prince will go to Harvard for another degree within the next few days. He plans to visit Rochester, Detroit, Chicago, and Minneapolis before sailing for home July 22.

The Housewife

Lots of time and energy can be saved in the kitchen by investing in a handy little gadget called a combination bean slicer and pea huller. This metal device clamps to the table top. You feed carrots, or string beans, or potatoes in one end and they come out the other sliced neatly into shoe-strings. And it takes no time at all to perform this little miracle.

In an opening next to this you insert a pea pod and watch the peas come rolling out into the dish you've placed for them, while the empty pod is ejected at the other side. Shelling peas is not drudgery, but a pleasure with this invention. And your hands are not stained, either.

A Fall Bride

[Maurice Seymour Photo.]

One of early autumn's brides will be Miss Wilma Louise Watrous, daughter of Mrs. Hawkins Watrous of Evanston. Her engagement to William Luther White, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. H. White of Raleigh, N. C., was announced this week. Their wedding date has been set for Sept. 10.

Good Beauty Rule: Always Look Your Best

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whether you are waiting for your chance to break into movieland, meet that dashing young man on whom you have your heart set, get that superior job, or whether you are merely waiting for a chance to shine your brightest at a summer resort, now, and right now, is the time to prepare for the "breaks," says Caryl Gould. This talented warbler, whose melting brown eyes, mop of glossy brunette curls, and translucent olive skin soon will appear on the screen never lets a day go by unless she has in some way, improved her appearance.

No date is too unimportant, no day so dreary, or no trip so empty of romance, that Miss Gould doesn't dress up to the occasion with detailed care. She considers that every time she steps out of the house something pleasant will happen, and she wants to be prepared for it by looking as attractive as a combination of natural beauty and cosmetic aid can make her.

If women only knew how often a ripped hem, straggling hair, or a careless makeup has nipped an opportunity in the bud, they wouldn't step a foot out of the house without a thorough going over of every detail, says Caryl. There can't be careless days or bad days on the calendar of the girl who wants nice things to happen to her.

1. Inspect yourself from head to toe in full length mirrors, and don't forget side and back views. Walk a few steps away from the mirror and back again to make sure your clothes look well in motion.
2. Scrutinize your makeup in front of the mirror. Makeup which looks soft and mysterious under boudoir light is likely to look smeary or dramatic in sunshine.
3. Whisk your clothes lightly, pass a brush over your shoes, give your hat that dashing tilt.
4. Put away the clothes you wore the day before, making sure that hooks and snaps are in place, dress well set on the hanger, trees in shoes, hats wadded with tissue, stockings in scented box. It will make less work the next time you want to wear them.

Summertime drinks are fun to make because you can be as reckless as you please with fruit juice combinations, with pleasing results. It's like combining garden flowers. A heterogeneous arrangement is likely to be as beautiful as a carefully color blended bouquet.

I'm not suggesting carelessness in making the beverage, however. There must be discrimination in sweetening and in the amount of water, charged water, ginger ale, or other liquid added to the mixture of juices. And the rule of serving the drink cold must be observed. An insipidly lukewarm drink is not refreshing.

Part of the beverage [unsweetened] may be frozen in the refrigerator trays for use as ice cubes, if you prefer not to dilute the drink with ice water. Or ice cubes may be colored with food coloring to blend or contrast with the color of the beverage for the sake of attractiveness.

Sparkle Punch.

[Five Tall Glasses.]

¾ cup grape juice
¼ cup lemon juice
1½ cups pineapple juice
1 pint ginger ale

Combine fruit juices and chill in a covered jar in the refrigerator until ready to serve the punch. It will keep well for several days if necessary. Just before serving add ginger ale and pour the punch over ice cubes or crushed ice in tall glasses.

This punch may be made into a freezer frozen ice, a very good one, by adding two-thirds cup corn sirup to the fruit juices, pouring in the ginger ale, and then folding in a beaten egg white. Freeze in a mixture of three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt. The ice will serve ten persons. It may be used as appetizer, meat course accompaniment, or dessert.

GRAPE FROST.

Into each tall glass pour a cup of grape juice. Add to each a dipper of orange ice. Stir until the ice is partly dissolved. Then serve at once. Vanilla ice cream, lemon, or lime ice may be substituted for the orange. Fresh raspberry ice is excellent served in this drink.

Delicious Raspberry Punch.

[A Different Drink; Serves Six.]

1½ cups raspberry juice
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 cup orange juice
½ cup sugar
8 thin slices cucumber
1 quart charged water

Combine fruit juices, sugar, and the grated rind of half an orange. Add slices of cucumber, rind left on, and pour into a container which may be covered tightly. Chill in the refrigerator for several hours. Strain, add charged water, and serve over cracked ice or ice cubes.

Iced Nectar.

[Serves Four or More.]

2 cups canned peach juice or peach nectar
2 cups black tea infusion
1 cup orange juice
⅛ cup currant jelly

Pour hot tea over jelly and stir until dissolved. Chill, add fruit juices, and serve over cracked ice.

The last three recipes come from our booklet, "Thirst Quenchers," which contains thirty-two recipes for summertime drinks of all kinds. It costs 5 cents in stamps by mail, only 3 cents if it's called for in person at one of the two Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower lobby and 1 South Dearborn street. There's included a recipe for fruit punch to serve fifty, and also a watermelon punch bowl, but all the other recipes are for smaller numbers.

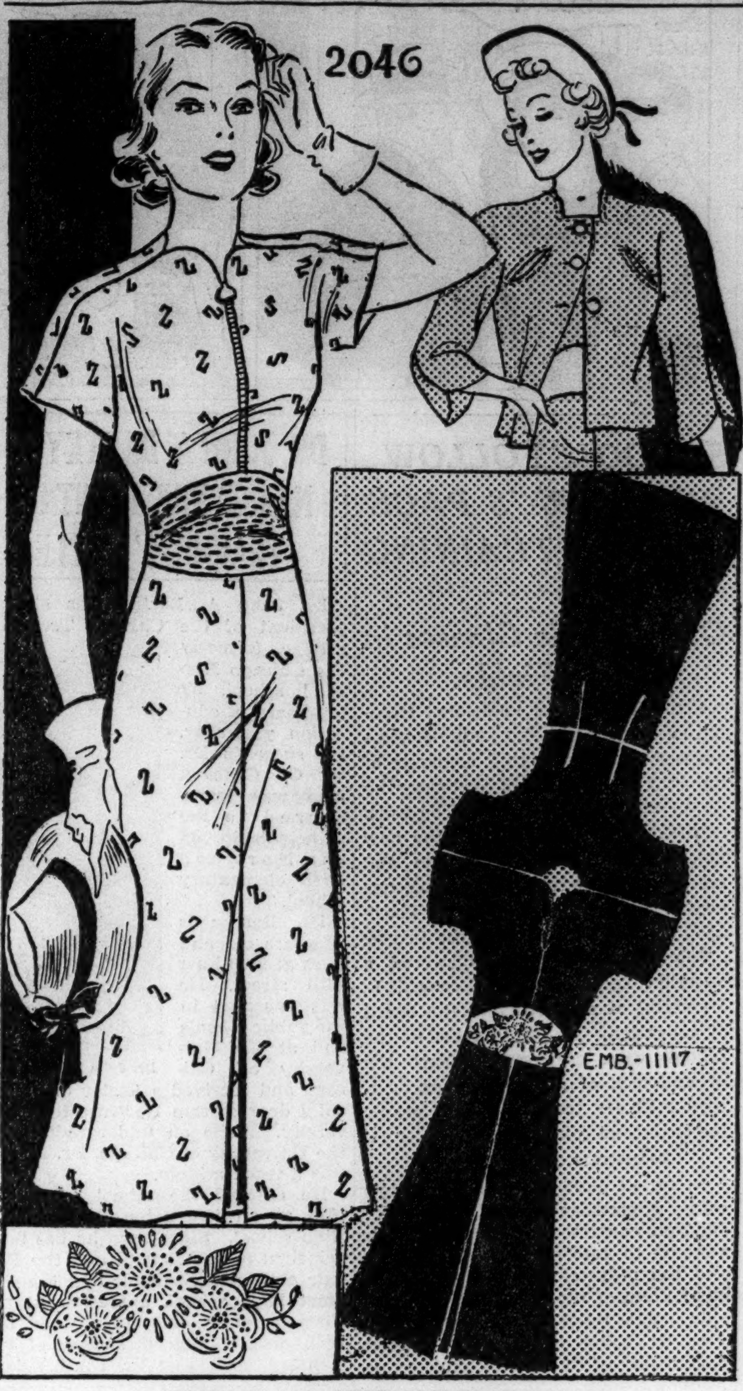
Summer Frock with Jacket



WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET DRESS.

We talk a great deal about the heat of summer, but we must admit that there are days, and a great many evenings, when a jacket is really comfortable. How nice if this little wrap is styled to accompany a dress! That's the idea in our pattern today, which unites a simple little dress with a jauntily designed jacket. The dress has a high neckline without a collar. Its sleeves are cut in one with the shoulderline, and a slide fastener does duty down the front. The waistline is snug and may be stitched or embroidered with the aid of a special pattern of which we are quite proud, No. E-11117, available for 10 cents extra.

The skirt is a simple one, paneled for fit through the hips, and an inverted plait gives the desired fullness at the hemline.

The jacket has a square neckline and raglan sleeves. The garment reaches just to the hipline, and its sleeves are bracelet length, scalloped for a special finish.

Style No. 2046 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting for the dress. The jacket requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch fabric.

New Bauhaus Holds Exhibition of Work Done in First Year

Results of the first experimental year at the New Bauhaus, American School of Design, located in the old Marshall Field mansion at 1905 Prairie avenue, went on public display yesterday in a two weeks' exhibition at the school.

The school, founded in 1937 by the Association of Arts and Industries, has as its goal the integration of art, science and technology. In integration, its founders say, lies the future.

Students at the school, therefore, all attend its "basic workshop" for the first year. Here they specialize in no single medium or field, but experiment with line, space, volume, and feeling. Nothing is copied. All the work is creative and experimental.

Objects in the exhibition range from photography to wood cutting in which a single piece of wood is so cut that it has the elasticity of rubber. A surprise invention came out of the year's work—a scent machine, in which six odors can be combined at will.

Guard Against Overexertion in the Summer

By GLADYS BEVANS.

Vacation—if you think in terms of school—is well upon us. If you don't—well then, surely summer is well upon us and getting fairly into her stride. We started on Monday talking about seeing that your children get the full benefit of summer from the physical standpoint, and launching upon the pros and cons of sun bathing.

Summer is to some children a delirious joy, and they're so intoxicated with the delights of freedom and outdoors and long-continued daylight that they are eternally on the go—and so some of them really do wear themselves out. What with heat and activity, and often less rest and actual sleep than usual, they wind up the summer in nothing like the maximum of well-being they should show.

Lots of doctors will testify to this fact. So it's up to us to put our minds on the subject—and to decide in what ways we can make summer pay the biggest dividends.

Here are some bits of advice:

We can keep the children from constant activity by interspersing quiet times between the strenuous ones. There are lots of things children can do that will serve this purpose.

There are quiet games—those you can buy or invent.

There are many arts and crafts that are carried on without great muscular exertion—drawing, painting, making ship models, sewing, and crocheting.

A nap or a quiet time indoors or in a well-shaded place in the country should be insisted upon during every summer day. And where daylight saving prevails, see your children don't get cheated out of some of their sleep.

"Make Patience Your Handmaiden" and "Is Tact in Your Bag of Tricks?" are helpful booklets to parents. Each one requires a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Collection of Pearls Brings High Prices at London Auction

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 6.—A revived interest in pearls was indicated at one of the most important London jewel sales of the last decade, held at Christies today. The collection of the late Mrs. Watney Weguelin, widow of Claude Watney, wealthy English brewer, brought the excellent total of $239,930.

A necklace of 166 matched pearls brought $25,000. A pair of Bouton pearl earstuds, which were purchased anonymously, realized $18,500.

The most expensive item, however, was a pair of diamond drops which cost an anonymous collector $62,500.

Hold Ravinia Baseball Game Next Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

RAVINIA PARK'S ballfield and its grandstand are not used as often as the pavilion where the concerts are given, but on Saturday afternoon the grandstand will be well filled for the Fiddling Fielders and the Non-Profiteers will be playing a softball game.

Every summer a team made up of members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and one chosen from the executives of the Ravinia Festival association play a game, sometimes two, and this year it will be a deadly combat for the musicians have a bit of an edge on the executives, having won more games in the last two years than the tired business men.

Consequently Percy B. Eckhart, chairman of the executive committee, has sent a call to bats to law offices, banks, brokerage houses, and other places where his fellow committee members work, and it is expected that Durand Smith, Ambrose C. Cramer, Francis M. Knight, Thomas H. Fisher, Howell Murray, Fairbank Carpenter, and other amateur "Dizzy Deans" will respond and be at the park Saturday in time to practice for the big game, which will start at 4 o'clock.

Musicians Get More Practice.

Messrs. Sturm, Morelle, Racine, Dolnick, Gradman, Rutzer, Trnka, Linke, and Preves will be among those laying down their violas, horns, cellos, and violins after Saturday afternoon's rehersal and marching en masse to the ballfield. In fact, the Fiddling Fielders are rushing daily after rehersal to the field for a bit of preliminary practice, which explains, perhaps, why they have been the victors oftener than their opponents.

Any one who wishes to attend the ball game and the concert on Saturday evening can do so by paying one admission to the park. Mr. Eckhart will officiate at the game and Dr. Artur Rodzinski, visiting conductor from Cleveland, will direct the evening concert, as he will those of tonight, tomorrow night, and Sunday afternoon.

Three Guest Artists Are Announced.

News of the ball game is not the most important news about Ravinia for the names of three guest artists have just been announced, adding interest to the concerts for which the guest conductors already are announced. Jascha Heifetz, violinist, will play on the evening of July 30 and the afternoon of July 31 when Eugene Ormandy will be conducting; Gitta Gradova, pianist, will play on the evening of the 23d when Eugene Goossens will be leading the orchestra, and Mario Chamlee, tenor, will sing next Thursday night, the opening night of Willem Van Hoogstraten's week as guest conductor.

Give Dance Tonight for Mary Ryerson.

Debutante festivities have gotten off to an early start this summer. Lake Forest buds and their beaux will be guests of the Joseph T. Ryersons at the Onwentsia tonight at a party Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson are giving for their debutante daughter, Miss Mary Ryerson.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson and their daughter are leaving for Northeast Harbor, Me., to be away until September.

Miss Ryerson, who is to have a ball during the Christmas holidays, will have a debut in Boston, too. Her uncle and aunt, the Donald M. Frosts, are giving a dinner-dance for her and for two Boston debutantes in November. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson Jr. will give a party for his sister in the fall, and there may be a tea for her then, too.

"Table Decorations" will be the subject of Mrs. Walter S. Brewster's second talk on flower arrangements to be given this morning promptly at 11 o'clock at the Lake Forest library. As every one who ever has been a guest in Mrs. Brewster's Lake Forest or town house knows Mrs. Brewster is an authority on table decorations, so her talk this morning undoubtedly will fill the lecture room, which seats only 100 persons.

Prenuptial Parties for Mary Boozer.

Parties for Miss Mary Ellen Boozer, who will be married to John Wesley Cullen Jr. on July 19, started several weeks ago, and there are many planned for the next two weeks. Mrs. Alfred S. Benson will give a luncheon shower for Miss Boozer tomorrow at the Benson home, Gagemere

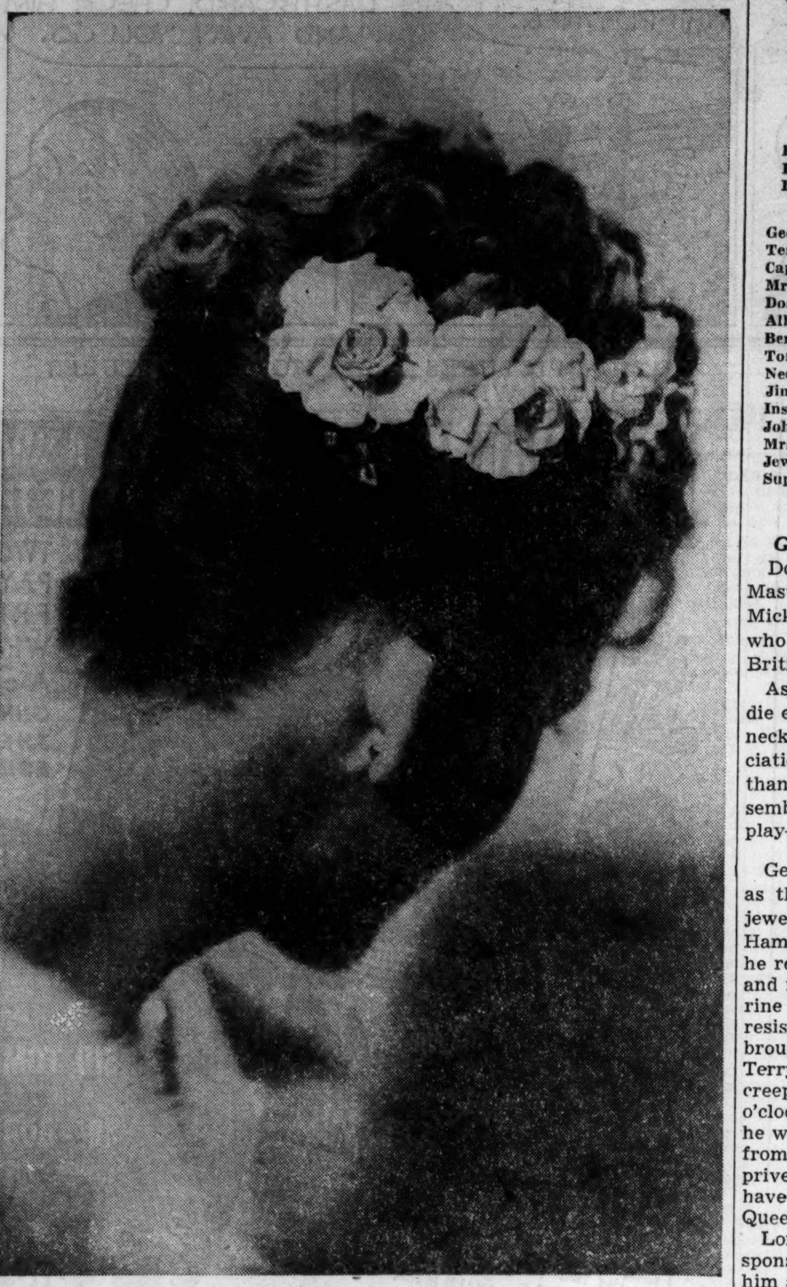
THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS



[Posed by Joan Fontaine.]

Here's a prize solution to the problem of keeping your hair from tumbling down when you choose to wear your hair high. There is a mass of deftly arranged curls on the crown and some wistful bangs over the forehead. But best of all, the lovely line in back is achieved by pinning the hair, securely and invisibly into a vertical roll.

We never did go for the idea that the way you wear your hair should be a copy of another hairdress. Insisting that your hairdresser design a style for you just like Bette Davis wears is pretty foolish. The perfect hairdress is evolved by the perfect hairdresser who takes into consideration the contour of your face AND the texture of your hair. What's one woman's coiffure meat can be another woman's coiffure poison.

But we do think that in the hairdress pictured above there is a smart suggestion of a solution to the high hairdress problem. It can be adapted pretty generally for those who want curls on the top of their heads. It's all very well for the hairdressers to tell us airily just to brush the hair upward. It's a swell theory. The only thing wrong with it is that, for most of us, the hair falls right down.

There is no denying that the high hairdress has charm. The upswept line makes the mature woman look youthful and better groomed; it gives to the young a piquant distinction that is definitly attractive.

You might try to take care of that back hair the way the Hollywood stylist who did this coiffure worked out the problem. Just swoop it up and under in a vertical roll, pinning it securely and invisibly. Then, on the crown of the head let the ringlets swoosh about where they may. The back is neat AND it will stay up. You can do almost as you wish with hair at front and sides, but if you're smart you'll leave the ear lobes exposed.

Ask your hairdresser to try this next time you decide to give the high hairdress another whirl.

Good Morning!

Down to the sea in ships go Masters Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney in this story of lads who are trained for careers in the British merchant marine service.

As in "Captains Courageous" Freddie enters the picture as a pain in the neck, but is regenerated by his association with healthy influences. Other than this the film in no way resembles the aforementioned photoplay—to which it has been compared.

Geoffrey [Lord Jeff] is an orphan, as the action opens, associated with jewel thieves [Doris Clandon and Jim Hampstead]. . . . Caught in a robbery, he receives the attention of the court, and finally lands in the merchant marine training school. He is bitter, resists authority and escapes—to be brought back by Honor Student Terry O'Mulvaney—who is discovered creeping into his dormitory at 5 o'clock in the morning, and, because he will give no reason for his absence from the school, demoted, and deprived of the chevrons which would have meant a berth for him on the Queen Mary.

Lord Jeff's refusal to assume responsibility for Terry's plight, causes him a sad time among the lads. How he is "managed" by the school officials, contacted again by the thieves, and how he ultimately comes through with flying colors to be one of the boys to board the Queen Mary on a voyage to America, is all interesting seeing.

There's an alluring gloss of originality about plot and presentation. The juvenile actors all do good work. Both Freddie and Mickey are in fine fettle, and there's a tiny chap with big teeth and wistful eyes, who says "thee" and "thou" when he talks, who won my heart. Watch out for him. His name in the picture is Albert. In real life he's known as Terry Kilburn.

Adult rôles are in capable hands, and so was the direction.

J. M. Patterson and Miss Mary King Wed in New York City

New York, July 6.—J. M. Patterson, president of the New York News, and Miss Mary King, women's editor of the News and fiction editor of the Chicago Tribune-New York News syndicate, were married this morning at 9:30 o'clock by Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo. The ceremony was performed in chambers at the Bronx county courthouse.

Until he became president of the News in 1919 Mr. Patterson was copublisher with Col. Robert R. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Mrs. Patterson is the daughter of Mrs. Mary King and the late Dr. William King of Chicago, where both she and Mr. Patterson were born. She began her business career as a stenographer and entered the employ of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE as assistant secretary of the late United States Senator Medill McCormick while he was publisher of that newspaper. Later she served THE TRIBUNE as secretary to the Sunday department, as assistant Sunday editor, and finally as Sunday editor.

When Liberty weekly was established she was appointed women's editor of that publication but gave up that position to assume her present duties.

Four of Mrs. Patterson's brothers fought in the world war, three of them in the same regiment in which her husband was a captain—the 149th field artillery of the 42d [Rainbow] division.

Mr. Patterson was recently divorced in Illinois on grounds of desertion.

He and his wife sailed for Europe this afternoon aboard the Queen Mary to spend their honeymoon in Ireland, Scotland, and Wales.

Music Reporter Has More News About Skyline

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In a city as big as this there is almost certain to be somebody who reads the music column of a newspaper expecting to find an account of the musical events of the evening before, and who is likely to be somewhat irked at being handed a series of weather reports instead. Yet I can't seem to get over the habit of running off at the typewriter about the surroundings at the Grant park concerts, and if the weather insists on coming into the picture that is the weather's fault and nobody else's.

Last night, for instance, the wind in this magnificently windy and spacious auditorium blew the wrong way, and whole phrases of the music were carried up toward Van Buren street instead of down toward Fourteenth. Yet the concertgoers who crowded the benches and lawns around the band shell could console themselves during these temporary silences with a splendor of quite a different sort.

For last evening—every evening, for that matter—the Chicago park district and the Chicago Federation of Musicians offered their patrons something more than a first rate musical program. Included in the nonexistent admission fee for those summerlong concerts is a nightly opportunity to exult in what a less careful writer would call the miracle of dusk.

When the Walter H. Steindel orchestra began the Tschaikowsky Sixth symphony the Michigan avenue towers stood out in bold relief beyond the band shell. Before the music had run half of its lugubrious course the shadows were stealing in everywhere, robbing the scene of its sharpness and giving to the skyline a mystery which emphasized enormously the fantastic quality which even by daylight it boasts.

Having seen the night safely in, we were able to concentrate a little harder on the second half of the program. Mr. Steindel offered a festival march by Richard Strauss [did he really write it?—and was he that hard up?] and the exquisite little Silhouettes of the late Henry Hadley. How many Gauls have ever succeeded in catching even 10 per cent of the gallantry which Hadley had imprisoned in the second of these tiny pieces — the one called simply "French"?

Soloist of the evening was Freda Draper, billed as a contralto but possessed of a lighter voice quality than we usually associate with these profundos of the better sex. She sang Delilah's first act air from "Samson" and followed it with Martin's exuberant "Come to the Fair." So well did the audience like her pleasingly textured voice and the feeling with which she fills her singing that an encore in the shape of Kreisler's "The Old Refrain" was granted.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Hollywood Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., July 6.—Simone Simon, Margaret Sullavan, Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow, frowning upon 4th of July fire crackers, decided to play it safe at Farrow's home. . . . So what? . . . So they went into the kitchen to scramble some eggs, applied a match and the stove flared up. . . . Simone's eyebrows were badly singed. . . . Another inch and she would have been blinded.

Aviator Dick Merrill and Toby Wing still carrying on, though his real honey is Janice Jarrett. . . . Observation: most magnificent office buildings in Hollywood are owned by agents, the ten per centers. . . . Myron Selznick's office looks like a bank. . . . Music Corp. of America, which books bands, has a building that looks like a U. S. mint . . . and probably is. . . . Inseparables: the Rufus de Maires and the Freddie Kohlmars . . . or the Jack Bennys and the Burns and Allens. . . . Frank Orsatti helping Jean Chatburn into their car. . . . William Powell chatting with Warner Baxter.

Word that Woolworth Donahue will wed Gretchen Hearst. . . . Texas heiress Electra Bowman's romantic interest is Lee Armer. . . . the ex-Mrs. Stanley Kaln wed a Nebraskan. . . . Dick Powell and Allen Jenkins handing out cigars to celebrate the new arrivals. . . . Charlie Adler of the Yacht Club boys telling Tommy Guinan the story of the little Jewish fellow in Vienna, who was clucking sympathetically. A friend asked him what was the trouble. "When the Nazis came in, Max committed suicide," explained the little fellow, mournfully. "Say, if he can improve himself, it's all right," was the philosophical rejoiner. . . . Wingy Mannone and Leo Reisman visiting Johnnie Davis at Warner's. . . . The news of that item being that Reisman has had a haircut. . . . Probably the three hour difference in time upset him.

Cary Grant and Phyllis Brooks chatting with Eddie Mannix in the Inglewood Turf club, Grant tanned darker than a negative. . . . Add Curios: Charlie Winninger's stand-in is his brother Adolph. They were both born on May 26, but Charlie is two years older. . . . Patricia Ellis with Jerry Wald, who should go on a diet. . . . Jim Cagney, who squashed a grapefruit on Mae Clark years ago, learning that grapefruit on the waters come back with interest. . . . In "Angles with Dirty Faces" Ann Sheridan gets even for the femmes by slapping him in what the boys at the Photo Finish club would designate as the kisser. . . .

Harry Cohn asking Mrs. Betty Brady about her Gerald. . . . Jack [Columbia] Cohn getting ready to leave for New York tomorrow. . . . Virginia Langdon and Peggy Gottler. . . . Virginia will open a hat shop. . . . Peggy is romancing with a Chilean millionaire.

Mrs. Rhea Gable. . . . Mrs. Peppy D'Albrew, in a brownish suit. . . . Buster Murray and Paul Leviton, cursing their luck at the races. . . . They switched from their favorite handicapper and he picked five winners. . . . Bette Davis' birthday present to her hubby, Ham Nelson, a pair of fur-trimmed shorts. . . . She makes him put them on while the guests make merry.

Bill Keighley and Genevieve Tobin. . . . Doris Le Roy with Hedy La Marr. . . . Mervyn with L. B. Mayer. . . The Jules Steins. . . . Stein's music corporation negotiations with Feldman-Blum still on the fire. . . . Edmund Lowe smoking a pipe. . . . Mushy Callahan, who was a good junior lightweight, training Jules Garfield for a prize fight rôle. . . . Susan Hayward with Anthony Averill. . . . Harry Brand, back from London, distributing presents to his palsy-walsies. . . . Jack Benny, in a white suit, looking at his new house which will be ready shortly.

The box in which Joan and Franchot Tone sit at the race track is legended Mr. and Mrs. Franchot Tone. . . . Countess Di Frasso's box is lettered Countess Dorothy Dentice di Frasso. . . . The hoss racing bug really has bit this colony, deep. . . . For instance, Veteran Harry M. Warner, who generally vacations in Europe, this time will vacation at, you guessed it, Saratoga, to buy horses. . . .

Add Good Looking Legs: The stems of Victoria Vinton in the Busky Berkeley choir. . . . Tyrone Power learning French from Annabella, who is a good looking teacher, if youse ask me, and even if you don't. . . . A letter writer from the Bronx pooh-poohs Dick Powell's statement that he sang in the Little Rock, Ark., synagogue. . . . Powell was the one who made the statement, and you can believe him. . . . Ralph Blum and Carmel Myers exiting from Santa Monica hospital. . . . He was chest burned by a giant firecracker.

"Holiday," "Jezebel," "Robin Hood," "Test Pilot," and "Alexander's Ragtime Band" have been the best pictures of recent months. . . . Two of them have laid box office eggs. . . . Bette Davis, Katharine Hepburn, Myrna Loy, and Alice Faye have turned in the top femme performances in these, with Margaret Sullavan scoring in "Three Comrades." . . . All of them will rate consideration in the academy finals. . . . Fredric March, hardly recognizable behind glasses. . . . At Phil Selznick's salon Benny Fields finishes his stunt. . . . "We want Blossom Seeley," yodels Eddie Moran. . . . "At these prices?" asks Fields. . . . In response to those readers who wanted to know, "Says My Heart" was authored by Burton Lane and Frank Loesser for Paramount's "Coconut Grove." . . . You're welcome.

Chaplin to Be Silent While Others Talk in 4-Reel Comedy

Hollywood, Cal., July 6.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin will appear in a talking picture—but very likely the talking will be done by the other characters.

Tim Durant, a scenarist who has been working with Chaplin at Pebble Beach, Cal., for the last six months, said today the "silent" comedian's future plans include a four reel talkie.

"The story is written around the character he plays," said Durant, "and he believes now that it will be best for him not to 'break the silence' he has maintained in his previous sound films."

Before he makes his "talkie," however, Chaplin will produce and direct a comedy starring Paulette Goddard, Durant said.

Miss Goddard, whose name has been linked romantically with Chaplin's for a long time, now is under contract to the Selznick studio. She will be "borrowed" by Chaplin for his feature.

Fashion Expert Cheers Parade of New Dirndls

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We have discovered dirndls that are not only high fashion but the most decorative affairs we have seen since the rage for peasant clothes started. Priced under the five dollar limit, they're made of such gay colored cottons that at last we are convinced the dirndl influence is worth all the excitement it has created. If you're going to go peasant go the limit with these new Swedish dirndls.

The short puffed sleeve dress with gathered full skirt is made of ice cool white crisp lawn. . . . The Swedish tang comes with the clever eye blinding aprons. These are of thin striped cotton, made with a suspender bib front. Color rages triumphantly in green and yellow striped combines, in red with yellow, gold with vivid blue, and so on. Aprons alone are worth all the money. Worn with the white dresses you have the best of the summer outfits for country, house, and vacation wardrobes.

Another dirndl find is made of the biggest plaid check cotton imaginable . . . the checks are a good five inches square and the colors also run rampant, red and gray, bright blue and gold, yellow and red, violent enough to stop trafic on a quiet street, but just what you want to lift the wilted summer spirit. Skirts of the plaid or checked cotton are gathered simply to the normal waistline band. The bodices, with short puffed sleeves, are of thin, cool white lawn, and there's a tie belt of plain color added.

You can still buy the striped and printed cotton dirndls, but, should you crave something eye appealing and new, see these late arrivals before you spend all your money.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York, via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness, and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. She plans to flirt with Alex to allay suspicion. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. At Acapulco, Mexico, Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals.

INSTALMENT XVI.

MURDER IN MIND.

There was a strange moonlight that night—the sky cobwebbed with drifting silver veils. Anne refused quite violently to go with Neil Andrews on to the boat deck. "Suspicious, aren't you?" he queried in his uncompromising blunt fashion.

"If I were I wouldn't worry. I can take care of myself. I don't care for the boat deck, that's all."

He took her elbow piloting her out of the arc of the light over the dance floor. "Good. I know a better place. Nobody else ever thinks of it."

Neil took her forward along the promenade deck into the shadows and down the steep companion to the swimming pool. There they stood at the rails looking into the crest of rustling silver churned by the thrusting bows. Up on the little forward deck in the bows some of the crew were singing chanties to the plaintive strumming of a banjo.

"This is the best place," said Neil, "away from the passengers."

"And you knew it," she said. "You know everything, don't you?"

He liked her quaint rudeness. He liked to go right ahead with a woman he wanted, but paradoxically he didn't like a woman to be easy to get. "I know a little of almost anything. Now begins your higher education."

"The vanity of the man," exclaimed Anne. "So you're going to teach me something?"

"I hope so. If it's only that sex may be unnecessary to the success of a school teacher, but it's absolutely vital to an actress."

Anne suddenly decided to be as blunt as he in a manner that surprised him. "I know exactly what you mean. I haven't been on this ship five whole days with my eyes shut. There are certain people who travel who expect an affair on the trip as their absolute right, and if they didn't get it would feel entitled to a rebate on the fare. And you're one of them. And I'm the guinea pig. Or have I hideously misjudged you?"

"You're a very outspoken young woman, Anne."

"I can be when I lose my temper. But this is because I thought you liked it."

"So I am right?" Anne felt herself growing childishly angry.

He turned to her, but did not make the mistake of touching her. "No. Whatever intentions I have towards you are entirely honest."

The moon emerged from its surrounding veils and lit Anne's head with sudden splendor. Her warm lips were parted—her eyes, pools of shadow in her silvered face. Neil felt an impulse to kiss her—a passionate hunger for her lips. Another minute in this ghostly moonridden spot and his impatience would spoil everything. He moved from the rail—"let's dance some more, shall we?"

She turned immediately to the companion and began to mount. She would not admit to this inquisitor that she ever felt tired. She said, "I want to read before I sleep, so I'll say good night now and go to bed."

It was the Vernons' custom to have hot tea sent into the suite when they were preparing for bed. Claire liked it and Arnold had got into the habit of taking it with her.

Claire poured it out now while Arnold was in the bedroom rummaging in his trunk. "It's getting cold," she called to him.

He came in to her. "I'm sleeping so badly. I feel I'll go crazy if I have another wakeful night. But I can't find my sleeping tablets."

"Maybe they weren't packed," she said indifferently, "I didn't see them."

"You wouldn't trouble to look either. O no—it might kill you with overwork to take on the usual thoughtful little duties of a wife."

Claire looked at him with exasperation. "I didn't marry to be a nurse to a fretful old man, if that's what you mean. And if you want a sleeping draught why waste your time turning your trunk inside out? Any one else would go and get one from the doctor. Why do you suppose they have one on the ship?"

"Thank you for the idea," said Arnold sardonically. "I hope thinking of it all by yourself didn't exhaust you."

He opened the door and was gone before she had time to answer him. "The beast," she said furiously to the empty room—Claire hated and feared sarcasm—"O, why doesn't he take an overdose of the stuff and die or something?"

She saw then in her mind's eye the box containing the sleeping drug. It was in her trunk—not his—she had seen it lying on the dressing table in the hotel when she was looking round for things forgotten, and popped it into the top drawer among her jewel boxes.

She went into the bedroom impelled by a thought very deep down which dared not come into her upper consciousness, took out the box and looked in it. It was a French veronal preparation—not tablets, but gelatin capsules containing a soft ashy powder. There were ten of them in the little compartments in the box.

She felt curiously unreal standing there, knowing what she was going to do—as if it were happening in a dream. She took the box with her, went out to the drawing room, barred the door, and shook the contents of six of the capsules into the tea. Her heart was beating madly with excitement and her hand was shaking. The powder had a tendency to cling to the surface of the tea. She stirred it furiously, listening intently for the sound of approaching footsteps along the alleyway. The doctor's office was quite a distance, way down at the after end of deck D. Talking to the doctor would also take a little time.

The powder was disappearing now. Claire took the box off the table with its remaining capsules and threw it out of the porthole. Arnold's heart had been giving trouble lately. Without the assistance of the drug the doctor would now be giving him, the cup she had prepared would be a fatal dose. She dipped her little finger in it and tasted it. Peculiar—yes. But he would not notice it. She knew exactly what he would do. He would come in with his pellets or capsules, put one or two on his tongue and drink the tea at one draught.

When he noticed the strange flavor of it it would be too late. She unbolted the door and sat on the divan drinking her own tea, her senses intensely sharpened to outside sounds. She was nervous, but she was not afraid. It was so simple—so easy. He had gone himself to the doctor asking for the stuff—telling him now that he had left his own pet preparation behind.

Tomorrow when he didn't wake she would go innocently to the doctor and ask him to come along and look at him. Pretend she was unaware of the visit—pretend she knew nothing about it. People were so stupid about beautiful women—they made it very easy for them to pretend. Now that Arnold had begun to see through her it were better for both of them if he should die.

The picture of Arnold lying without breath or movement in his bed under the two wide portholes was so vivid in Claire's mind that it was quite a shock to see him open the door and come in living.

"Did you get what you wanted?" she said with admirable composure.

She saw that he had. He held up a small bottle of brownish fluid in his hand. "Yes and no. He refused to give me anything stronger than a bromide mixture. That fellow Alex Reed, the surgeon, was in there talking to him, and he said insomnia was a habit and one could get out of it.

She put down her empty cup and got up. "Give me the bottle, I'll pour it out for you."

King George Holds Court; Queen Stays in Mourning

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—King George of Great Britain held court alone from a single throne in the great white and gold ballroom of Buckingham palace tonight as a long line of curtseying debutantes filed past. Queen Elizabeth did not attend the third court of the season because of the recent death of her mother, the countess of Strathmore. The only Americans there were Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, Mrs. Kennedy, and Herschel V. Johnson, counselor of the embassy. Kennedy stuck to his decision not to wear knee breeches.

Forest Preserve Will Hold Second Nature Study Class Sunday

The second public class in perceptivity conducted in the Cook county forest preserves will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday at Maple lake, in the Palos Hills district.

The class is in reality an outdoor lesson in natural history. It will consist of a fish demonstration and lecture, followed by hikes to observe birds, small animals, and trees. The fish lecture will last 45 minutes, the nature hikes an hour apiece.

Scientists from the Illinois natural history survey at Urbana will conduct the study as they did the initial class on June 19. Dr. T. H. Frison, chief of the survey, will supervise.

The demonstration, sponsored by the forest preserves, is free. The assembly point is the southwest bend of Maple lake, at 95th street and Wolf road.

The baby, whose maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods, has been named Bruce Davey Benson. Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Benson of Winnetka are the baby's paternal grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Benson have a daughter, Polly, who is 2 years old.

The James Lawrence Houghtelings have returned from Washington, D. C., and are spending the summer in their Winnetka home. Their daughters, Miss Margaret, who will return to Chatham hall for her final year next fall, and Louise, are at home. Their elder son, James Jr., is sailing today for France to be away the rest of the summer, and their younger son is at a camp in Michigan. James Jr. will be a sophomore at Yale in the autumn.

Miss Susanna Allen arrives in New York on Monday on the Normandie from a winter spent studying in the Brillantmont school in Lausanne, Switzerland. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. London Has Exhibit by Artists Placed Under Nazi Ban

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 6.—The works of fifty-three artists, all of whom were represented in Nazi Germany's famous exhibition of "degenerate art," were put on review here today.

Every artist represented is under some sort of ban by Germany, either because he is a "non-Aryan" or because his work is not representative of the ideals of the Hitler régime.

This exhibition was arranged by Mme. Irmgard Burchard, a Swiss who has long been associated with the German school, with the backing of a distinguished committee of British artists and patrons of the arts under the chairmanship of Augustus John.

The committee includes past and present curators of the Tate gallery as well as Sir Kenneth Clark, director of the National gallery, and many famous artists in England and France.

Only a few pictures of the entire 400 on view were futuristic, cubistic, or modernistic in any shape. Perhaps the best pictures were those of Max Liebermann, who led the German artists of the impressionist school and was president of the Berlin academy from 1920 until 1930. He was then turned out of office and has since died.

Sally to Hold First Party of Season Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Today's a big day for two reasons, isn't it, boys and girls?

I don't think I need to remind the youngsters who've been invited to our first big party of the year at the Hotel Sherman that party day has arrived. I know you've all been waiting anxiously to see that beautiful ice review at the College inn, and you can be sure we'll have a delightful afternoon. Please be on time, and don't forget your invitations!

Before I meet my guests today I have some very important business to take care of, and you know what that is, too, don't you? Mail has been just pouring in to my desk ever since I announced our second party in last Sunday's TRIBUNE. Boys and girls from all parts of the city and suburbs have been mighty busy with pen and pencil, I can tell you! Winners will be selected today, and next Sunday's TRIBUNE will tell the tale. The names of fifty boys and fifty girls who will be my guests at Wrigley field on Thursday, July 14, will be listed in my column.

Youngsters who have missed out on these parties had better tend to their reading next Sunday, too, because the good news of our next party will be printed then.

Three Sisters Celebrate 50th Year in Same Home

Bloomington, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Three sisters, the Misses Lora, Grace, and Mae Johnston of Hudson, five miles north of here, are celebrating their fiiftieth year together in the same home this week. Their home was built in the early '60s by Valentine Wheeler, the first child born in Hudson. Fifty years ago it was bought by John S. Johnston, and his daughters have occupied it ever since. The sisters have a chest, chairs, and other pieces of furniture brought to Hudson in a covered wagon by their family.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The bidding of an expert partnership is like the functioning of a well oiled machine under the guidance of a master operator. The intelligent use of conventional bids, such as the four-five no trump, leaves as little as possible to pure chance. Take today's hand, for example. There was nothing sensational about the way it was bid, nor the final contract that was reached. Just a straight, workmanlike job under perfect coöperation.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	3 spades
4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

After South, through the medium of four bids, namely, the opening two bid, the showing of his second suit, plus the announcement in the four and five no trump bids that he held all the aces, had given North a perfect description of his hand, he properly took no further action. Some players with the South hand would gamble that North held three or four hearts to the king and no more than two diamonds, and would go to seven on that basis. South did not make that tragic error. The mere fact that North had expressed a preference for hearts on two different occasions was no guarantee, South knew, that he [North] held the heart king. Besides, if North had had that card he might have done a little more bidding on his own account.

As to North's bidding it will be noted that he did not make the mistake of signing off twice when South showed 150 aces with his four and five no trump. The five diamond sign-off to the four no trump bid was obligatory, even though North had a singleton diamond. When the five no trump came, however, North correctly realized that there was no further responsibility on his shoulders, and, therefore, properly chose the suit in which he wanted to play.

Only a little care was required in fulfilling of the contract. West opened the spade ten and, having nothing to lose by a cover, declarer put in dummy's jack. East, however, having nothing to gain by covering, ducked and the blank ace won. Declarer cashed the diamond ace and ruffed a low diamond with the deuce of hearts, then reëntered his hand to ruff another low diamond with the heart eight. East's diamond queen falling on this round, the diamond suit was solid and the only thing to fear was an adverse ruff. Declarer did not make the mistake of finessing against the king of hearts. He realized clearly that, if the finesse lost, a diamond would come back and, if East had a trump left, a fatal ruff would ensue. With the object of getting out trumps as quickly as possible, and not caring whether East or West had the king as long as the diamond ruff could be prevented, declarer led a heart from dummy and went right up with the ace, then played back the queen. His precaution was well taken. Obviously, to have finessed would have meant defeat.

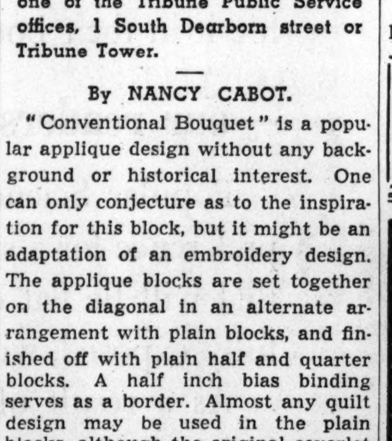
History of This Applique Quilt Still Is Unknown



Conventional Bouquet.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By NANCY CABOT.

"Conventional Bouquet" is a popular applique design without any background or historical interest. One can only conjecture as to the inspiration for this block, but it might be an adaptation of an embroidery design. The applique blocks are set together on the diagonal in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks, and finished off with plain half and quarter blocks. A half inch bias binding serves as a border. Almost any quilt design may be used in the plain blocks, although the original coverlet had the ever popular "Feather Circle."

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

"Meal Ticket" Daughter Often Misses Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of the tragedies that come out of the general unemployment situation of the day is the manner in which the wage earning daughters of households are affected. Frequently here we hear the story of how the young woman of approximately 23, 24, or 25 has to postpone any thought of marriage because hers is the pay envelope upon which the family mainly relies.

Father, we are told, is out of work, has been unemployed for months, for years, even. Any young suitor coming around is treated as if his intention were to rob the family of their meal ticket. The girl is hounded often into giving the beau up and her full weekly stipend is taken over, except for the barest allowance for her luncheons and carfare.

What the solution is, frankly, we do not know. We do not know if there is one. But we do notice in these tragic recitals that it is the daughter upon whom the marriage ban is put, not the grown son of marriageable age.

Our latest victim is 24 years old, with several younger members in her family not yet of wage earning age. The girl's father has been out of work several years and, as things look to the girl now, he is not likely ever to be restored to his old kind of work, which paid a good wage. Indeed, she cannot see him qualifying for any job in which competition with younger men is met.

Our young woman has been going with a nice boy for two years. Weekly she turns in her pay envelope intact to her mother, who, the girl admits, has to do a lot of scraping, penny pinching and scheming to make it serve.

She appreciates her mother's plight, but she is in love and her young man is eager to marry as his income, although small, would be adequate for the pair. With her wage turned into her own home, the combined income would more than suffice. She could give something to her mother. Not all of her wage, of course, but some of it.

Mother flies into a rage when the girl talks marriage. Father raises cain. He has forbidden the chap to come to the house. A sad state of affairs for the girl, who deserves the nicest sort of treatment from her parents, including a welcome to that young man of hers.

The sacrifice the girl is forced to make should earn her sympathy and sincere appreciation instead of the treatment she receives. It would be infinitely easier for the girl to accept her lot as chief wage earner were there more sympathy extended her. She could await more patiently the days when the clouds will lift.

Parents, that is the least you can do for these victims of an economic situation over which they have no control. Instead of trying to rob the young of the romance that is their right, you should be scheming and planning toward an early solution of their problem, in the interim offering kindness and generous appreciation.

Ice Fund Starts Its 25th Year of Life Saving

In many of the city's congested areas yesterday, tenement mothers stopped ice wagons for the first time this year. They had no money, and needed none. They paid for their ice with green coupons.

Thus quietly was begun the 25th season of THE TRIBUNE free ice fund, which each summer safeguards the lives of hundreds of babies and aged men and women in Chicago.

It began, too, the appeal which THE TRIBUNE makes annually to its readers, whose generosity in the past has relieved the suffering of thousands too poor to buy ice. Last year 527,171 pounds of ice were distributed through ten charitable agencies and ten district stations of the United Charities of Chicago by Miss Edna Mae Wray of the charities staf. Nearly 700 families were aided. Among them were cardiac patients, tuberculosis men and women, diabetics, and the bedridden aged, all desperately needy.

A balance of $24.55 remained in the fund from 1936, and there were a few early gifts—enough to care for a part of the emergency calls that came during the cool weather of last month. But July's steamy days have quickened the urgency of the appeals received daily from parents, doctors, and nurses for the life-saving ice.

Last week's contributions were:

Commonwealth players	$ 2.35
Mira Lee Tomei, Jimmy Coleman, Felix Tomei, Peter Tomei, Irene Schadachek, Betty McClellan	1.06
Total	$ 4.41
Previously acknowledged	$58.47
Grand total	$62.88

This is the fund supported as much by the pennies of children as by the impressive donations of philanthropists. It costs $1 to keep a baby's milk fresh and sweet for one week. Many of those dollars are the profits from children's circuses, plays, lemonade stands, transmitted to the fund with eager, childish letters. Each contribution is welcome, and gratefully acknowledged in these columns.

Embodying the latest scientific developments in press construction, this new Popular Science press, built by the Goss Printing Press Co. of Chicago, is the fastest two-color magazine press in the world...prints on paper moving at tremendous speed, dries inks under flame at 2,200 degrees Fahrenheit, lowers the temperature of the printed sheet with special cooling cylinders, and delivers 2,112,000 pages of Popular Science Monthly per hour!

$250,000 spent —to cut down a page size —and step up a value!

"Congratulations on the new 5½x8 format! The new binding should improve readership as well as advertising visibility.

"Your efforts to make Popular Science Monthly an increasingly better medium for advertisers is a commendable contribution to our business."

W. B. Henri
HENRI, HURST & McDONALD, INC.

"It is always sound business to produce a better product. Your contemplated improvement should increase the popularity of your publication and give better value to its advertisers."

Frank Nealon, SALES MANAGER
AUTO-LITE SPARK PLUG DIVISION
THE ELECTRIC AUTO-LITE COMPANY

"I welcome the announcement of the new size. Other things equal, the advertiser seems to get a better break, because of the increased reader-interest that seems to go hand in hand with the smaller sized page. Congratulations on your enterprise and best wishes for the future."

Paul V. Barrett
INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS

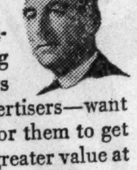
"These are the days of better values in all things and your decision to give your readers a bigger magazine at the same price of 15¢ is sure to ring the bell. Looking at it from our own selfish viewpoint, the change in size can only evoke the enthusiastic endorsement of ourselves and our clients, because it means a lower page rate per thousand, a saving on mechanicals, and without question a big bonus circulation during the next few months."

Robert W. Beatty, VICE-PRESIDENT
SCHWAB AND BEATTY, INC.

"The editorial contents of Popular Science assures a man's thorough readership and its presentation instills in subscribers the desire to save copies for permanent reference. Therefore the new size is very much in keeping with the character of the magazine.

"It is refreshing to find a publisher who is repackaging his product so as to give greater value both to reader and advertiser."

Allen L. Billingsley, PRESIDENT
FULLER & SMITH & ROSS, INC.



"You are to be congratulated first in finding out what your customers—both readers and advertisers—want and making it possible for them to get it; second, in providing greater value at lower cost. Such an accomplishment will be good news to national advertisers."

Paul B. West, PRESIDENT
ASS'N OF NATIONAL ADVERTISERS

"Experience has proved that when business is slow real opportunity exists for those who improve their production methods and their products. Congratulations to you on your recent step."

Philip Handerson
THE B. F. GOODRICH CO.

"You are to be congratulated that the general pessimism of the times has not been allowed to defer your action, which I presume is based upon the firm foundation of experienced judgment."

J. S. Knowlson
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD
STEWART-WARNER CORPORATION

Two years of inquiry and investigation among buyers and subscribers to Popular Science proved definitely that the Popular Science reader is not the ordinary magazine reader.

Popular Science interests and holds the factual minded, the mechanically literate, the technically imaginative, the how-to-do-it type of intelligence—maker, builder, designer, entrepreneur; engineer, production man, manufacturer, the doer.

The Popular Science readers read this magazine on trains and busses as well as at home. They use Popular Science in their workshops, laboratories, factories. They like to carry it with them, file it in their bookcases.

Popular Science readers expressed a positive preference for a smaller-paged magazine; for one that will lie flat on a worktable with both pages fully exposed, without being weighted down.

As a result of our reader research, we have invested $250,000 in reader-wanted improvements—to cut down the page size, provide a new binding, and step up the value of Popular Science to both readers and advertisers.

A new press, the fastest two-color magazine press in the world, was designed for our requirements, built to our order. New bindery machinery has been purchased and installed.

The October Popular Science will have a smaller type page, 5½ by 8 inches; and a new book-style binding that permits the open magazine to lie flat, two facing pages fully exposed.

Reader pages will be doubled, with 8 pages in four-color, and 50 pages in two colors!

With the new small page, the advertiser can now buy a full page in Popular Science for as little as $675. On the guaranteed circulation of 450,000 copies, the per thousand rate is now $1.50—lowest in the man-market field!

But the print order for the October issue—first in the new size—will be 600,000 copies; with 550,000 net paid assured for the following six months!

New size, new interest, new circulation, and the new rate—make Popular Science an outstanding buy for fall and 1939 schedules!

Already, in recognition of these augmented values, advertisers have placed space orders far in excess of our forecasts.

And remember that in all its 66 years, Popular Science has paid its way with the mail-order and keyed-coupon advertisers; delivers a volume of known, traceable sales! The times and your budget demand proven selling power—and on that basis Popular Science leads many lists; should have a place on yours!

Forms for the October issue—out Septemper 1st—close July 25th. Send reservations now!

RICH 2 YEAR OLD STAKE ELIGIBLES DISPLAY SPEED

Dinner Date and Viragin Win.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Those candidates for the Arlington Park Jocky club's three rich 2 year old stakes—the Hyde Park, the Lassie and the Futurity—can run straight and true. They demonstrated this yesterday in two races that engaged youngsters eligible to these events.

The first was fashioned for juvenile fillies. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars sent Dinner Date to the post. Dinner Date, a daughter of Stimulus-Heloise, was the most expensive yearling filly sold at Saratoga last August. She was making the second start of her racing career. In the first she showed a lack of racing education and finished well back.

Takes Early Lead.

She learned her lessons well. The start in yesterday's race was bad, but Dinner Date came out of the starting gate flying. She bounded out into a lead which seldom was threatened. She went on to win by four lengths. Risenfly, from the stable of G. B. Midkiff of Kentucky, was second and Jeannetti, from the Bomar stable of Detroit, third.

As a result of her feeble effort in her first start, Dinner Date wasn't considered seriously. Even Mrs. Mars was doubtful about her chances.

So when Dinner Date went skipping past the finish line so far in front everybody was surprised. Her price in the totalizer betting was $27.20 for a $2 ticket.

Wins Many Followers.

Victims of the start were Warren Wright's highly regarded Rita Z. and Arthur B. Hancock's Explosion. Dinner Date is eligible to the Lassie stakes and Risenfly to the Hyde Park, to be run on Saturday. Rita Z. is in the Hyde Park, the Lassie, and the Futurity. Explosion is an eligible to the Lassie and the Futurity.

The handy victory Dinner Date scored won her many followers for the Lassie. The filly Forever Yours carried Mrs. Mars' silks to victory in the Lassie stakes a couple of years ago.

The Texas filly Viragin gained new prominence as a western 2 year old championship threat when she won the other 2 year old race. This daughter of Ariel-Acquittal had shown lots of early speed throughout the first part of the racing season. She also had shown a tendency to quit when another got near.

Jocky Uses New Tactics.

Jocky Charley Rollins resorted to new tactics yesterday. He took Viragin back off the pace soon after the start and let her trail Tra-La-La, a Canadian filly, during the early going. At the top of the stretch Rollins shot Viragin to the front. She continued on gamely to the finish to beat Tra-La-La and Miss Alert by almost a full length.

Viragin, too, was overlooked by track speculators yesterday. She paid 9 to 1. Viragin is eligible to all three of the Arlington Juvenile stakes. Tra-La-La is eligible to the Hyde Park.

First Start at Arlington.

Grim Reaper, a star 3 year old in California last winter, made his first start of the Arlington season in yesterday's feature race. He opened his campaign here in glorious fashion. After the crowd had made him the favorite he rushed up on the outside in the run down the stretch to catch the early leader Fairflax and to win by three-quarters of a length.

He ran the 7 furlongs in 1:25, excellent time, although Rye Beach had run the same route fractions faster in an earlier race. Grim Reaper was ridden by Jocky Basil James and paid $6.40 for a $2 ticket.

CHICAGO EXTENDS HEARTY WELCOME TO IRISH BOXERS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

From the time the ten boys from across the sea reached Union station at 1:30 o'clock until they arrived at their quarters in the Auditorium hotel, they were cheered and applauded.

Perhaps no team of amateur boxers ever received a more cordial welcome than the Irish boys who first came to Chicago in 1933. Three members of that international squad, Frank Kerr, Dick Hearns, and Ernie Smith, returned yesterday with their mates from Erin. And again Chicago greeted these boys as enthusiastically as the city did five years ago. From now until next Wednesday night cordiality will be the keynote. The boys last night were guests of the Catholic Youth organization at the bicycle races in Humboldt park.

An Official Welcome.

Sunday afternoon Chicago will greet the Irish boys officially at the massmeeting planned in Garfield park by Irish societies. At that time Congressman Clare Gerald Fenerty of Philadelphia will speak. All this will be a prelude to the international matches Wednesday evening in Soldiers' field between the Irishmen and the C. Y. O. boxers. That evening friendship will be momentarily forgotten in the struggle for the international boxing supremacy. No team, intercity or international, ever has whipped the C. Y. O. boxers, but if any team can do it, the boys who arrived yesterday look the part of conquerors.

Each of the boys wore a uniform of a blue coat and white trousers. Arm bands told of their status as champions. After leaving the train shed, each of the boys and their team managers and coach were introduced to Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder of Chicago's C. Y. O., whose milk fund will receive the profits of the bouts. Then each boy spoke a few words over the radio.

Driven to City Hall.

The Catholic Youth organization band, two drum corps of uniformed girls and boys, and hundreds who trace their antecedents to the old country, many of whom carried Irish flags, cheered and played as the Irish boxers then filed through the closely drawn crowd and up the stairs leading to River drive.

In open cars and behind the C. Y. O. band the visitors then circled Union station, were driven east on Jackson street and then north on La Salle street to the city hall. As the boxers, in the cars on which huge placards had been fixed bearing the legend "Ireland's Boxing Champions," moved slowly down the canyon between the skyscrapers, ticker tape and torn bits of paper floated down from open windows.

At city hall the police rerouted trafic so that the boys had the street outside the west entrance to themselves. Then they were taken to the office of Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who welcomed them to Chicago, wished them luck in their bouts with the C. Y. O., and assured them they were most welcome during the week they will be Chicago's guests.

Back in Training.

From the city hall the boxers were escorted to the Auditorium hotel and later Trainer Frank Cooper had his boys back in training. The team has not worked out since it left the Queen Mary.

Tom O'Connell and Mike Murphy of the C. Y. O. staf, who had met the boys in New York, returned with them yesterday aboard the Pennsylvania's Manhattan. Other members of the C. Y. O. organization: James O'Keeffe, president of the Holy Name society; Edward Daley, representative of Mayor Kelly; Jack Elder, athletic director of the C. Y. O.; William J. Campbell, state director of the National Youth association; Harry Berz, assistant state director of the N. Y. A.; Daniel J. McGrath, Irish consul; Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the National A. A. U. boxing committee, and

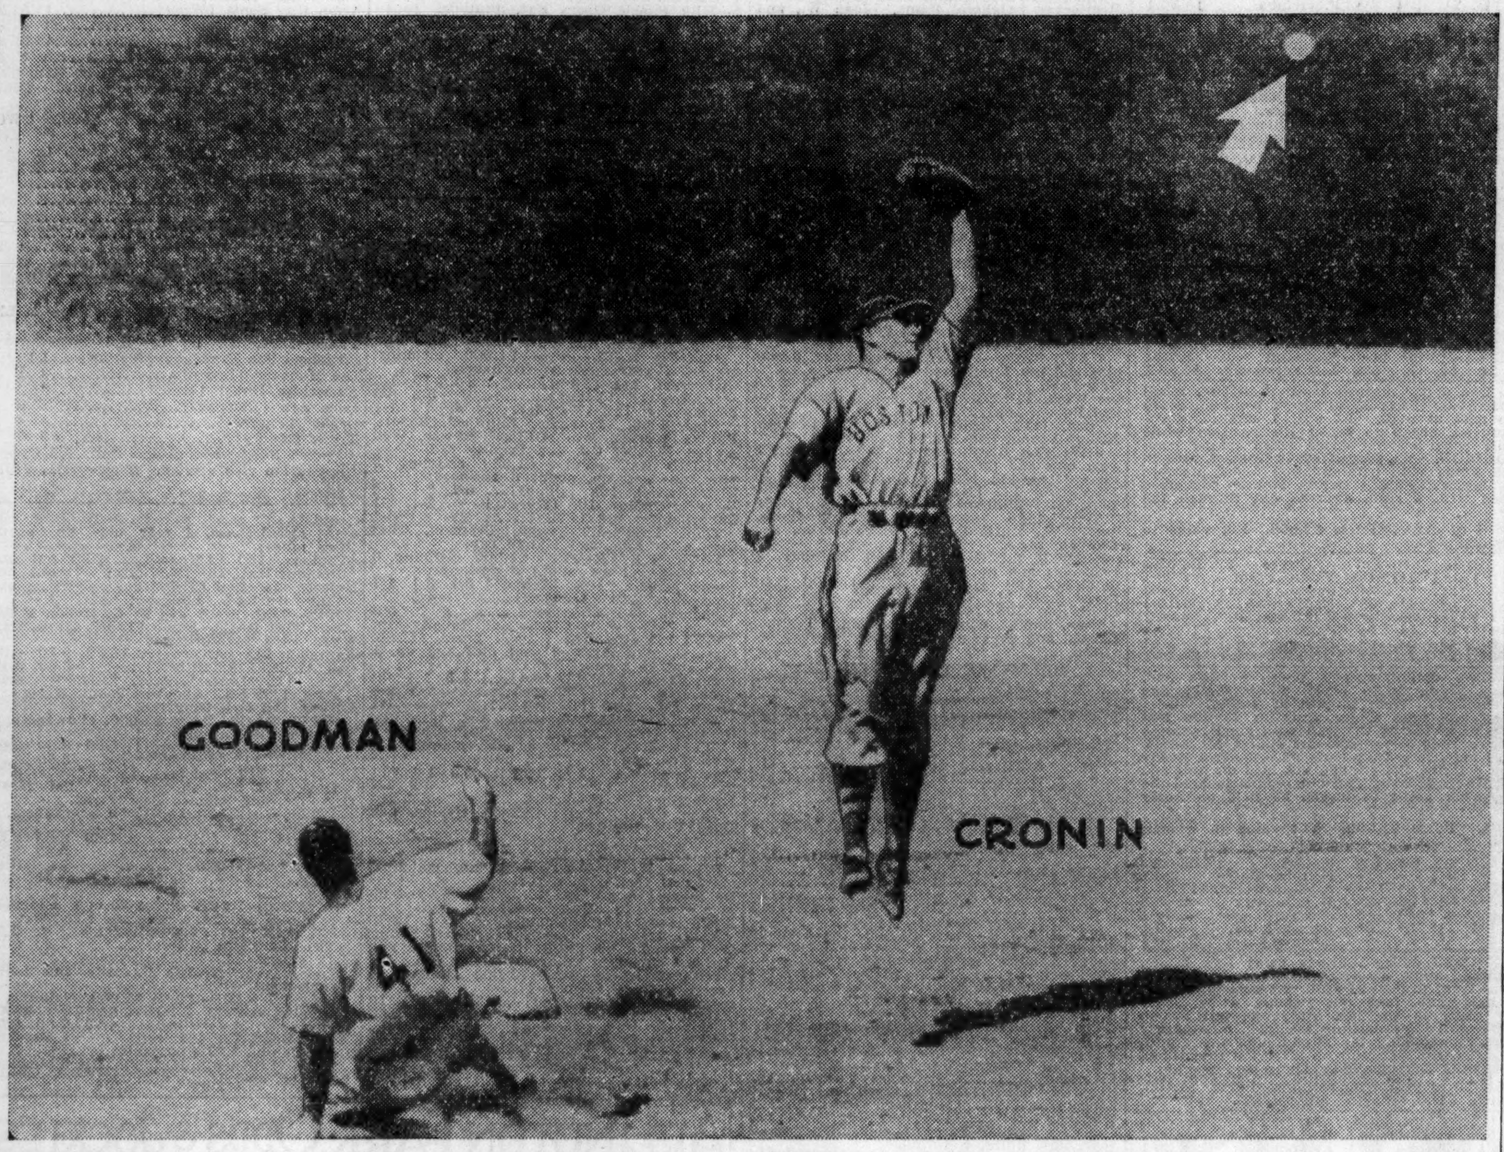
Writing a New Chapter Into Baseball History



Ival Goodman of the Reds steals second base in the sixth inning of the sixth annual All-Star baseball game in Cincinnati yesterday. The slide was unnecessary as Catcher Bill Dickey's throw was high and wide, allowing Goodman to go to third. Shortstop Joe Cronin of the American league Stars is making a futile leap for the ball. The National leaguers won, 4 to 1. [Associated Press Wirephotos.]

In the Wake of the News

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CINCINNATI, O., July 6.—The National league apparently has been fooling all these years. . . . Before the sixth annual All-Star game at Crosley Field today President Ford Frick said this time his organization, which had been beaten in four of the five previous interleague contests, was serious. . . . The showing of the National league players in their 4 to 1 victory this afternoon proves what a team can do when it's trying. . . . There's no telling what may happen now. . . . The National league even may carry today's spirit into the world series. . . . At any rate, the best players in the National league today made the best players in the American league look like a group of sand lotters from Mudville, Ark. . . . They had more strength at bat, more speed and steadiness in the field and their pitching was brilliant. . . . In earned runs the game was a tie, but they pay off these days on total runs. . . .

The game developed no stars to match the brilliance of Babe Ruth, Carl Hubbell or Dizzy Dean of other years, but it had its heroes nevertheless. . . . They were Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati rookie, who dispelled any question of his right to a place among the stars of 1938 by setting down the vaunted American league sluggers with only one hit in the three innings he worked, and Bill Lee of the Cubs, who also yielded only one hit in his three innings of toil. . . . Both Vander Meer and Lee were All-Star maidens when today's battle started. . . . During the six innings they were on the mound the American league never had two runners on the bases at one time. . . . Pressing the two pitchers for individual honors was another Cub, Stanley Hack, whose remarkable fielding twice cut down potential enemy rallies. . . . Hack also scored the first run of the game. . . . He singled as leadoff man in the first inning, went to third when Joe Cronin, the American's shortstop, bobbled Billy Herman's grounder, and came home on Medwick's long fly. . . . It was Cronin's first error in five years of All-Star competition. . . . He previously had handled eight putouts and twenty assists without a miscue. . . .

It wasn't difficult to discern the sympathies of the crowd. . . . They cheered every National league player and it seemed that the capacity crowd of 27,067 stood to a man when Vander Meer walked off the field after his workmanlike performance in the third inning. . . . Bill McKechnie, the Reds' manager, served as first base coach for the Nationals. . . Jimmie Wilson, the Phillies' pilot was at third. . . . Lefty Grove, finishing pitcher for the Americans, got mad after wild throws by Jimmy Foxx and Joe Di Maggio in the eighth and he struck out Mace Brown of the Pirates, Stanley Hack and Billy Herman of the Cubs in a row. . . . The only time Manager Joe McCarthy's sluggers looked like the lineup that terrified National league stars in other years was in the ninth inning. . . . Di Maggio opened with a single and would have scored easily on Dickey's long drive to deep center if Ducky Medwick had not made a sensational one-handed catch while running up an incline in front of the scoreboard. . . . Cronin then brought him home with a double and he came within an inch of scoring on Gehrig's terrific smash to right field. . . . This time it was Ivy Goodman of Cincinnati who speared the drive that normally would have fallen for a home run. . . .

◆

Both leagues used the occasion to take movies for winter exploitation. . . . Lew Fonseca was on the job for the American, making shots of the crowd and players demonstrating the right and wrong ways to do their various chores. . . . Burton Holmes was supervising the work for the National, which will come out with an educational movie next fall for the first time. . . . President Frick was on the field an hour before the game

NATIONAL LEAGUE BOYS CELEBRATE AS RIVALS MOPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 6.—It was a jubilant band of National league stars that trouped into the clubhouse in Crosley field today after their second victory in the sixth All-Star game.

Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, who piloted the National leaguers and had the distinction of his first All-Star victory, was particularly happy. "Maybe we won't get so much criticism now; the minor league won one," he said.

"I had only one nervous moment in the entire game," he continued, "that came with York up there in the seventh with the bases loaded. But he struck out on a bad pitch and the danger passed. It might have been the turning point in the game.

Would Have Used Hubbell.

"Hubbell would have been in there in the ninth if Brown had walked Johnson. That was our plan. But we didn't have to call on Hub."

Gabby Hartnett, Cubs catcher, dominated the scene, as usual, in the winners' quarters. The huge, redfaced, jovial Gabby let all within earshot know how happy he was at the triumph, even though he didn't get into action.

All strategists were of the opinion that Gehringer was caught flat-footed by the surprise of Durocher's seventh inning bunt, which led to two American league errors and was indirectly responsible for as many National league runs. The surprise was in the bunt with a pitcher coming up.

Johnny Seeks Autographs.

The youthful Johnny Vander Meer was the personification of modesty after his sterling pitching of three opening innings. He was about the clubhouse seeking autographs, and that hesitantly.

Mace Brown was particularly happy over escaping the consequences of those loaded bases in the seventh. He said it was a bad pitch on which York fanned.

It was noticed that as he left the game Bill Lee took occasion to pass Brown and whisper something in his ear. To inquisitive ones who thought this might have been some sage, technical advice from one pitcher to another, Lee replied, "I just told him to give them hell."

Losers Are Gloomy.

Lefty Gomez was dressed for the street and was talking with the half dressed Johnny Allen when Buddy Lewis came in at the head of a weary, saddened group with the announcement: "It's all over. We lose, 4 to 1."

"We just no could do," Joe McCarthy said sadly. As he reached for a cooling soft drink. "The National leaguers won the game. Give them all the credit. All credit goes to the winner in such cases. There is nothing to say about the losers.

"The Durocher play in the seventh was an unfortunate thing. It might have been the turning point in the game. You never can tell. But they won. It was their day. That's all. It was a good game."

Grove Calls for Beer.

Lefty Grove of Boston, who was pitching when Jimmy Foxx, his teammate, and Joe Di Maggio of the Yankees presented the Nationals with a brace of runs on a couple of wild throws in the seventh, summed up the American's attitude with: "Let's forget it, I need a cold beer."

Ford Frick of the National league, collared Tom Meany, New York sports writer who first dubbed the National "the new minor league" and asked: "Well, what do you think of us now?"

"You guys should pay me for getting you mad," Meany answered.

"There's plenty of time for me to get into one of these games," Bob said. "Anyway, I wouldn't have been much good. I've got a blister on my hand and can't throw a curve."

VANDER MEER, LEE, AND BROWN TAME SLUGGERS

Four Errors Mar Losers' Play.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 6.—The National league, whipped in four of the five previous All-Star struggles with the American league, recovered some lost ground in Crosley field this afternoon in the sixth of the annual baseball spectacles, which were initiated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1933. The Nationals, just about perfect in every move, cracked down on the cream of the junior major league in more decisive fashion than is indicated by the 4 to 1 score compiled before a capacity crowd of 27,067.

The American league, accustomed to lording it over the parent circuit, just didn't have what it takes. The Nationals' pitching reduced the vaunted power of its enemies to a mere whisper. The Americans, who, at all times, seemed confident the break they wanted would come eventually, collapsed to such extent that they gave away three runs, but the Nationals, apparently refreshed by the acquisition of new All-Star units, operated with the smoothness of a team which had spent many hours in rehersal.

They Meet Mr. Vander Meer.

The first pitcher to harass the unsuspecting American leaguers was Johnny Vander Meer, the left handed kid who recently leaped to fame with successive no-hit triumphs in his own league. The fact that he was a major league freshman didn't seem to bother the boy wonder of the Cincinnati club staf, but he bothered the American league power hitters. They waved their bats at him for three innings with a net result of one hit and no passes. It didn't occur to the American leaguers that by waiting him out they might be able to prove he lacked control.

When Vander Meer had done his allotted three innings, Bill Terry, who piloted the Nationals, brought in Bill Lee of the Cubs. The General, a newcomer in All-Star competition, was as effective as his predecessor. During his three innings there were one pass and one hit, the latter a two bagger which Leo Durocher lost in the sun. Then Terry continued with his previously announced pitching plan. He sent forth Mace Brown, the finishing specialist of the Pirates. Brown had his troubles, what with five hits and a pass in the last three innings, but in the pinches he had something. It was a strikeout ball.

They Didn't Need Hits.

Little can be said for the hitting of the Nationals, but they didn't have to hit, with the Americans stumbling all over the premises. The Americans started this stumbling early. Shortstop Joe Cronin, the Red Sox manager, bobbled an ordinary roller in the first inning and it led to a run off Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, the Yankee expert, who allowed only two hits in three innings.

Next in line was Johnny Allen, the Cleveland Indians' right hander. As soon as Allen started in the fourth the bats of Mel Ott, the little Giant, tripled, and Ernie Lombardi, the lumbering Rhineland catcher, singled for the only run that wasn't an American league gift. The biggest crash came under the régime of Bob Grove, the Boston southpaw, who pitched the seventh and eighth.

In the seventh, with one National man on base, Charley Gehringer of the Tigers forgot to cover first base on a bunt. Jimmy Foxx, who started at first and later went to third because Lou Gehrig was dropped into the lineup, threw the ball without regard for Gehringer's lapse. The ball went far away into foul territory. Joe Di Maggio threw it back, but not accurately. It went into the Nationals' dugout and a pair of unearned runs resulted.

Hack and Herman Shine.

Lee wasn't the only Cub who sparkled in victory. Billy Herman and Stanley Hack were only half of the Nationals' infield in numbers, but in actual work were a good portion of the entire team. It was a single by Hack, followed by Cronin's error on a ball hit by Herman, that led to the first inning run off Gomez. Herman made the only other hit off the Yankee left hander. That was all the batting done by either of them, but they were brilliant on defense, both handling treacherous drives that easily could have gone for hits.

The Americans, stopped on two hits for six innings, finally got into the spot the Nationals had feared in the seventh. They filled the bases on Brown, two of them surviving after two were out. Joe McCarthy, leading the Americans, sent Rudy York, who frequently hits homers for Detroit, into this situation as a pinch hitter. Three strikes ended this hope. A similar situation developed in the ninth when the Americans scored their lone tally. Brown was saved by brilliant catches by Ducky Medwick and Ival Goodman. As a way of expressing appreciation, Brown struck out Bob Johnson of the Athletics, another home run artist, who had been summoned to bat for Grove.

Kreevich opened the battle with a

He Travels in Style on a Streamlined Train.

Seabiscuit, which ran second to War Minstrel in the Stars and Stripes at Arlington Park last Saturday, left Chicago on the Santa Fe's streamliner The Chief yesterday afternoon. His only traveling mate was his constant companion, the cream colored pony Punkins. Seabiscuit will be unloaded at the Hollywood track in Los Angeles on Friday morning.

Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Park Jocky club, is serving as honorary steward with C. J. Fitzgerald, state steward, and Webb Everett, track steward, at the north side meeting.

Jocky A. Laturco, who has been riding in Omaha, arrived yesterday. He will apply for a license at Arlington Park. He is a Brooklyn lad and is showing great promise.

At a session of the state racing commission yesterday the hearing in the Dolly Val case which developed at Lincoln Fields, was continued, pending further investigation. Dolly Val had finished last in a race at the Crete track. The stewards were not satisfied with Jocky Dee Packer's ride on the filly and suspended him. Not long after the race at Lincoln Fields, Dolly Val was shipped to Detroit, where she won the $10,000 Frontier handicap. In last Saturday's Matron stakes at Arlington Park she finished second.

Nine stake races will be run at Washington Park's thirty day meeting opening on Aug. 1. The Washington Park handicap, with $5,000 added, is scheduled for closing day, Sept. 3. Other stakes, all $2,500 added, follow: the Chicago and Sheridan handicaps on Aug. 6; the Lakeside and Prairie State handicaps on Aug. 13; the Beverly and Olympia Fields handicaps on Aug. 20, and the Great Western and Ravisloe handicaps on Aug. 27.

BOWED TENDON FORCES LAWRIN TO TAKE A REST

Inglewood, Cal., July 6.—[Special.]—Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin, Kentucky Derby winner, may be through racing for the remainder of the year. Trainer Ben Jones today announced that Lawrin, one of the leading 3 year olds on the American turf, developed a bowed tendon this morning.

Jones said the injury is similar to that which forced Dauber out of the $50,000 Hollywood Park 3 year old race last Wednesday. Lawrin won the mile and a quarter event easily, defeating the other two horses in the race, Wing and Wing, and Rommy.

"It certainly is strange that both colts should develop similar injuries after arriving in California sound," Jones said.

The injury will keep Lawrin out of the $15,000 Derby which will be run here Saturday. The field in the race now includes Specify, High Strike, Fire Marshal, Wing and Wing, and Rommy.

Woods Uses His Right Hand and Defeats Pallatin

Harvey Woods, 135 pound boxer from St. Paul, handed Tommy Pallatin, South Bend, his second defeat in seventeen days in an eight round bout in Marigold outdoor arena last night. Woods was effective with rights to the jaw and body throughout.

Billy Marquart, lightweight of Winnipeg, Man., defeated Lloyd Pine of Akron, O., in the eight round semifinal. Marquart scored a knockdown in the first round. Eddie Hellstrom, Rogers Park welterweight, upset Tommy Howell in the opening match of eight rounds. Dick Kist, former Danville, Ill., Golden Gloves 147 pounder, won his professional debut by scoring a two round technical knockout over Johnny Rock.

Saverio Turiello, No. 2 contender for Henry Armstrong's welterweight championship, and Milt Aron have been matched to meet in a return bout of ten rounds in Marigold Gardens next Monday. Turiello won the first bout between the two. The rematch is a substitute for the scheduled Davey Day-Nick Camarata bout, called off by Day. Yesterday Secretary John Owen of the Illinois boxing commission said Davey has been ordered to appear at next Monday's commission meeting to explain his refusal to go through with the engagement. Meanwhile, Day stands suspended indefinitly.

MITCHELL, EX-CUB MANAGER, QUITS HARVARD POST

Cambridge, Mass., July 6.—(AP)—Acceptance of the resignation of Fred F. Mitchell, former Chicago Cub manager, as Harvard varsity baseball coach was announced today. No action has been taken on his successor and indications were that no appointment would be made until next fall. Mitchell has been head coach here since 1926. He started his major league career as a pitcher for the Boston Red Sox in 1901.

DINNER DATE, away fast and racing improved, forced the early pace under a strong hold, rallied strongly when called upon, and came away fast through last three-sixteenths, winning in hand. GALADORE, away slowly but racing improved, began to better his position while saving ground on the turn, continued to secure room on the inside when taking command with a rush, and won easily. ACCORDION, well placed from the start, was in hand for about five-eighths, raced wide while going with determination under pressure thereafter, and disposed of WOODSIA in the last sixteenth. Latter, stoutly restrained for a half mile, opened up a commanding lead with a rush, swerved out through the stretch, and weakened in the final eighth.

SORTIE'S SON, well up after three-eighths and kept under restraint to the last five-sixteenths, slipped through on the inside when taking the lead with good response to light urging, and weakened after opening a good advantage but stalled off LADY ELGIN. Latter, raced wide after the first half mile, forced the early pace under a steady hold, could not withstand the winner's rush entering the stretch, but held on well and was slowly wearing down SORTIE'S SON. RED HAY, away fast but unable to hold the advantage, raced wide to the stretch, where, after going to inside, he held on fairly well.

RYE BEACH, strongly restrained for a half mile, bore out steadily while under punishment in the last eighth and gave way badly in the last 70 yards, but lasted. MADISON, well placed early, dropped back slightly approaching the turn, but quickly re-entered serious contention when racing wide approaching the stretch and was forced wide while holding on gamely in the drive. LITHOROME, well up after the first three-sixteenths, was on the inside the final three-eighths and closed in determined fashion.

GRIM REAPER, away fast but unable to keep up and taken under a light hold after about three-sixteenths, continued to race wide on the turn, but came with determination when straightened out in the stretch and, wearing down FAIRFLAX, won drawing clear. Latter, close to the pace from the start and rated under a steady hold for almost three-quarters, quickly shook off MAD MONEY when placed to pressure in the last eighth, but weakened and could not withstand the winner.

CARNELIAN, away poorly, began to improve her position after reaching the final half mile, raced to the leaders with a rush on the outside after reaching the last three-sixteenths and, shaking off FANFERN, was ready to draw out. Latter, away slowly and taken in hand after moving up in the first quarter, saved ground throughout and made a game bid, but was not good enough. CATCHEM, away fast, was nicely rated in the pacemaking, but gave way when placed to pressure.

RITZ BROTHERS, well placed from the start, was placed to strong pressure after reaching the last five-sixteenths and held on fairly well. GEOLOGIST took command easily, was in hand for about five-eighths but failed to stay when placed to good urging.

Chicago Says Big 'Hello' to Irish Boxers

several of the group of judges and referees who officiate at C. Y. O. and Golden Gloves bouts were among those who greeted the Irish boys yesterday at Union station.

Kerr Especially Pleased.

All of the Irish team are in splendid physical condition, Trainer Cooper reported. None of them was more pleased to return to Chicago than Frankie Kerr, the bantamweight champion.

"I told you I'd get back to Chicago some time," Kerr said yesterday, referring to the afternoon more than a year ago in Milan, Italy, when we expressed regret that he had been whipped in the European tournament by Ulderico Sergo and thus had lost a chance to win a place on the European team that came to Chicago last year.

"You tell Frank Kainrath for me," Kerr continued, "that now, since he has beaten Sergo, I'm going to beat him. That's enough championship for me."

Beat Ginter in 1933 Bouts.

Kerr defeated Bud Ginter of the Golden Gloves squad in Soldiers' field in 1933. And if Kainrath, who has eight teammates fighting him for the 118 pound berth on the C. Y. O. team in the camp at Lockport, Ill., is chosen, this match quite easily will be the headliner of the international fights Wednesday night.

BIG FIELD WILL COMPETE TODAY IN PATER-FILIUS

All Day Meet Scheduled at Midlothian Club.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Fathers and sons will have their day today, when the thirty-fifth annual Pater-Filius tournament is held at the Midlothian Country club, originator of this, one of the best known events in American golf. A field of 103 teams will play in the twenty-seven hole event, an entry so large that the first pair will tee off at 8:15 this morning and the last at 3:50 p. m.

Prizes will be offered to the father and son combinations scoring low gross and low net for twenty-seven holes and for low gross and low net in the nine hole forenoon round. The low net scorers for the twenty-seven hole distance will be awarded the Pater-Filius trophy for one year.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago District Golf association in the La Salle hotel yesterday, the A. W. Hale trophy was presented for annual competition by amateurs in the special qualifying round for the Chicago District open, which this year will be decided at Olympia Fields on July 22, 23, and 24.

The trial for all amateurs who have handicaps of five strokes or more will be decided on the No. 1 and No. 4 courses at Olympia Fields on July 19. The fifty low scorers and ties in this eighteen hole test will qualify for the tournament proper. All other contestants who fail to qualify will be admitted free as spectators for the entire seventy-two holes of the event.

Entries for all players—professionals, low handicap amateurs, and participants in the special round for amateurs carrying handicaps of five or more—will close at midnight tomorrow in the C. D. G. A. headquarters in the La Salle hotel. Yesterday Maynard G. Fessenden, chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago open, said that the limited field of 250 professionals and low handicap amateurs is nearly complete. A field of 113 pros, including Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Ralph Guldahl, Harry Cooper, Horton Smith, Ed Dudley, Sam Snead, and Jimmy Thomson, already is entered.

Piling up 26½ points, Northwest jumped from the bottom to third place in the standings of the women's inter-district team matches, at Medinah yesterday. The South team, with 19½ points, took the lead by one point over Northeast. The women played over No. 3 course.

Ella Mae Williams of West had individual low, 43—43—86. Eleanor Dudley, recently crowned state amateur champion, with 45—46—91, tied with Lillian Zech and Mildred Hackl of Midlothian. Young Virginia Nilles of Park Ridge, a member of the Northwest team, had 92, and also a slam, winning all nine of her possible points. Miss Williams did the same for the West team. The results:

Mrs. J. H. Kay had low net at the Medinah women's club guest day yesterday with 84—6—78 over No. 2 course. In Class B, Mrs. S. H. Polasky had 114—34—80 to win.

Guest winners were: Mrs. F. J. Buckridge, 44—47—91; Mrs. Rose Marshall, 47—47—94; Mrs. G. M. Millor, 53—48—101, and Mrs. J. Roarda, 56—50—106.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ALL-STARS GET 4 TO 1 REVENGE

Four Errors Mar Play of Losing Team.

drive which for a moment was loaded with bad news for the Nationals. Ott staggered as he reached the bank in center, but recovered his balance and made the catch a few feet from the wall. It was the only healthy wallop of the inning. Gehringer tapped gently to Vander Meer and Herman had no trouble handling an ordinary bounder from the bat of Averill.

As the Nationals' first inning opened Hack fouled Gomez's first two pitches into the stand. Stan slapped the next pitch for a single into left. Herman signaled his Cub mate for a hit and run and Hack darted for second on the pitch. Herman banged the ball toward short and Cronin, apparently trying to hurry, although there was no chance to get Hack at second, let the ball trickle through his hands. Hack went to third on the error.

Johnny Tames the Sluggers.

Gomez curved Goodman into a called third strike, but Medwick sent Averill into deep center for a fly ball and Hack ran home after the catch. Ott also flied to Averill.

The Nationals fared similarly in their second assault on Gomez. Lombardi grounded to Lewis. McCormick popped to Gehringer and Cronin, blocking the ball with his knees to make certain another grounder would not elude him, threw out Durocher.

Cronin Gets a Hit.

The only trouble encountered by Vander Meer came at the start of the third. Cronin compensated for his previous blunder by lining a single over Hack's head. The kid southpaw then turned a bit shaky for the first and only time. Lewis, a left hand hitter, loitered around the plate until he got himself in a 3 and 2 spot. The next pitch came over and the Washington star drilled it into right center and Ott had to race back almost to the 387 foot sign to make the catch. Gomez came within inches of beating out a high bounder, but Vander Meer threw him out. Kreevich closed the inning with a tall fly to Herman.

The one worthy act of the Nationals in their third and last attack on Gomez was a Cub contribution. The first man up was Leiber of the Giants, batting for Vander Meer. He flied to Kreevich close to the left field wall. Hack, the only owner of a National league hit up to this stage, grounded to Gehringer. Herman, after working Gomez into a 3 and 2 hole, shot a single to the left of Lewis at third. Goodman fouled to Dickey.

Bill Is Shaky at Start.

The Nationals' fourth inning which brought them their second run, opened with Allen pitching 3 and 2 ball to Medwick before Ducky popped to Foxx. Ott powdered a long fly into the right center field corner and Averill, going to within a few feet of the bleacher fence, pulled back. The ball caromed off the wall and shot back toward short center with Di Maggio in pursuit. By the time he could get away a throw, Ott was on third base. A moment later Lombardi made the Ott triple count. The ponderous catcher whistled a single past Lewis to move Ott to the plate. McCormick then bounced to Gehringer and Durocher struck out.

Lee was in difficulty again in the fifth but not because of any weakness on his part. Dickey lifted a fly close to the foul line back of third and Durocher drifted over to make the catch. When the ball came down he wasn't within ten feet of it. He had lost it in the sun, Dickey being credited with a double. It meant nothing to Lee. Cronin faded on a fly to Ott. Gehrig was rushed into action as pinch batter for Lewis and he almost slipped a single into right. Herman grabbed it back on the grass and threw perfectly to McCormick. Then Allen really clouted one but Hack made a brilliant stop and concluded the inning with a throw to McCormick. Gehrig went into the game at first base and Foxx moved over to third for the American league.

Allen had to face three Cubs in a row in the Nationals' fifth and none of them accomplished anything. Lee flied to Averill in right center. Hack also flied to Averill. Then Herman permitted a third strike to float past.

This, Boys, Is Pitching.

Lee's final inning, the sixth, was brief. Cramer, taking Kreevich's place, rolled to Herman. Gehringer tapped to Durocher and Averill was called out on strikes. In the Nationals' half of the inning the Americans almost gave away another run. Allen hit Goodman on the peak of the cap with a wayward pitch. Di Maggio took a fly off Medwick's bat. While Ott was at bat Goodman put on a steal of second and not only made it but went to third when Dickey threw the ball into center field. Allen was equal to this pressure. He struck out Ott after the count had gone to 3 and 1. Lombardi grounded to Cronin.

The seventh, when the Americans became a real menace for the first time, opened with Foxx caroming a single off the tip of Durocher's glove. Di Maggio forced him on a roller to Durocher. Dickey popped to Hack. Then the Americans proceeded to shove Brown onto the spot. Cronin drew a pass. Gehrig beat out a hit which Durocher knocked down, and the bases were loaded. Up came York of Detroit home run fame. Brown pitched a ball, a foul strike, another ball, a missed strike and another ball to bring the count to 3 and 2. York swung at the next one, which was low, and missed.

Grief was poured on Grove quickly and thickly in the Nationals' seventh. McCormick, with a one ball and two strike count, led off with a single over second. Then the American leaguers exploded. Durocher bunted toward third. Grove started for the ball but saw he couldn't reach it. Foxx, tearing in too late to stop it from being a base hit, picked up the ball and when about to throw noted that Gehringer hadn't gone over to cover first base which Gehrig had deserted in anticipation of a bunt in his direction.

My Goodness, What Fielding.

While Gehringer still was several paces from the bag, Foxx turned the ball loose. It wasn't exactly a bad throw, but Gehringer was in no position to make the catch. The ball sailed into right field foul territory. Gehringer started after it, as did Gehrig and Di Maggio. Di Maggio reached it first, but by this time McCormick had scored and Durocher was arriving at third. Di Maggio, after retrieving the ball, heaved it toward the plate but it went high over Dickey's head and into the National league dugout. Durocher scored on this error. Just to prove that he wasn't upset by this clowning, Grove struck out Brown, Hack, and Herman.

Gehringer Hits a Single.

The Americans added one hit to their total in the eighth. It was a single to right by Gehringer after Hack had thrown out Cramer. It was followed by Averill's fly to Goodman and Foxx's tap to Brown. The National leaguers produced two hits off Grove in their half. After Goodman had flied to Di Maggio for the first out, Medwick singled over short. Ott flied to Averill and Lombardi singled to right center, sending Medwick to third. This threat died on McCormick's poke to Foxx.

The run the Americans finally rushed over the plate in the ninth, when Brown needed support, started with Di Maggio's single into left. Dickey hammered a long fly into left and Medwick, running back toward the scoreboard, grabbed it with his gloved hand. Cronin slashed a two bagger off the left field wall behind Medwick and Di Maggio charged around to the plate from first base. Gehrig also ripped off a powerful drive but the bleacher wall was too far away and Goodman made the catch. Then Johnson of the Athletics was sent up as the last hope. He looked at a third strike and that ended the show.

Chicagoans Play Starring Roles in All-Star Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., July 6.—Chicagoans again played a leading rôle in baseball's annual All-Star game today, three Cubs assisting the National league to its 4 to 1 victory and Mike Kreevich of the White Sox turning in one spectacular defensive play.

Bill Lee, the Cubs' big right hander, limited the American league sluggers to one hit in three innings. He followed Johnny Vander Meer, pitching the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings. After walking Charley Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, on his first five pitches, he fanned Joe Di Maggio of the Yankees on a curve ball for the third out in the fourth. In the sixth inning he ended his assignment by retiring Earl Averill of Cleveland on three called strikes for the third out.

Stanley Hack, Cub third baseman, who, like Lee, was participating in his first All-Star game, opened the National league's offense by leading off the first inning with a single. He continued to third when Joe Cronin of Boston, the American league shortstop, fumbled Billy Herman's grounder, and scored the first run of the game on Joe Medwick's fly to Averill. He grounded out to Gehringer for the third out in the third inning, popped to Averill in the fifth, and missed a third strike in the seventh when Bob Grove of Boston was retiring the National league on three consecutive strikeouts. He handled three chances in the field.

Herman, who has represented the Cubs in the last five All-Star games, in addition to moving Hack along in the first inning, singled past third in the third inning, was called out on strikes in the fifth inning, and was the third of the three strikeout victims Grove baffled in the seventh. He also made a spectacular stop to rob Lou Gehrig of the Yankees of a hit in the fifth inning and fielded perfectly on six other chances.

Kreevich sent a long fly to Mel Ott in the first inning, and popped to Herman in the third before being relieved. Then he backed against the center field wall to take Hank Leiber's drive in the third.

Sox Practice Today; Take to Road Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, after two days of pulling for their lone All-Star, Mike Kreevich, today will go back into baseball in their own behalf, the day's activities taking the form of what is known to the trade as a brisk workout.

The Sox, proud accomplishers of seven victories in their last eight games at home and abroad and of nine successes in their last eleven games away from home, will exercise as a tuning process for the year's longest road trip, which opens with a double-header in Detroit tomorrow.

They Can Displace Tigers.

When the Sox arrive in Detroit tomorrow morning they will find the Tigers in fourth place, but not so firmly planted that the Sox couldn't trade places with them in the four game series coming up. The Tigers have won eight more games than the Sox. But they also have lost two more than the Sox. So that makes them only three games ahead of the Sox. The Senators are between the two rivals of tomorrow. They have won eight more games than the Sox and have suffered three more setbacks.

Stratton and Lee.

Manager Jim Dykes is not going to fool in so far as pitchers are concerned. He's going to use his well rested ace, Monty Stratton, in one of the games and in the other he will assign Thornton Lee, who last Sunday shaved the Cleveland Indians' league lead by tossing a splendid 3 to 0 shutout.

After the stay in Detroit, the Sox will take off for Philadelphia. After Philadelphia they will go to Washington, where they have not won a game this year; thence to Boston, where they won two out of three their last trip, and then to New York, where they beat the Yanks the first three out of four their last trip.

GIRLS' TEAMS TO PLAY.

That $185,000 for Dean Is Almost Spent -- Breadon

Cincinnati, O., July 6.—[Special.]—Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, today again denied the widely circulated story that Judge K. M. Landis had forbidden him to cash the check for $185,000 he had received from Phil Wrigley for Dizzy Dean.

"The check not only has been cashed, but I am sorry to say the exigencies of the season have forced us to well nigh spend the money," said Breadon.

REPORT DIZ PLANS SUIT.

Dizzy Dean, ailing Cub pitcher, refused to comment last night on reports emanating from St. Louis that he would sue the Cardinals for damages on the ground that they had wrecked his career and effectiveness by overworking him.

The report started when Dr. Robert Hyland, Cardinals' club physician, said Dean had called him, requesting information on bursitis. Dean's trouble is traced to bursitis, suffered last year while pitching for the Cardinals.

Dean told Robert Lewis, Cub secretary, that he had not filed any suits as yet. Beyond that he would not comment.

GALENTO WANTS WINNER TAKE ALL FIGHT WITH BAER

Orange, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—An enraged Tony Galento today challenged Max Baer, California's playboy pugilist, to a winner take all match. Tony hit the ceiling after reading Maxie's blast from Little Rock, Ark., at the National Boxing association's rating of Galento as second only to Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

"He ridicules my posing while drinking beer," Tony snorted. "I never pose in the ring. How can anyone forget Baer's pose on one knee when he quit to Joe Louis!

"If Baer thinks he is a better man and deserves a higher rating than I do here's his chance to prove it in the ring, not by mouth exercise."

The tavern keeper said Promoter Harry Mendel of Newark would deposit $50,000 in any bank Baer chooses if Baer would sign to meet Galento on a winner take all basis.

Alaska Juneau.

Investors' Guide: What do you think about Alaska Juneau stock? Is it pretty much of a speculation? Does the company mine anything but gold? Please give me a report.—W. Q.

Answer: The Alaska Juneau Gold Mining company, a West Virginia corporation, produces gold at mining properties located in the Juneau gold belt near Juneau, Alaska. A little silver and lead also is mined, but these metals produce only about 4 per cent of revenues on the average.

Recoveries last year totaled 151,670 fine ounces of gold, 120,691 fine ounces of silver, and 1,980,405 pounds of lead, compared with 1936 recoveries of 149,235 ounces of gold, 101,590 ounces of silver, and 2,102,594 pounds of lead.

Gross revenues in the first five months of this year totaled $2,093,000 and profit before depreciation, depletion, and federal income taxes was $813,200, compared with revenues of $2,376,500 and profit of $1,209,500 in the corresponding period last year. The record of earnings in recent years [before depletion] follows:

1936	5,400,621	2,275,206	1.52
1935	4,281,110	1,563,798	1.04
1934	4,582,559	1,922,756	1.28
1933	3,960,165	1,497,253	1.00
1929	3,627,247	1,025,208	0.71

P. B. Bradley, president, said that earnings were reduced in 1937 by higher maintenance costs due to changes in the company's milling and other practices. The added expense for maintenance, he said, would be a continuing cost because operations at the company's mine had ceased to be as simple as formerly. As an example he cited the fact that mining operations now are conducted over a vertical range of approximately 3,000 feet by two miles in length, whereas a few years ago operations were conducted on only one level at a time.

The company had total assets of $21,238,553 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $2,023,927 and current liabilities were $974,485. There is no funded debt, and sole capital obligation is 1,500,000 shares of $10 par capital stock. The stock has been paying regular dividends of 15 cents and extras of 15 cents quarterly in recent years.

We regard the stock as speculative. Although able to show moderate profits even before 1933, its high earnings of the last few years have been due primarily to the artificially high price for gold maintained in the last five years by the United States treasury. The recent rise in the company's maintenance costs is another factor which the investor must consider.

COTTON

Renewed strength in securities furnished the background for general buying of cotton futures on American exchanges yesterday. Prices advanced .14 to .22 cent a pound, or as much as $1.10 a bale. Houses with trade and foreign connections as well as speculators, were fairly aggressive buyers of futures. There was some improvement in demand for textiles late in the day, owing to the strength in cotton futures.

Spot cotton closed .15 to .18 cent higher, with New Orleans, 9.20 cents; New York, 9.21 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 9 cents a pound. Prices follow:

SWEDISH CO-OP HEAD SEES PERIL IN MONOPOLIES

Tells of Fight Against European Cartels.

Monopolies constitute one of the serious problems in world economy, Albin Johansson, president of the Swedish Coöperative union, said yesterday during a brief visit in Chicago. He said monopolies, if unchecked, restrict demand and employment, eventually throttle independent business.

Johansson, an official delegate to the recent celebration of the 300th anniversary of the first Swedish colonist in America, was the guest yesterday of Gen. Robert E. Wood of Sears, Roebuck & Co. After a luncheon in his honor and a tour of the Sears plant he left for New York City.

Coops Fight Cartels.

Swedish coöperatives, which last year accounted for 12 per cent of the country's retail sales, have fought European cartels successfully, Johansson said, and asserted the coöperatives have been beneficial to independent dealers. Twenty-five years ago, when the coöperative movement in Sweden was begun, 25,000 independents were operating, he said, adding that today they number about 50,000.

When the European lamp bulb cartel refused to reduce prices several years ago the coöperative society established its own factory in Stockholm and now saves its members about $2,500,000 yearly, he said. In another case, Johansson asserted, a demand for a 14 per cent reduction in floor covering prices was sought several months ago from a cartel, but the reduction was refused and the coöperatives are now starting to manufacture for themselves.

Calls Movement Success.

Johansson said the Swedish coöperatives had been successful and that this was due to a very low overhead cost per unit through a combination of a maximum volume of commodities. He contended that Sweden's small percentage of unemployed workers is attributable to the success of the coöperatives.

He said he approved any organization operating in a free market which pursued a constant policy of keeping prices low.

Timing the Turns

● In our economic, political, and market study released January 3, entitled "Outlook for 1938" we commented regarding the stock market as follows: "The current bear market is expected to become exhausted during the second quarter of this year. The range during the year should approximate 40 to 50 points."

Our market studies, which have been released weekly to our clients, continued to indicate a very definite upward trend. On May 9 we released recommendations to purchase specific securities at indicated levels. Our current market study explains fully the outlook for July and August. EASTERN ROADS WIN HALF CENT FARE INCREASE 2½ Cent Coach Rate 'Test' Approved.

WESTERN ROADS MAY ACT

A strong effort by a number of western railroad presidents to obtain a half cent a mile increase in passenger fares was predicted yesterday in Chicago railroad circles. Basic coach fares in the west have been steady at 2 cents a mile since Dec. 1, 1933, when they were reduced from 3.6.

Opinion is divided among the heads of the western roads over fares. Some of the executives are reported to favor an increase, but a larger number is said to hold that if fares are boosted the roads will lose business to private automobiles and buses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—The interstate commerce commission today reversed its ruling of last April 14 and authorized eastern railroads to increase passenger coach fares from 2 cents to 2½ cents a mile for a trial period of eighteen months.

Commissioner Porter, the only dissenter.

The action came at the request of the carriers, which petitioned for a rehearing on the ground that the commission entered too far into the field of management in reaching its earlier decision.

The 2 cent fare was ordered Feb. 28, 1936, and became effective the following June 2. Before that time the basic rail passenger fare was 3.6 cents a mile. The increase is expected to net the carriers between 30 and 40 millions a year. The roads will be permitted to put the change into effect on ten days' notice.

Porter Is Only Dissenter.

Last April 14 the commission, by a 6 to 5 vote, refused to permit a half cent increase. Today the commission voted 11 to 1 in favor of the increase. Commissioner Claude R. Porter was the only dissenter.

The eastern territory in which the temporary increase was granted is bounded on the west by Lake Michigan, Chicago, Peoria, and Springfield, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., and Cairo, Ill. From southern Illinois the southern boundary of the territory follows the Ohio river to Huntington, W. Va., and eastward to Norfolk, Va.

The original application of the carriers was part of general freight and passenger increases sought in an effort to pull the nation's railroads out of their financial morass. The I. C. C. granted what amounted to about one-third of a 15 per cent increase asked in freight rates and turned thumbs down on the passenger increase.

Wage Cut Proposed.

In the meantime carriers announced that they proposed to impose a 15 per cent wage cut on their workers and at the same time petitioned for a rehearing of the coach passenger decision. The favorable action of the commission on the coach fares, it was said, will not halt wage reduction plans, because the passenger boost is temporary and, the roads contend, will not yield sufficient revenue to offset the necessity for wage retrenchments. The rail unions plan to fight the pay cuts. Parleys will be held in Chicago later this month.

"While the results from the present fare basis in the east and from the recently increased coach fare in the south are not conclusive that the instant proposal of the eastern carriers, especially in this time of business stagnation, will result in revenue increases," the commission said, "the further hearing makes it inferable:

"1. That the financial condition of the applicants is such that every reasonable opportunity should be afforded to permit them to increase their revenues.

Improved Service Cited.

"2. That by reason of the increased cost of the passenger service and the improved accommodations quite generally accorded to coach passengers, the coach service regarded by itself today may be worth somewhat more to the traveling public than early in 1936, when we determined that the fare should not exceed 2 cents a mile.

"3. That in the absence of an actual test and careful analysis of the results we are left in doubt whether or not applicants can obtain greater revenue from the proposed fare basis than from the present basis.

"While we realize that no trial period could probably be found the results of which would be acceptable as conclusive to all concerned, it seems clear that the fare basis which will yield to applicants the greatest possible revenue can be determined with reasonable assurance only through the 'trial and error' method."

Express Rate Changes Asked.

Washington, D. C., July 6. (AP)—L. O. Head, president of Railway Express, Inc., asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to readjust express rates.

The company wants to increase some rates and cut others. It estimates $10,000,000 can be added to its revenues annually by the changes it proposes.

Head, a witness at an ICC hearing, also testified that a wage reduction will be necessary.

LONG QUIET U. S. SHIPYARDS THROB WITH NEW LIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—After years of comparative idleness, America's shipyards now are making a distinct contribution to national recovery, a survey showed today.

Thirty-three ships, exclusive of naval vessels, are under construction or soon will be. They include a $15,750,000 liner to take the place of the old Leviathan, twelve Standard Oil company tankers and twenty fast freighters. These ships, symbolic of the United States maritime commission's program to rehabilitate the American merchant marine, will cost $93,270,568.

It is estimated 25,000 persons will be employed directly in construction, and thousands more indirectly. The building program for example, will be felt in steel mills, which will turn out a total of 147,480 gross tons of steel for the new ships.

500 Ships in Ten Years.

The long range construction program, as announced by Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission calls for 500 ships within the next ten years at an estimated cost of $1,250,000,000. That is the absolute minimum which the navy says is needed as an auxiliary fleet in time of war.

How far behind this country has fallen in shipbuilding may be realized from the fact that not a single cargo ship, the backbone of a first class merchant marine, has been built for foreign commerce in an American shipyard in sixteen years.

Thus far eastern shipyards are the only beneficiaries of the rehabilitation program. However, plans are in the making for construction of 24 new vessels for lines operating from the Pacific coast at an estimated cost of $90,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Prepare for New Service.

Meantime the maritime commission is preparing for its new service to South America. Three liners, which recently were taken from the unprofitalbe San Francisco-New York run, are being remodeled at a cost of $1,000,000 and will begin plying between New York and four South American ports early in September.

The new service frankly is an answer to Germany and Italy, which have been sending some of their best ships to South America as part of their "peaceful penetration" program.

Education Board Calls $354,000 of 1937 Bonds

Illinois Bell Earns $861,734 in May; Postal Reports Loss

The Illinois Bell Telephone company and the New York Telephone company, large operating subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, yesterday reported decreased revenues and profits for May.

Lower May earnings were also reported by Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation on its domestic land communications system. An interim report by the General Baking company showed an increase in earnings over a year ago and Endicott-Johnson corporation reported a moderate decline in earnings.

Net for Month $861,734.

Gross revenues of Illinois Bell declined to $7,281,551 in May from $7,392,170 in the corresponding 1937 month. May net income was $861,734, against $1,034,798 last year, or a drop of more than 16 per cent. Gross and net income of the company for the first five months of 1938 were $36,002,617 and $4,006,183, respectively, compared with $35,917,001 and $5,268,590 a year ago.

May gross revenue of New York Telephone was $17,091,262 compared with $17,371,983 a year ago. May net income showed a larger percentage decrease than gross revenues, totaling $2,263,020 for the month against $3,010,864 last year.

May gross revenues of Postal Telegraph's domestic communications systems amounted to $1,746,864 compared with $1,976,845 in May 1937. Net loss on the domestic business increased over a year ago, totaling $371,823 against $290,876.

Reporting for the 13 week period ended June 25, General Baking company listed net income of $538,844, after federal taxes and other charges, compared with $394,421 in the corresponding 13 weeks of 1937.

Endicott-Johnson, shoe manufacturers, issued an interim statement for the 52 weeks ended May 28 showing net profit of $1,202,152, equal to $2.06 a share on the common stock. In the preceding 12 month period net profit was $1,563,910 or $3.11 a share. The company's fiscal year ends Nov. 30. Announcement was made earlier this week that production was being stepped up at the company's Binghamton [N. Y.] plant.

THERE'S JUST ONE WAY BUSINESS CAN GO, SAYS HOOK, 'AND THAT'S UP'

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Charles R. Hook, Ohio industrialist, said today he believed business "could go only one way—and that is up."

Charles R. Hook.

Hook made his comment as he sailed to join other members of a group of nine men and women appointed by President Roosevelt to study labor relations and legislation in England and Sweden. He is president of the American Rolling Mill company.

Also aboard the Queen Mary were Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Mrs. Roper. "The upswing is here to stay," said Roper.

RFC TO BORROW 700 MILLION FROM PUBLIC IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said today he would borrow more than $700,000,000 from the public in this fiscal year to repay RFC debts to the treasury.

The first borrowing will be the sale of $200,000,000 of three year RFC notes.

The effect of the transactions will be to reduce the amount of borrowing the treasury might otherwise have to do to finance the $8,500,000,000 spending program.

Engineering Construction Awards 223 Million in June

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Major engineering construction awards for June amounted to $223,066,000, making the total for the first six months of the year $1,254,931,000, Engineering News-Record reported today.

STOCKS BOUNCE TO NEW PEAKS AFTER SETBACK

Rally in Last Hour Wipes Out Losses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—A fresh buying wave in the stock market in the last hour of trading today enabled 101 issues to establish new high marks for the year and longer after the list had dropped fractions to 2 points in early dealings. Although net gains were not large, the advance was regarded sharp when compared with the day's lowest levels.

The late rally was accompanied by a burst of trading, some 630,000 shares in that period, swelling the day's total to 1,817,190 shares. Earlier trading was the slowest since the current recovery started June 20.

Indicative of the rebound was the Dow-Jones industrial average, which was down to 134.57 at one time and closed at 137.78, for a gain of 1.26 on the day. The rail and public utility averages showed comparatively large recoveries and each closed higher.

893 Issues Are Traded.

The trade continued fairly broad, 893 issues making appearances, compared with 904 on Tuesday. Today, 551 closed higher, 163 lower, and 179 unchanged from preceding finals.

Some motor, copper, oil, and merchandising issues were among the more prominent issues to reach new peaks. Chrysler closed at 67⅞, up 2⅞ points; General Motors gained 1¼ points to close at 39⅜; Yellow Truck climbed 1¼ points to 16, and some lower priced issues, among them Packard, worked fractionally higher.

Nonferrous metal stocks came in for considerable attention. Anaconda, in the best volume of the day; Inspiration, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott, Phelps-Dodge, and International Nickel gained fractions to 1½ points. The voting by Phelps-Dodge of a 20 cent payment on common shares, against 15 cents previously, strengthened sentiment, it was said.

Merchandise Shares Rise.

Montgomery Ward, up 1⅛ points, and Sears-Roebuck, up nearly 2 group. Oils moved mostly fractionally higher, with Texas corporation, Socony-Vacuum, Standard of New Jersey, and Pure Oil among leaders. Barnsdall jumped 1⅛ points to a new high for the year.

Steels closed with minor fractional gains after running lower most of the day. United States Steel common closed at 60, up ¼ point, after being down to 57¾. Republic, another

Worthless Bonds 'Made Good' by Banker in Five Year Effort

Standard Safe Deposit company bondholders, who recently would have been glad to trade their securities for more decorative wallpaper, yesterday were exchanging the bonds on a dollar for dollar basis for income bonds of a going concern. The settlement was arranged by a Chicago banker who decided in 1933 to "prove that bankers are not dishonest."

Norman B. Collins.

Norman B. Collins, now president of the National Security bank, was president of the safe deposit company when it became insolvent early in 1933 and defaulted on a $200,000 leasehold bond issue held by 245 individuals. The bonds became worthless later that year when the leasehold was forfeited for nonpayment of rent.

Gets New Ground Lease.

After the leasehold was lost and the safe deposit company went out of business, Collins got a new ground lease through a nominee in September, 1933. He supervised management of the property until recently when he formed the Mil-West Building corporation to take over the property. Income bonds of the Mil-West Building corporation are now being exchanged for the old safe deposit company issue.

The income bonds bear 3 per cent interest and mature in 1958. Collins estimated that after reorganization expenses have been paid the corporation will earn enough to pay the bond interest and leave approximately $4,000 annually for retirement of bonds. Interest is cumulative.

Tells of Problems.

Collins said that many problems had to be solved in putting the property, which is at Milwaukee, Western, and Armitage avenues, on a paying basis. The buildings, now occupied by the Main State bank, a business college and several shops, were vacant for several months after the new lease was made. Back taxes also had to be paid off.

Collins also was president of the Security Bank of Chicago and the Second Security Bank of Chicago. Both institutions paid off depositors and ceased operations in 1933. The Standard Safe Deposit company was controled by the Security bank.

MEXICO MAKES DEAL TO SELL $10,000,000 OF OIL TO N. Y. FIRM

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 6.—(AP)—The Mexican government has contracted to sell $10,000,000 worth of oil to Davis & Co. of New York in a deal described tonight as a step toward solution of the nation's problem of disposing of its vast petroleum surplus.

About 50 per cent of the oil will go to Germany and the rest to other European markets, principally those of Scandinavian countries, unofficial sources disclosed. The transaction was reported to have been consummated yesterday. It was approved by President Lazaro Cardenas some weeks ago. The oil will be obtained in part from wells expropriated March 18 from 17 British and American companies.

A possible hitch was seen in a statement by ousted officials of the expropriated companies that they would attach any tanker carrying oil from the seized wells.

Cardenas said the government would seek methods of indemnifying the expropriated oil industry upon completion of inventories of the seized properties.

Dollar Continues Rise Against Foreign Moneys

The dollar again advanced against major foreign currencies yesterday. The British pound closed 5-16 cent lower at $4.94⅛ and the French franc slipped 0.00 1-16 cent to 2.78 cents.

93 MILLION NEW SECURITIES TO BE SOLD TODAY

Standard Oil (N. J.) Offers 81 Million.

Public offering of nearly 93 million dollars of new securities will be made today. The issues are $81,000,000 of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey debentures and notes to be placed on the market by a banking group headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., $10,000,000 of Crown Cork and Seal company, Inc., debentures offered by a group headed by Paine, Webber & Co., and $1,657,000 of Rochester Gas and Electric 3½ per cent bonds due 1937.

The Standard Oil issue will be the largest to be marketed since the $100,000,000 debenture issue of the United States Steel corporation, which also was handled by a syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley.

The Standard securities will consist of $50,000,000 of 15 year 2¾ per cent debentures and $31,000,000 of serial notes, due 1943 and 1947, which bear interest at 1¾ per cent and 2½ per cent, according to the maturity.

Some Placed Privately.

The serial note issue totals $35,000,000, but $4,000,000 of the notes have been purchased privately by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The debentures will be priced at 99 and accrued interest and the notes will be sold at 100 and accrued interest. It is said that the 2¾ per cent interest on the debentures is the lowest in history for such an issue of comparable maturity.

Proceeds from the sale of the securities, which will aggregate about $82,972,500, will be used by the company in making available to subsidiaries additional money needed for capital expenditures, for financing inventories and receivables and for general corporate purposes.

Crown Cork Offers Debentures.

The Crown Cork issue consists of 10 year 4½ per cent sinking fund debentures, due July 1, 1948, which are priced at 99 and accrued interest. Proceeds of the financing will be used as follows: $3,000,000 for the payment of promissory notes to the Guaranty Trust company, $1,000,000 to the National City bank, $4,689,000 to the Bethlehem Steel company on a note covering the purchase of raw materials, and the remainder for working capital and other corporate purposes.

The Rochester Gas and Electric bonds will be offered by a syndicate composed of the First Boston corporation, Smith, Barney & Co., Goldman, Sachs & Co., Harris, Hall & Co., W. C. Langley & Co., and Sage, Rutty & Co. They will be priced at 104, indicating a total price to the public of $1,723,280.

Stocks, Bonds

Rail shares did much to keep the market alive in the early hours, resisting pressure and staging a solo upswing. New York Central was the volume leader in this group and made a major fractional gain. Others showing strength were Southern Pacific, Southern railway, Illinois Central, and Northern Pacific. Gains of 1 point or more were made by Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Great Northern.

Airplane stocks again did moderately well in active markets. Boeing and Douglas were in front, the former rising 1½ points, the latter nearly 1 point.

Some of the early weakness was ascribed to selling invited by the market's extended rise and the drop of American shares on European exchanges. However, buyers appeared willing to take most of the offerings, cutting off a more serious decline.

This willingness to absorb offerings was traced in part to the continuing firm conviction in the financial district that business had passed its low point and was on the rise. Supporting this belief were reports of extremely heavy demand for pig iron.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Railroad bonds again assumed leadership in the bond market today as all lien groups moved higher. Trading totaled $7,395,500, face value, against $7,192,900 Tuesday.

The announcement that the interstate commerce commission would permit eastern railroads to increase fares from 2 to 2½ cents a mile for an eighteen month experimental period was not made until after the market had closed.

Industrial and utility issues which advanced fractions to more than a point included American Waterworks 6s at 97, Armour 4s at 96¼, Goodyear 5s at 104⅝, International Hydro Electric 6s at 71½, International Telephone 5s at 75, National Dairy 3¾s at 102⅞, Pacific Gas 3¾s at 107½, Texas corporation 3½s at 105⅝, Western Union 5s of 1960 at 69⅜, and Bethlehem Steel 4¼s at 105⅜.

Treasury issues gained 1-32 to 6-32ds point. Foreign government liens were quiet.

Chicago Stocks.

Spurting $3.25 a share to a new 1938 peak of $23.25 a share, Zenith Radio led in a rally in the final hour of trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Thirteen new high marks for the year or longer were posted and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average of 30 stocks finished at 11.16, up 0.41, and the highest closing level since Nov. 27, 1937.

Of the 98 issues traded, 52 advanced, 17 declined, and 29 closed unchanged. Sales totaled 41,000 shares, compared with 43,000 Tuesday.

The Zenith has rallied from a low of $9.37½ last month. Usually only moderately traded here, Zenith was the most active issue of the session with sales totaling 7,650 shares. Other active issues included Marshall Field, up 50 cents to a new 1938 high of $11.75, and Bendix Aviation, up $1.12½ to a new high of $15.12½.

The exchange approved the listing of the common and preferred shares of International Harvester company and Dear & Co., the common shares of Acme Steel company, and 50,000 shares of additional common stock of Sears Roebuck & Co.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stock quotations yesterday were little changed. Harris Trust and Savings shares rose up $5 to $290 bid, $300 asked, although some dealers held the stock unchanged at $285, $295. Chicago Title and Trust stock advanced $2 a share to $152 bid, $156 asked. Other principal bank shares were generally unchanged, although one dealer quoted American National up $2 and Continental Illinois up $1.

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT PRICES.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 6.—[Special.]—Today's Benton Harbor fruit market prices: Red raspberries, 24 pint crates, $1.35 to $1.75, mostly $1.60 to $1.65; black raspberries, 24 pints, $1 to $1.25; dewberries, 16 quarts, $2 to $2.50; blueberries, 16 quarts, $3.75 to $4; sour cherries, 16 quarts, $1.65 to $1.80.

Commodities

Further price advances were recorded in yesterday's commodity trading for a number of basic raw materials. Rubber, silk, and hides rose substantially in the futures markets and the price of lead for immediate delivery was marked up another $3 a ton, the fifth advance made in the metal since May 27.

Rubber for future delivery was quoted .64 to .70 cent a pound above the preceding day's prices. Hide futures closed at gains of .40 to .52 cent a pound and silk was 2 to 3 cents a pound higher.

Lending strength to the hide market was the announcement by a leading lether manufacturer of an advance of ½ cent per foot in shoe side upper leather. Since the middle of June this type of lether has advanced 1½ cents a foot. In the Chicago spot market sales of 13,000 hides were reported at prices ½ cent a pound above last week's level. Sales by packing companies included 4,000 hides by Armour, 8,000 by Wilson and 1,000 by Cudahy.

The principal lead supplier joined in posting higher prices for the metal. Yesterday's $3 a ton boost placed the metal on the basis of 4.90 cents a pound in New York and 4.75 in East St. Louis.

The Dow-Jones index of eleven commodity future prices [based on 1924-'26 averages as 100] advanced to 50.46 from 49.70 on the preceding day.

WHEAT MARKETS RALLY; FIRST UPTURN IN WEEK

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Wednesday.	Tuesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .73⅜	$ .71¾	$1.25
Corn	.59⅛	.58¾	1.13¾
Oats	.26⅜	.26½	.39¼
Rye	.52¼	.51⅜	.90
*Soy beans	.83	.83⅛	1.13½

*October.

A strong rally in securities encouraged traders in sagging North American wheat markets yesterday, and, aided by short covering, they brought about an upturn which continued until the close. Net gains for the day on the Chicago Board of Trade were 1⅜ to 1¾ cents a bushel.

Corn and other grains were affected to some extent by the action of wheat, although price changes were confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel, except on rye, which was as much as ⅞ cent higher. Kansas City wheat futures were 1½ to 2 cents higher, and Winnipeg ⅝ to 1⅞ cents higher.

First Upturn in Week

Up to yesterday morning wheat futures in leading American markets had moved downward for six successive days, and the rally was expected by many brokers.

Receipts of cash wheat at primary and southwestern terminal markets yesterday dropped to approximately 6,000,000 bushels, making an estimated 23,000,000 bushels received in the last three days, or slightly less than during the same period in 1937. The slump in the arrivals yesterday was believed the result of smaller loadings at country elevators on July 4.

Rust Reports Received.

A few scattered reports of black rust were received from parts of the spring wheat belt, but the attacks are not regarded as serious as at this period a year ago, when rust in the eastern sections of the Dakotas and drouth in the west resulted in a sharp reduction in prospective yields.

Reports indicating as high as 1,000,000 bushels of cash corn had been sold for export had some effect on the future market. Weather conditions, however, were regarded as generally too favorable for the new crop to induce operators to become heavy buyers of futures.

FHA MORTGAGE INSURANCE MAY TOP BILLION IN '38

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Federal insurance of home mortgages by the Federal Housing administration may exceed a billion dollars this year, with a monthly record of $73,184,400 established in June, Stewart McDonald, FHA administrator, reported to President Roosevelt today.

The President expressed great satisfaction with the progress of mortgage insurance, McDonald said, especially in view of a showing that in the June total, which was 60 per cent greater than the insurance granted in June, 1937, approximately 70 per cent of the mortgages insured were on new home construction.

In addition, McDonald reported, the FHA handled 34,468 property improvement loans valued at $17,370,785 in June.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES BOOSTED TO NEW HIGHS

Cattle and hog producers were paid new high prices for the season in yesterday's lively trade at the stock yards. Top steers led the rise, soaring 50 cents, to $12.25 per 100 pounds, the highest price paid for cattle since Dec. 29. Best hogs rose 15 cents to $9.60, the highest level since March 18.

Packers paid from $9.50 to $11.75 for the bulk of the day's offerings of beef steers, a new 1938 high for the bulk. Advances in most steer classes ranged from 25 to 50 cents. Calves advanced 25 cents.

Upturns of 10 to 20 cents were general in the market for hogs.

BUSINESS TOLD IT MUST EXPECT MORE REFORMS

Defects Are Cited by R. C. Patterson.

If the traditional American system of private enterprise is to be maintained, business must look to government to take affirmative action through reforms to remedy the defects in the business machinery, Richard C. Patterson Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, yesterday told the Merchants and Manufacturers' club in the Merchandise Mart. Patterson, recently appointed to the position, formerly was executive vice president of the National Broadcasting company.

Asserting that America's rapid progress has resulted from competitive efforts to gain larger markets by offering better service and by producing better goods at lower prices, Patterson said that nevertheless the advance has been retarded by certain defects, which became more apparent in depression periods.

Price-fixing Unwarranted.

He said that at such times there are insistent demands from some who believe that the proper function of a democratic government is to supercede the judgments of competitive, private markets with its own judgments. Others maintain that the proper function of government in such periods should include the fixing of prices and control of production.

He said such measures are unwarranted and that he is convinced the majority of leaders in both government and business are agreed that the proper function of government is to preserve the conditions which enable business to operate fairly and freely in an open market.

"The implications here are plain," Patterson said. "It is the responsibility of government to outlaw all kinds of manipulation; to prevent frauds, and to preserve a business structure that is genuinely competitive."

Cites Wages and Hours Law.

Patterson referred to the fair labor standard act—the wages and hours law—as an example "of government action which is essential if we are to preserve our system of private enterprise."

Describing the workings of the law, he said it will help to define the boundaries of free competition.

"The purpose of the law is to make it possible for business to compete freely on a higher plane," he asserted.

Commenting on the investigation of business practices to be made by the national economic committee, of which he is a member, Patterson said "it will not be a witch burning expedition."

WOLF ASKS SEC TO REVOKE HIS DEALER LICENSE

J. A. Wolf, president of the Chicago securities firm bearing his name, which for several weeks has been the subject of an investigation by the Securities and Exchange commission, appeared yesterday at a public hearing in the SEC's Chicago office and asked that his license as a securities dealer be revoked.

At earlier hearings conducted by SEC Examiner Arthur Boroughf, several buyers of fractional securities interests in oil and gas rights sold by the company had testified that the firm represented that the return on such securities would be larger than they received. Questioned yesterday, Wolf refused to admit or deny the truth of such testimony.

NAME BARTLETT FOR N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE POST

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Edward E. Bartlett Jr. was proposed today by the nominating committee of the New York Stock exchange for election as chairman of the board of governors to fill the unexpired term of William Martin Jr., who took over the position of permanent paid president of the exchange on July 1. The election will be held July 20.

Bartlett is a special partner in the firm of E. A. Pierce & Co. and is a member of the so-called progressive group which has favored changes in the exchange which would end the conflict with the Securities and Exchange commission.

Insurance Investment Differences.

Insurance companies differ the same as individuals at times in their selections of investments. A summary of activities of only the three biggest security buyers illustrates the point.

Prudential Life Insurance company was the only one of the three to buy more government obligations last year than in 1936—$227,548,000 against $167,635,000. Equitable Life Assurance society, biggest of the three in investment totals, cut purchases of governments from $490,387,000 in 1936 to $300,207,000 in 1937. Metropolitan Life bought only $237,237,000 of governments last year, compared with $366,404,000 in 1936.

Equitable purchased $66,132,000 in railroad obligations last year, compared with $43,703,000 in 1936. Metropolitan took $39,184,000, compared with $28,735,000. Prudential, however, bought only $23,651,000 in railroad issues, compared with $33,236,000 in 1936.

Metropolitan cut utility buying from $155,688,000 in 1936 to $81,664,000 last year, and Prudential made a reduction from $93,987,000 to $52,124,000, but Equitable stepped up its utility purchases from $91,853,000 to $141,224,000.

Only in purchases of industrial securities did the three companies follow a like path. Prudential increased this type of purchases from $40,457,000 in 1936 to $75,502,000 last year. Metropolitan bought $104,195,210 in industrials, compared with $53,741,000 in 1936, and Equitable purchases were $28,993,000, against $16,685,000.

DRY WEATHER AID TO FIELD WORK IN EAST GRAIN BELT

Wheat Harvest in South Nears Completion.

Dry and warm weather was favorable for field work and the growth of grain crops in much of the eastern and south central district of the corn and wheat district, the weather bureau's weekly crop summary said yesterday. It is becoming too dry in parts of the central and southern plains, but, on the other hand, it was too wet in some north central and a few other areas, with damage from excessive rainfall in northern Iowa, northeastern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Indiana.

Harvesting of winter wheat is practically completed in the extreme south. In some northern areas rains delayed harvest, the report said. Much of the spring wheat crop is in good to excellent condition. A great deal of hay was damaged by rain in northern areas. Harvesting of oats made good progress in the south and is ripening in central areas. Corn made good to excellent growth. Much is in the roasting ear stage in Oklahoma.

Conditions by States.

ILLINOIS—Much damage done to grain and truck crops by floods in restricted areas. Condition and progress of corn fair to very good; considerable laid by. Winter wheat condition fair; badly lodged and tangled in some areas by rain. Oats average; some fields flattened; some red rust; some cut for hay. Soy beans mostly average to good.

INDIANA—Winter wheat cutting started in north. Threshing returns in south show yields average to very good; quality fair. Condition of corn very good except in flooded areas. Flood damage to crops was very extensive and very great along the upper and middle Wabash and upper East White and West White rivers from Indianapolis south. Farm work at standstill in central two-thirds of state.

Floods Hit Iowa Corn.

IOWA—Much crop destruction by floods in Rock and Big Sioux river valleys. Corn made excellent growth, though leaves rolled in afternoons in the dry, hot localities in southwest. About half laid by in south and west. Corn still backward in northeast section. Oats and barley further damaged by lodging. Oats harvest well under way in south central and southwest where crop ripened prematurely.

KANSAS—Winter wheat harvest 50 to 75 per cent completed except in extreme northwest, where about 33 per cent has been done. Corn making rapid growth and some is tassing.

OKLAHOMA—Threshing of small grain general. Progress of corn fair to very good but beginning to need rain in scattered localities. Much in roasting ear stage.

NEBRASKA—Progress and condition of corn mostly excellent, but needs rain in some localities. Small grains ripened rapidly. Harvest general.

Insect Damage Reported.

NORTH DAKOTA—Much damage reported from grasshoppers and mormon crickets. Winter rye ripening. Spring wheat in milk to dough stage; condition mostly very good to excellent. Barley generally a good crop; early planted ripening rapidly.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Second cultivation of corn completed; much laid by in east, knee to hip high. Winter wheat and rye ripening in east. Spring wheat, barley, and oats in dough stage; ripening fast.

MICHIGAN—Wheat about ready to cut. Oats headed in south. Corn somewhat behind season.

MONTANA—Winter wheat ripening in northwest. Spring wheat heading. Hay cut two or three weeks ago still unstacked; much rotted and all poor quality because of continued rains.

OPPOSES SPRING WHEAT FARMERS' EXEMPTION PLEA

Washington, D. C., July 6.—(AP)—H. R. Tolley, agricultural adjustment administrator, declared today that failure of producers of northwest spring wheat to reduce their plantings would "pave the way for a breakdown" of the entire wheat program devised by the AAA to reduce wheat surpluses.

Tolley spoke in connection with a request of spring wheat farmers that they not be required to reduce operations for next year's crop to qualify for benefit in payments. Wheat growers as a whole may be asked to plant about 30 per cent less wheat for the 1939 crop.

The spring wheat growers asked exemption on the grounds there was no surplus of hard red spring and durum wheat.

"This proposal," Tolley said, "was carefully considered by the AAA and members of congress, but was abandoned as not well suited for inclusion in legislation for the protection of wheat farmers."
